

School Teachers Can't Serve As Directors On Newton Playgrounds

Civil Service Director Makes Definite Ruling

This morning Recreation Director Wilson received notice from Ulysses Lupien, State Director of Civil Service, that seventeen school teachers who have served for years as supervisors and directors on Newton playgrounds are ineligible, and cannot longer be employed in these capacities. Recently Lupien asked for a list of employees in the Newton Recreation Department and called attention to a State law, passed in 1934, which forbids temporary employment in public service to persons who are regularly employed by the State, county, cities or towns.

Of the seventeen teachers, who have been employed on Newton playgrounds, fourteen held key positions, and Director Wilson states that the replacing of them by inexperienced personnel will disrupt the work on Newton playgrounds this year. Some of the teachers affected have engaged counsel and have asked for a hearing before the Civil Service Commission.

Fires Shots At Armory Intruder

Alden Dinsmore, a National Guard sergeant, serving as watchman at the State Armory in West Newton, heard someone attempting to force open a side door at the armory on Saturday night. As Dinsmore reached the place, he observed a man running down the ramp leading from the door. The watchman fired several shots from his revolver after the fleeing intruder, but the man made his escape across Washington st. and along the B & A tracks.

Chief Hughes Acts To Reduce Fixing

Chief of Police Michael Hughes announced on Monday that he had ordered a new system placed in effect for the purpose of lessening "fixing" of traffic law violations by motor vehicle operators. In accordance with the Chief's order any member of the Newton police department who apprehends a motorist violating a traffic law must fill out a complaint card against the offender and deposit it in a box at police headquarters when he concludes his tour of duty on the day or night he observes the law violation. This box will be locked and the only keys to it will be in the possession of Chief Hughes, and Inspectors Burke and Hammell of the Traffic Bureau.

Each policeman will be given a supply of cards of two types; one for cases calling for a warning; the other for violations calling for complaints and court action. In cases calling for court action, the complaining policeman must go through with the case. The new cards will cover all types of automobile law violations except improper or illegal parking.

It is expected the new system will tend to discourage continual "fixing" on the part of some policemen who indulged too much in this practice.

Aldermen Hold Up Payment for Sand

The payment of $1367.44 to the Riverside Sand and Gravel Company for sand supplied to the Newton St. Department in 1939 has again been held up by action of Aldermen Inches and Barwise. At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on June 24 the Board voted 10 to 8 to pay the bill. Inches and Barwise voted with the majority after the former had strongly objected to paying the bill. Subsequently both gave formal notice to the City Clerk that they would move for reconsideration at the next meeting of the Board.

The Riverside company had the contract for furnishing sand to the city during most of 1938 and until April 1, 1939, when its contract expired, at $1.17 a cubic yard. After the contract expired the company continued to sell sand to the city until the new contract went into effect in August, 1939. When the bills for this sand were presented to Comptroller of Accounts Daniel White, he refused to authorize its payment because in the interim between the awarding of the 1938 contract and August, 1939 the price of sand had fallen and the comptroller contended that the sand delivered between April and August (after the contract had expired) should have been billed at 95 cents a cubic yard, the then market price. Mayor Goldard, however, after consulting with City Solicitor Bartlett, recommended that the bill be paid. At the meeting on June 24th Aldermen Inches asserted that the delay in signing a new contract for sand in 1939 before the old contract had expired, and the resultant high price at which the sand was delivered for several months after the contract had expired, was evidence of the outrageous methods the preceding administration had tolerated in the purchase of sand and gravel for the city.

Newton Boy Saves Two from Drowning

Paul Leahy, 14, of Aberdeen st., Newton Highlands, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leahy, saved two Braintree men from drowning last Friday when their dory, which was overloaded with clams, foundered some distance off Kimball Beach, Hingham. The Leahy family has a summer cottage at that beach and early Friday morning the cries for assistance from the two clam diggers were heard by the cottagers. Young Leahy rowed out in a small boat and rescued the two men who were clinging to the side of their capsized dory.

Again this summer, the Newton Federation of Women's Club is throwing a challenge to all of its members, and through them to the entire Garden City, RAGWEED, a very inconspicuous plant yet one which is insidious to the health of millions of people, is now nearly ready to blossom. Before this happens, the Conservation Committee of the Federation under the leadership of its chairman, Mrs. Gordon Heath of 69 Dickerman rd., Newton Highlands has planned a campaign against this nuisance.

To become ragweed conscious one must be familiar with the plant. To this end, bulletins bearing a picture of the weed in blossom, together with means for its eradication, will be posted on boards and in store windows in each village. Both of the Newton theatres are cooperating and will show this on their screens. During the week of July 8th, look for this information at the Paramount Theatre at Newton Corner.

Each club woman has been urged to look in her own yard to see if any has taken root since last summer. A year ago the writer, although sure she would find none, complied with the request, and found considerable of it in various parts of her yard. This year none has been found in the places where it was pulled up by the roots. The month of July is one in which to fight this enemy of public health and comfort, as the pollen will be ready to be spread by the wind by the last of the month.

Further information towards committee cooperation in this campaign will be published later.

A Home Hygiene course to: Catherine McDonald, Jeanne McPherson, Barbara Merrigan, Anne Murphy, Ann Murphy, Denise Murphy, Irene Nolan, Barbara O'Leary, Florence Panaggio, Jennie Pellegrino, Bernice Poutas, Mary Patricia O'Neill, Barbara Saunders, Rita Shinnick, Eleanor Thompson, Anna Traverse, Rosalind Welsh, Joan Rogers, Teresa Bradley, Frances Brown, Pauline Calnan, Catherine Carmody, Doris Cavanaugh, Mary Clark, Elizabeth Colletti, Lucy Colletti, Geneva Crips, Patricia Cunningham, Jeanne Delaney, Mary Delaney, Teresa Gubbins, Rita Heinrich, Agnes Kelley, Katherine Kelley, Mildred Kelley, Dolorita Leone, Catherine MacCormack and Dorothy MacLean.

At the Emerson School, 9 pupils in the Americanization Class received certificates in the First Aid course, presented at the graduation exercises by Mrs. James Dunlop, secretary of the Newton Chapter American Red Cross: Mrs. Bertha Hartwich, Mrs. Christine Tocci, Mrs. Josephine Leeber, Mrs. Armavim Maldonian, Mrs. Feodosia Shelarovich, Mrs. Zavel Asadorian, Mrs. Mary Di Fazio, Mrs. Palma Sanerica and Mrs. Lucy Davidson.

Classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick and in First Aid will be resumed in the fall, beginning September 17. These courses instruct in how to care for those who need nursing and care on account of illness, how to care for babies, and on home hygiene and sanitation, and give an understanding of mental and emotional reactions and habits which make for better health. The course in First Aid is invaluable for all who would know what to do in emergency. It is known that the knowledge of how to direct the moving of injured persons has been the means of saving many lives, as is also the knowledge of how to aid the injured in the first critical few moments which may mean their very lives. Any residents of Newton and vicinity who would like to take these courses may apply at Chapter Headquarters, 12 Austin st., Newtonville, telephone Newton North 2717.

July 4th Celebration Is Feature of the Week At Camp Frank A. Day

Horribles Parade, Races, Historical Naval Ship Floats, and Huge Display of Fireworks Makes Busy Day at "Y" Camp

Activities at Camp Frank A. Day opened on Wednesday, June 26 and have gradually increased to the high point of the annual Fourth of July celebration when a full day was ushered in with reveille at the usual hour of seven. The morning witnessed a grotesque and laughable Horribles Parade. Each tent in the four divisions of the Camp displayed its efforts at attiring its members in the most outlandish costumes to be found in the environs of the Camp. Dictators, animals from the jungles of Africa, clowns, and characters from the popular comic strips were the chief selections for the participants.

The afternoon was featured by a Water Carnival with competitive and comedy races the order of the day. A nightgown race, and watermelon race were the most popular events of the meet and spirited competition resulted from the desire of the boys to win the watermelon, which would be served at the winning tent's table on Saturday night. Results of the meet will be announced next week.

Supper in the grove for the many parents of the boys as guests has always struck a popular reaction and this year was no different. The capable chefs; Nils Johnson and George Roth aided by the kitchen man, George Haywood were busy all afternoon preparing the repast.

Camp Day has always been famous for the remarkable fireworks display brought to this part of the country for the enjoyment of the camper parents and guests from around the lake. But this year guests from as far away as Boston and Providence came to watch the truly amazing display. As last year Director Clyde G. Hess and Associate Evan Johnson were in active charge of setting up the display and setting off the set pieces.

A new note was evidenced this year when all guests and campers went to the waterfront before the fireworks display and witnessed a patriotic pageant of floats assembled by the boys during the three days preceding the display. Famous ships from the history of the United States was the theme of this event, and the highlight was the battle between the miniature Monitor and Merrimack in the fast fading evening with Roman Candles serving as the weapons.

Late hour was the culmination of the Camp Day gesture to the natal day of the Nation, and welcome was the news given by the Chief that the next day would be a Lazy Day on which the boys would not have to arise until nine o'clock.

League competition will begin next Monday in the sports of baseball, basketball, volleyball, track, canoeing and swimming. For a week tryouts have been conducted by the coaches in the various sports with the purpose to grade the boys for even distribution of the athletic strength of the camps.

Mr. Roberts, a teacher at Falmouth Junior High School, has again returned to head the Craft Shop which he has brought to the forefront in the past three days. The numerous articles which are now in the process will soon be gifts from the boys to many parents, brothers and sisters. One boy has already made gifts for each of his parents as well as two brothers and one sister.

The Ranger Camp is a new division of the Camp with an aim to supply the older boys with a camp of their own in which they might add to their initiative by fashioning their own program of activities. In the form of an experiment for Camp Day, already a splendid reaction is felt as a result of the efforts of these older boys. Pres. L. H. Coan is the director of this new group, and fresh from winning new laurels at Amherst College this past year he has devoted sincere efforts to make this new venture a success. Coan has been awarded a fellowship at Amherst for the coming year, and will combine coaching duties with study.

Professor Daye has returned to head the Nature program of the Camp, and bids fair to surpass his record of last year when a high enrollment in his department tested the facilities of his staff. Hikes, field trips in which the varied trees of the region are identified, and laboratory work have contributed much to the appeal of this program. Perhaps one of the most practical phases of the program is that which is called, "Seeing Stars." After taps those boys selected by the Professor go to the observatory and there are taught the many constellations and planets, a series of lessons in which the boys can pass along to others who might be untutored in astronomy.

Another veteran who has returned is Dick Hess, the commodore of the newly-enlarged fleet. Two sandpipers were purchased by the Camp Committee this season and find ready sailing enthusiasts to test their merits in the winds of Lake Quacumasset. A total of nine sailboats make the Camp Day fleet one of the largest of boys' camps on the Atlantic Coast.

Other veteran counselors who have returned to the Camp are: C. Evan Johnson, associate-director, who is serving for his twelfth consecutive season. Mr. Johnson directed the Newton High hockey team to the championship of the Suburban League this past winter.

Thomas F. O'Donnell, assistant director, who returns for his seventh year with Camp Day. He is a teacher-coach at Dedham High School.

Gardner Hess who has been at Camp Day as camper and counselor longer than any other with the exception of the Director, Clyde G. Hess. He will enter Cornell University this September to prepare for the study of medicine.

Walter Ward of Belmont and a member of the Class of 1942 at Harvard University, is in charge of the bank this year. He is serving his second year at Camp Day, although he has been in camp work for several seasons.

Warren Kelley of Watertown, who played on the Tufts College freshman football team last Fall, is now in his fourth year as camper and counselor. He is chairman of the basketball committee.

Duncan Whitehill, Harvard Dental School and Arthur Wright, a Senior at Tufts College are two other men who have served many seasons at Camp Day. Both were at one time campers, and have come up through the years to now act as counselors for their second consecutive year.

Arthur Barnard of Marshfield, Long Island; James Martin of Newton, and Albert Shapalis of Newton are acting as companion counselors for their second consecutive year. William McLellan, graduate of Hebron, has returned to Camp as companion counselor for his third season.

New men to Camp Day with their home town or college are: William R. Bell, physician, Yale University Medical School, Edward Keenan, Jr., University of Vermont, Robert G. Hayton, Tufts College, Everett Bauman, Harvard Graduate School, Ben E. Alexander, Yale, home in Hawaii, Stanley Thompson, William and Mary, Edward Frye, State Teachers' College, Lewis W. McKinney—Yale University, Stephen Randall—Earlham (Ind.) College, E. George Alcott—Tufts College, Alexander Andrews—Tufts College, Warren Tepper—Yale University, James D. Clare—Amherst College, Robert Meyers—Head of Music, Cambridge, Ohio Schools, Donald Weeks, Newton High graduate, Walter Greany, Newton, Superintendent of Grounds, Frank Brock—Newton High, Kitchen, Carter Munsie—Exeter Academy—Kitchen.

Mr. Brooks is now serving his third term as a member of the Council, and has had an excellent record. The district includes Newton, parts of Middlesex and Norfolk counties and Wards 4, 5, 21 and 22 of Boston.

A RESTRICTIVE RULING

The ruling by Director Lupien of the State Civil Service Commission that "persons employed by the Commonwealth, county, city or town are not eligible for 'temporary appointment,' although restrictive, is undoubtedly the correct interpretation of the State law. This particular restriction prevents the employment of playground supervisors and directors who are employed as teachers in the Newton schools. During recent years Newton teachers have proved themselves to be capable of continuing their service to Newton youths in recreational work. Fifteen of the eighteen teachers thus employed hold key positions. Recreation Commissioner F. E. Wilson, in pointing out that these teachers are entitled to a hearing, has no choice other than to appoint new employees to these positions at once, rather than to wait until such hearings are held and then be forced to replace the teachers with other appointees after the playground season has gotten under way. Director Lupien has indicated in previous decisions that he will enforce the law. From the standpoint of the merit system the restriction probably should be enforced but for Newton's benefit and the best interests of the youth of Newton it would be better to provide for a gradual replacement of these efficient playground workers. Were the State Legislature in session this year the matter could probably be taken care of in such a manner. This is but one of numerous situations which are frequently arising where the disadvantage of biennial sessions of the legislature is clearly discernible.

THREE USEFUL CITIZENS

The passing of three outstanding citizens of Newton this week records the completion of lives of service worthy of note. Dr. Levi Parker of Newton Highlands was a pioneer in the use of anesthesia in the extraction of teeth and one of the first students of medicine to specialize in this branch of dentistry. Through years of service, which incidentally is being continued by his son and grandson, Dr. Parker's kindly personality and modest estimate of his own abilities were chief characteristics of this life which counted off 97 milestones. His daily admonition was "love everybody and love everything." What a better world this could be were we all to exemplify this motto.

Matt B. Jones of Newton Centre crowded into far fewer years of service administrative ability of exceptional importance. He stood at the helm of the vast New England Telephone and Telegraph Company through the constantly growing years of expansion. Yet, despite the important duties which were his, he found time to devote to his community as an alderman, to engage in historical writing and other activities which were of interest to him.

Frank A. Mason, also of Newton Centre, was of a Newton family which contributed much to the development of the city. Descendants of early Massachusetts settlers the Mason family has resided in Newton many years. Mr. Mason was born in Newton and on the completion of his education became the first real coach of Harvard football, a sport in which he was proficient. The Mason school at Newton Centre was named in honor of his father, a noted educator. On being admitted to the bar Frank Mason devoted his career to the practice of law, specializing on land court practice.

In the passing of these men Newton has lost exceptionally useful and honored citizens.

Powers' Paragraphs

In this week's Graphic is a letter from a West Newton resident who suggests that men on relief who must perform work for the city be employed to cut the grass borders along Newton's highways. This suggestion will meet with the approval of many. The failure on the part of the city over a period of many years to cut the grass (or weeds) on the borders along public sidewalks in this city has been to Newton's credit and has brought annually adverse criticism from non-residents passing through this community. They contrast the well-kept lawns on private properties in the Newtons with the unsightly street borders.

A large percentage of Newton residents cut the grass (or weeds) on the sidewalk borders in front of their homes to remove a constant eyesore. Other residents and property owners have not done this, and there is no good reason why they should. It is the duty of the city to do so.

When the war was a boy and youth, the Street Department of Newton designated many of its employees as "section men." Each of these laborers had a specified territory in which it was his duty to keep the streets clean and the grass along the borders cut. In those dear old "horse and buggy days" the "section men" had to spend a considerable portion of their working hours following the horses, but not to lose money on pari-mutuel gambling. The English sparrows, of course, gave much assistance in keeping the highways free from litter.

With the supplanting of horses by motor vehicles, the Newton Street Department dispensed largely with the "section men" except in business areas, and the tidy appearance which characterized Newton streets 30 and more years ago was succeeded by neglected borders and less cleaned highways. It is about time the city resumed the proper care of the borders along our public streets.

The protest of Alderman John Temperley (published in this week's Graphic) against the use of Newton playgrounds by carnivals will receive the endorsement of a majority of our citizens. The writer several years ago in this column made a similar protest. As Alderman Temperley states, these carnivals are owned by non-residents of this city, and in a large percentage of cases the concessionaires are not even residents of this state. Most of them feature gambling devices to get money from such persons who attend. They get on our public playgrounds through the medium of some local organization which gets a sum of money for obtaining the permit. It is a cheap way for any organization to secure money and most societies are above resorting to this practice. Several years ago the then Board of Aldermen agreed not to grant any more permits for carnivals in Newton. The present Board of Aldermen might well emulate this.

And the Recreation Department of Newton should not grant any permits for such use of our playgrounds. As a matter of fact, this department, even though it were so disposed, has

Four-Day Carnival At Newton Upper Falls

The St. Michele Archangel Benevolent Society of Newton Upper Falls celebrated their 13th anniversary with a 4 day carnival on the Newton Upper Falls playground from Friday, June 28, to Monday, July 1. Games, amusements and sports were enjoyed with a ball game on Sunday afternoon between Newton Upper Falls and Watertown with the score Watertown 15, Newton 12.

Mr. Antonio Accettullo, president of the Society was assisted by the following committee: Carnival chairman, Cosmo Covino; secretary, Romeo Garafalo; Frank Massella of Needham; treasurer, also Luigi Addonizio, Michele Cericola, Gaetano Valente, Vincenzo Aquilino, Luigi Tiberi, Joseph Valente, Donato Dedda, Antonio Dielcio, Giovanni Geraci, Luigi Conte, Francesco Sorrentino, Ernesto Indresano, Giorgio Rizzo, Giuseppe Picariello, Natale Scarcello, Michael Leprioro and Mrs. Romeo Garafalo.

On Sunday a solemn high mass in honor of their patron saint, St. Michele Archangel was celebrated at 10 a. m. at the Mary Immaculate of Lourdes' Church attended by delegations from Boston, Connecticut and Rhode Island. At 2:30 p. m. a parade led by Mr. Accettullo marched through Elliot, Chestnut, Summer, High, Oak sts. to the Playground on Chestnut st. In the line of march were delegations from the various women's auxiliaries among whom were the Italian Society Maria S. del Carmine; Italian Society San Giovanni and the American Legion Auxiliary Bugle and Drum Corps, Post 48, led by Miss Mary Foley of Newton Upper Falls as Drum Major.

Following the parade exercises were held at the playground with Mrs. Raymond Capobianco as mistress of ceremonies assisted by the Past President, Mr. Leonard Masterpreire.

The ceremonies opened by the band playing "America" followed by the salute to the flag by all present led by Mrs. Capobianco who then introduced the following speakers: Mrs. Concetta Finelli of Newton, Mrs. Concetta Amicangelo of Newton Centre, Mr. Antonio Cocco of Waverley, Mr. Nicolò Palmieri of Boston, Mr. John Amicangelo, of Newton Centre, Mr. Antonio Nicolò of Watertown and Mr. Loretto Bianchi who brought their greetings and gifts from their respective societies. Words of appreciation were then spoken by the president, Mr. Antonio Accettullo of the not the authority to permit the use of playgrounds for the sale of food, operation of sound wagons, or other activities common to carnivals. This power is vested in the Board of Aldermen and the Health Department, as Alderman Temperley suggests.

If those citizens of Newton who want fireworks, bombs and other explosives prohibited in this city, desire to use a practical way of eliminating this annual and expensive nuisance, let them ask our Representatives in the Legislature to work for a state law which will outlaw such promiscuous use of explosives which are misnamed "fireworks." To assure the passage of such a law, a State organized campaign would have to be conducted. Attempts have been made in past years to have such a law enacted, but they were always unsuccessful. It is probable, however, that a majority of the people of Massachusetts favor such a law, but it will take co-operative effort by organizations all over the Commonwealth to win over the organized minority which has opposed attempts in the past to taboo the so-called fireworks.

Last Sunday afternoon we made our annual pilgrimage to the Souhegan River valley in southern New Hampshire to feast our eyes on the magnificent laurel which grows so profusely in that region. We were rewarded by enjoying the most gorgeous display of this beautiful shrub which we have seen in many years. It is a wonder that the laurel continues to survive. For twelve months in the year truckloads of laurel leaves are brought into the Boston area almost every week, and to most large cities in New England by men who pick millions of laurel branches for florists. The latter use the laurel leaves for a backing for floral tributes at funerals, and for decorative purposes. It was urged some years ago that Massachusetts and New Hampshire pass laws prohibiting the use of laurel leaves for these purposes. Such laws must be passed soon or Northern New England will see the practical extermination of this beautiful shrub in its wild state.

The action of the governments of Brazil, Argentine and Chile (the three most important South American republics) and Uruguay in addition, in refusing to participate in the conference of American republics which will be held at Havana, is conclusive proof that the U.S.A. will encounter serious difficulties in preventing aggressive moves by Germany, Italy and Japan in the Western Hemisphere.

The most interesting political news we have read in several days is that one from Texas which alleges that numerous Democrats in that State who are pro-Roosevelt, will advocate and work for the election of Willkie for re-election. We know some Republicans in Massachusetts who will find difficulty in understanding this complex of those Texas Democrats.

A charge against Spinazzola was returned by Framingham of permitting an unauthorized person to operate his car was filed. A car driven by Spinazzola was stopped on June 7 by Inspector Hammel for speeding. Tosti was in the car and Spinazzola claimed that he was driving on Tosti's license. Sunbeam Chats

My goodness! yesterday was Fourth of July. Brother said Jimmy, next door, had a lot of firecrackers to make a big noise with. I'm glad I went to Grandpa's 'cause I hate big noises. They scare me awful—wonder why they have to do that on the Fourth and no other day? Daddy says a lot of little boys and girls get hurt badly. Seems foolish to me. Shooting seems awful foolish anyhow. Such a waste. Guess I'm not old enough to "prelate the good it does!"

The majority of the storekeepers of Newton and vicinity have agreed to close their stores on every evening at 6 o'clock, except Friday and Saturday evenings, during the hot summer months from June 22 to September 1.

Henry E. Bothfeld of Newton and a member of the Harwood Mfg. Co., and Miss Haidee Soule, daughter of Captain E. C. Soule of Waban Park, Newton, were married Thursday evening at the bride's residence. The bride is one of the most popular young ladies of the Channing Unitarian Society, and a Smith College graduate. Rev. P. B. Hornbrook officiated. The annual regatta of the Newton Boat Club will take place on June 27 over the Islington course on the Charles at Auburndale. The event promises to be of more than usual interest this year. The races will include four-oared, single sculls, pleasure boat—lady and gentleman; robbery canoe, birch-bark canoe, and wash tubs. The "White Swan" has been engaged for the occasion and band will provide music.

The Newtonville M. E. Sunday School held their annual picnic last Saturday. Two large barges full of bright and smiling faces took the children to Waltham where the "White Swan" was waiting to receive them, and the party after a pleasant ride up the river, landed at Lily Point and each one spent the rest of the day as they chose. They all returned in the evening tired but happy. The only incident that tended to mar the day's enjoyment was the sudden immersion of Mr. Sylvester, who fell in the river while attempting to shift from one boat to another.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night Samuel L. Powers appeared for the New England Telephone Co. and objected to any further extension of electric car lines in Newton, using the overhead trolley system, as it would interfere more with the operation of telephones. Mayor Hyde and many other residents of Newton Highlands and Newton Centre appeared and objected to the use of Lake ave. or Beacon st., west of Centre st. by a street railway.

George W. Morse of Newtonville asked for a permit by the Central Street Railway to run their cars along Walnut st. from Newtonville to Newton Highlands and toward Needham. He said the incorporators of this railway and the Newton Street Railway are the same, and the new company was formed to obtain what the Newton Street Railway could not effect, as the Boston & Albany Railroad would not permit the latter company from crossing the B. & A. tracks at Newtonville, and the Railroad Commissioners had sustained the refusal of the B. & A. company.

Members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra gave a concert in Elliot Hall, Newton, last evening, and as usual only a small audience was present. Newton people will not attend local entertainments unless they are for some home charity. It is doubtful if even Patti could draw a large audience here, unless she came to sing for some local charity.

Star Market Holds Annual Outing At Wayland

The Star Market employees enjoyed their annual summer outing last Wednesday, June 26, at Seller's Ten Acres in Wayland. A gala afternoon and evening of fun and frolic was enjoyed by more than 250 employees. After an appetizing buffet luncheon, the afternoon was given over to games, sports and contests, with many valuable prizes being awarded to contest winners.

At 7 o'clock, all the merry-makers sat down to one of Seller's famous Turkey dinners to which, appetites whetted by the afternoon, they did full justice. Informal speechmaking and gay banter enlivened every minute of the feast. A gay evening of dancing completed the happy day's events.

The attendance this year exceeded all previous records, due to the opening of new stores and expanding business conditions.

Miss Heinrich, Miss Harper, Mr. Ewing, Mr. Conzo, Mrs. Fantasia, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Dozoi, and Mr. Diran, functioning as the General Committee, and ably assisted by numerous sub-committees, handled all details to perfection.

Letters To The Editor

PROTESTS CARNIVALS

The following letter from Alderman John Temperley is a protest against the use of Newton playgrounds by carnival owners who obtain such use by getting permits through the co-operation of local organizations:

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic:
Generally it is agreed that our playgrounds (of which Newton has more than 500 acres) should be used as nearly 100 per cent as possible. Thereby villages specifically, and the whole city benefit. In past years the Recreation department has carried out many admirable events—some all-city, some in certain districts. They have been a delight to juveniles and intrigued the interests of adults and friends. Especially has this been so in summer when outdoor activities are run at high gear.

My attention has been called to an item in the Waltham News-Tribune of July 1, which stated briefly that residents of Newton Upper Falls were taking exceptions to certain uses being made of the local playground. For the past few years in parts of the city the Recreation department has granted the use of playgrounds to local Benevolent organizations for the conduct of field days or carnivals. It appears that many of the activities and amusements common at such affairs had anything but local color and were not promoted by the societies, but were in control of outside interests. Perhaps direction of the works may go far to explain why the programs have puzzled staid people of the communities in which the shows have been staged.

One finds that some citizens fail to understand wherein playground values are enhanced by conducting purely business ventures on them (summers included) such as selling cutlery sharpeners, metal plate tags (name stamped while you wait) glass cutters, pitch penny boards (gambling or game of skill, if you wish to name it) and more of the same. Perhaps a part explanation may be had when it appears that such attractions are operated by concessionaires, very few of them local people, mostly from outside our city and distant states as disclosed by number plates on trucks.

While permits for these politely-termed carnivals are granted solely by the Recreation department that body seemingly devotes scant oversight to the program while the permit is in force. This function (oversight) has fallen largely to the Health and Police bodies whose members carry on as discretion and duty prompt.

JOHN TEMPERLEY.

The Newton Board of the Boston Real Estate Exchange held its annual meeting a few days ago, following a dinner at the Woodland Golf Club and after receiving reports from officers and committees on the activities of the past year it elected officers for the fiscal year beginning July 1 as follows: Chairman, Thomas V. Cleveland; Vice-Chairman, Paul R. Tucker; Secretary-Treasurer, Kenneth B. Hastings.

Mr. Cleveland is one of the prominent suburban real estate brokers of Greater Boston. He graduated from Dartmouth in 1921 and has been in the real estate business in Newton and Wellesley since 1926. He lives in Newtonville with his wife and three children.

Mr. Tucker has lived in Brookline practically all of his life but now lives in Newton with his wife and two children. He has been in the real estate business for many years, being for the past dozen years or more a co-owner of the well-known long-established organization of Henry W. Savage, Inc., with headquarters at Coolidge Corner, Brookline.

Kenneth Hastings was born, attended school and has lived all his life in Newton. He is the sole owner of the business of Edmunds & Byfield, one of the oldest organizations in this part of the country, it having been organized in 1891 by Wyley S. Edmunds, which in turn took over an established insurance business which has been running for several decades. Mr. Hastings is not only well known in the community because of his real estate activities but also as a fisherman.

Old Fourth of July Posters At Bond's

A most interesting display of posters, handbills and fliers are being displayed in the window of Bond's Convenience Shop, Union st., Newton Centre.

They advertise 4th of July celebrations conducted by the Newton Centre Improvement Association in the late 80's and the 90's. The names of many youngsters, now mature respected citizens, appear as participants in various contests, names that are familiar to Newton residents.

One huge poster calls attention to a monster celebration on July 4, 1875, at Newton Upper Falls, commemorating the "99th anniversary of our independence."

The program of events is listed, and includes parades, bicycle races, boat races, contests, etc. A balloon ascension seems to be the main event. It is stated in large print at the bottom of the poster that the event will be held on the fourth "if pleasant, if not, on the day before."

The collection is the property of Miss Edith Read who has kindly loaned it to Bond's.

Recent Engagements

Dr. and Mrs. Harry R. Friedman of 50 Grafton st., Newton Centre, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jane Friedman to Sylvan E. Myers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan E. Myers of Norfolk, and Virginia Beach, Va. Miss Friedman was graduated from the Erskine School in the class of 1940. Mr. Myers was graduated from Harvard College in the class of 1939.

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kingsdale of Brookline of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Selma Roslyn Kingsdale to Stanley Lewenberg of 139 Grant ave., Newton Centre, son of Mrs. Rachel Lewenberg and the late Solomon Lewenberg. Miss Kingsdale is a graduate of the Connecticut College for Women, 1938, and also attended Simmons College School of Social Work. Mr. Lewenberg attended Tufts College and graduated from Boston University Law School in 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sleight Jones of Brookline have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Cynthia Jones, to Galen William Clevenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Howell Clevenger of Newtonville and Centreville, Mass. Miss Jones was graduated from Smith College and the Erskine School in Boston. Mr. Clevenger is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Newton Murder Case In Scandal

Among the cases included in the report of the Pardon Probe Commission, which was published on Wednesday is that of Wilfred Dart, formerly of Bacon st., Newton. About nine years ago Dart shot and fatally wounded a man on Pearl st., near Jackson rd., Newton. Both had been engaged in the gambling business. Dart escaped after the murder and was discovered months later by Newton police in a hideout at Hingham. He was found guilty of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. In connection with the Dart pardon, the report of the Probe Commission states—

"It is impossible to read the foregoing testimony," said the report, in summation on this case, "without concluding that the sum of $1250 was paid and actually assisted Wilfred Dart in obtaining his release from prison."

"It appears to be more than mere coincidence that Dart's uncle drew a check for $1250 on Nov. 5, 1936; that Dart's pardon case which had been sleeping for over a year suddenly became active as shown by the report to the Governor's office dated Nov. 12, 1936 and that the check for $1250 was cashed the day following Dart's pardon on Dec. 23, 1936. Dart's statement to prison guards at the time of his release that his uncle paid plenty to get him out emphasizes and corroborates this conclusion."

Shortly after he was released from prison, Dart was captured after he and a companion attempted to rob a store in Boston. He was returned to prison.

Refused License, Milk Dealer Appeals

The Fairview Farms operated by J. J. Corkery has taken an appeal to the State Department of Public Health from the recent refusal of the Newton Board of Health to grant this company a renewal of its license to sell milk and cream in Newton after it had expired on May 31. The refusal of the license renewal was because the company allegedly failed to comply with requirements of the Newton Health Department. Because of the appeal, the local health board is permitting Corkery to continue to sell milk and cream in this city pending the decision of the State Health Dept.

Police To Stop Golf Playing on Playgrounds

On Monday the Newton Recreation Department appealed to the Police Department to assist in preventing persons practicing golf on Newton playgrounds. Many complaints have been received about the safety of children on playgrounds being endangered by persons indulging in golf practice at the playgrounds. Those who persist in this practice will be prosecuted.

Protest Use Of Playgrounds By Carnivals

As a result of a permit granted last week to St. Michael's Society of Newton Upper Falls for the use of the playground in that village for a four day festa, protests from Upper Falls residents were received by Mayor Goddard, members of the Board of Aldermen and the Recreation Department. Some of the protests were actuated because travelling carnival concessions, some of whom were from outside Massachusetts, sold articles of merchandise on the playground, and games of chance were allegedly conducted there.

Other protests were caused by the fact that on the first day of the festa alcoholic beverages were sold on a lot of land adjoining the playground, and the argument was made that it was illegal to have granted any permit for the conduct of business on this lot, since it is in a residence zone. As a result of these protests the License Board transferred the permit for the temporary malt beverage license to a location at 1191 Chestnut st., about 300 yards from the playground. Complaints were also made because of the operation of a "sound-wagon" at the playground. For several years Newton Aldermen have refused to grant permits for the operation of "sound-wagons" on Newton streets, as a result of complaints which were made against these noise producers. Upper Falls residents argued that it is more of a nuisance to have this noise continually in one location.

Auto Thief's Case Is Continued For Three Months

Cornelius Crowley, 17, of 11 Hobson st., Brighton, was arraigned in the Newton court on Tuesday on five charges which involved the theft of automobiles, and theft of various articles from automobiles into which he had broken. Judge Donald Mayberry did not pass sentence on Crowley, but continued the case for three months. Crowley was arrested recently after he had stolen a car owned by Mrs. Marie McDonald of 50 Washington st., Newton. This car was shortly afterward driven by a chum of Crowley's, wrecked against a tree in Brighton and damaged to the extent of $300. Articles of clothing in the car were stolen. Crowley was also charged with having broken into the garage of Edward St. Conner at 61 Marlboro st., Newton, and stealing golf sticks; with breaking into a car owned by Mrs. Marks of Brookline, while it was parked on Quincy rd., Chestnut Hill, and looting it; with breaking into the garage of Etta Ginsburg at 18 Priscilla rd., Chestnut Hill, and stealing her car.

He was first arraigned in the Newton court on June 28 and released on $900 bail. He was arrested by Brookline police for the theft of two cars in that town, and given a suspended sentence to Shirley School by the judge in the Brookline court.

The Language of Christ

The language used by Christ was the Aramaic, a dialect of northern Syria. The Israelites were much in contact with Aramaean populations, and some words from that tongue became incorporated into the Hebrew at an early date. At the time of Hezekiah, Aramaic had become the official language of both Judea and Assyria; that is, the language spoken at the courts. After the fall of Samaria, colonists from Syria came in, probably speaking Aramaic as their native tongue. The fall of the Jewish kingdom hastened the decay of Hebrew as a spoken language; upon their return to Judea the Jews found themselves a people few in number surrounded by a population using the Aramaic tongue. When the latest books of the Old Testament were written, Hebrew, though still the language of literature, had been supplanted by Aramaic as the language of common life.

Wants City To Trim Grass Borders

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mayor Goddard by Philip Dunbar of 35 Howland rd., West Newton.

35 Howland Road,
West Newton, Mass.,
June 30, 1940.

City of Newton,
Mayor's Office,
City Hall,
West Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

A neighbor of mine, a year or so ago, made what seemed to me to be a sound suggestion. Said he: "We taxpayers turn in hunks of money which goes to relief. What do the reliefers give in exchange? Now I sadly need certain work done to keep my place up to a certain minimum standard—a paint, carpenter, cement job, or miscellaneous chores around the place. I'm strapped, so I let these things slide. The result is no one gets the employment I might give, and the city gradually loses assessable values. Is there any valid reason why my money should maintain a reliever in idleness? Among the ranks of those on relief are men representing all sorts of skills. Such craftsmen as a condition to receipt of their public relief, could be assigned to various jobs, like mine, all around the city, to work out their debt according to some fair schedule of rates. I suppose the unions would resist the scheme. But it's an equitable one just the same."

Now for example, here is a way the thing could be applied, without stepping on the toes either of the unions or of city employees. For instance grass borders along the highways are in order. Neither does the city ever tend to them. The abutter usually attends to them. Why shouldn't men on relief do this work?

I note with satisfaction that yours promises to be an economy administration. I wrote Mayor Childs a letter December 25, 1937, which the GRAPHIC published, apropos tax reduction. Mr. Childs never answered that letter. His failure was one reason why I didn't vote for him again. I am sending a copy of this to the GRAPHIC. I hope they will publish it, and I'm sure you will want to give me a reply, even if to explain why my suggestion is not practicable—if that be the case. If not practicable, I advocate steps to make it practicable.

$25 Fine For Disturbing Peace

Howard Wright, 49, of 636 Beacon st., Boston, was fined $25 by Judge Mayberry in the Newton court on Wednesday for disturbing the peace. Wright was arrested on Tuesday night by Patrolmen McEneaney and FitzSimmons after he had gone to Parkers Lunch at Washington st., Newton, and urged persons not to patronize the lunchroom. He had been employed at the place and was discharged last Sunday. A drunkenness complaint against Wright was placed on file.

American Law Institute

The American Law Institute is made up of 750 leading lawyers, judges of all the appellate courts and deans of the nation's outstanding law schools. Its purpose is to "clarify and simplify the law, to better adapt it to social needs, to secure the better administration of justice and to encourage scholarly and scientific work." The institute's major work in restatement of the law has been compared to the framing of the Napoleonic and Justinian codes. Since it was incorporated, four members of the institute's council have been appointed to the United States Supreme court, namely, Justices Stone, Hughes, Roberts and Cardozo.

Skyscraper for Genoa

The highest skyscraper in Europe has risen from the five-century old downtown district of Genoa, Italy. Three hundred and thirty-seven feet high, it is located in the center of the city, near the house in which Christopher Columbus was born. It has 1,300 windows, 31 floors, and contains 150 flats as well as numerous shops. It will shortly be provided with a roof garden restaurant.

Adequate Garage Space
A garage that measures 9 feet by 18 feet is usually ample to accommodate the average car. Doors should be 7 feet 6 inches wide. When the owner is the type who likes to make repairs on his machine, it is advisable to add a few feet to provide work.

Children's Food Dislikes

Traced to Mental Upsets
If your child refuses food or has many food dislikes, he is pointing out that something is wrong with his life, according to Katherine Reeves, head of the nursery school at the New York State College of Home Economics.

Here are some reasons, she said, why children do not or will not eat the food put before them:

Some physical or physiological condition. Frail, badly nourished, or anemic children are often not inclined to eat. For them, a modified schedule, more frequent meals, rest, and food that is easy to eat are effective.

A child may resent the pressure of adult authority. Adults who are irritated by the child's refusal to communicate this bad feeling to him, and the child may often use meal-time to convey his resentment.

The child may be bored because of lack of companionship and other activities, and use the occasion of a meal to create interest or draw attention.

A child may have too many decisions to make. Some parents, in their eagerness to have their children eat at any cost, permit their children to decide what to eat, where and when.

Consistent dislike for a certain food may not be the actual cause of a refusal to eat. It is true that children tire of foods given them since babyhood and they appreciate efforts to vary them.

Story of a Dream

The ruins of an ancient monastery and the skeletons of three monks have been discovered in a field at the village of Smiridon, near Vidin, through a peasant woman's dream. The monastery was burned by Turks in the Fourteenth century. Behind this discovery lies a story of tragedy. When the woman, a stranger to the village, first revealed her dream the villagers jeered and the owner of the field forbade excavations. In revenge, she cursed him and his family. She predicted that they would die within a month, and at the end of that time she would return and search for the monastery. Everything happened according to her prophecy. The landlord, his wife, and his children died one by one—then she returned. The villagers, awestricken, obeyed her orders, and the ruins of the monastery were found exactly as she had described them. The three skeletons were unearthed near the ruins, and various iron implements and pieces of pottery are still being brought to light.

Earliest Style Saddles

Looked Like Armchairs

If you think that riding saddles are a ladylike custom introduced in the interests of modesty, you are mistaken—at least according to some stories on the origin of the custom.

One account, according to the National Geographic society, suggests that saddles were first seen in central Europe during the Fourteenth century, the invention of the malforned "Ugly Duchess," Margaret Maultasch, of the Tyrol.

Another story has it that Anne of Bohemia, wife of England's Richard II, originated the sidesaddle as a means of getting around, since she was so deformed that it was impossible for her to use the saddles of the day. Research has disclosed, however, that Anne of Bohemia was not deformed.

The earliest saddles, complete with back, arms and footboard, were more like traveling armchairs—or the elaborate seats used in the East for camel and elephant back—than a mere convenience of locomotion.

The invention of the simpler, modern sidesaddle has been attributed to Italy. France took up the style, which spread finally to much of the world of feminine riders.

Women's riding costumes remained generally trouserless until well into the Nineteenth century in spite of the custom of many to sit astride their mounts. Such clothes were often as ornate as ballroom gowns. Brilliant colors in silk and velvet, pleats, ruffles, long flowing skirts, and bird-of-paradise hats were worn by well-to-do women riders.

On their "gently ambling horses" the leisurely ladies sometimes even carried parasols and fans instead of riding crops. Yet, feminine as these early styles appear in modern eyes, gentlemen of the day "viewed with alarm" what they called the "masculinity" of women's riding garments.

The Seventeenth century English diarist Pepys protested that "Only for a long petticoat dragging under their men's coats, nobody would take them for women... a sight that did not please me."

Scientist Explains Effect Of Freezing on Cancer

Embryonic cells thrive best at temperature from 101 degrees to 103 degrees, with 95 degrees as a critical temperature for their vitality, while any temperature below 90 degrees will stop their activity.

These laboratory findings, with the possibility of amazing application of these principles to the treatment of carcinoma, which is composed of cells, has been reported by Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, professor of pathology, Temple university, Philadelphia.

"The laboratory results in this field of research are, thus far, not conclusive enough to warrant any statement that nearly freezing, or 'hibernating,' cancer will effect permanent cure," Dr. Smith said.

"We have discovered nothing new in these experiments, except to establish certain limits of temperature outside of which—either above or below—embryonic and carcinoma cells cease their activity. We have found that we can conduct these experiments with safety on patients.

"It has been known for many years that continued cold some degrees below normal body temperature slows up all physiological activity. We have merely applied the known fact to the embryonic cells of chicks, and, later, to cancer in human beings, for the purpose, first of determining what are the maximum and minimum temperature limits for the vitality of these cells, and, second, to find out as nearly as possible to what extent hibernating treatment may be applied without danger to the human body."

"While we have secured, thus far, some very interesting and rather promising results, it would be a great mistake to jump to the conclusion that we have discovered any new and effective treatment of cancer. We do not know, as yet, whether a tumor checked in its growth and malignancy by the 'freezing' process may some time later resume its activity."

ELLEN M. LELAND

Ellen M. Leland, widow of the late Luther E. Leland, died, after an illness of four days, on June 28, in her ninety-third year, at the house at 2072 Washington st., Newton Lower Falls, which had been her home for 65 years. She was one of the oldest residents of Newton, and for more than 30 years was a teacher in the public schools of this city. She was born in Westport, Mass., on March 15, 1848, daughter of Peleg H. Gifford and Sarah B. Tripp, and spent her childhood on her father's farm, which is still owned by members of her family. She early conceived the ambition to become a teacher and at the age of 17 secured a position in the Westport schools, where she was able to earn enough money to enable her to enter the Bridgewater State Normal School in 1869.

Upon her graduation in 1871 she was appointed a teacher in the Hamilton Grammar School at Newton Lower Falls, and held that position until her retirement in 1935. In 1875 she was married to Luther E. Leland, principal of the Hamilton School, continuing to teach and on his death in 1895, becoming acting principal of the school. Her husband's two children by his first wife also became teachers: Samuel Leland (Harvard 1877) taught in private and public schools of Chicago until shortly before his death in 1933, and Minerva E. Leland Colby, 1882, was a teacher of mathematics in the Newton High School for more than 35 years until her death in 1926. Ellen M. Leland was a natural teacher and her influence upon the hundreds of pupils who passed through her classes was marked. Many of them retained close contacts with her in after life and frequently called upon her or wrote to her. She possessed great strength of character and was inspired by the highest ideals, and had the ability in an unusual degree to relate her teaching to the practical problems of life that her pupils were to encounter. She had a profound love of beauty in nature and in literature and art, and the lives of many of her pupils were enriched by the powers of appreciation that she helped them to develop.

She took a keen interest in all that related to her profession and was active in the educational interests of the City of Newton. She was one of the organizers of the Teachers' Annuity Guild of Massachusetts, which was an early voluntary cooperative effort on the part of the teachers of the State to assure themselves of retiring allowances at their own expense.

An important part of her life was devoted to the interests of the Lincoln Park Baptist Church of West Newton, which she joined in 1875, and of which at the time of her death she had long been the senior member. She had a very active part in the work of the church, being for many years in charge of its primary department, and serving on committees of administration and management. She attended services and took part in the social life of the church until her final illness.

After her retirement from teaching she made several visits to Washington where her son had his residence, and took a great interest in following public events, being a faithful attendant, often for weeks at a time, on the debates of the Senate and House of Representatives. She also, with Minerva E. Leland, spent the summer and autumn of 1911 in England and Europe, where they visited her son and his wife who at that time resided in Paris.

She is survived by her son, Waldo Gifford Leland (married to Gertrude C. Dennis of Newton Lower Falls), who resides in Washington, D. C., where he is Director of the American Council of Learned Societies and member of several advisory committees of the Federal Government; by two grandsons, and by seven nephews and nieces.

After private services in the home attended by the family, public services were held in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church at West Newton, on Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock, with the Reverend William E. Blake, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial was in the Leland family lot in the Newton Cemetery.

Electric Iron Causes Fire

A fire at the home of Joseph Troy, 9 Shirley st., West Newton, on Monday noon caused damage estimated at about $1000. The fire was caused by an electric iron, which had been left on a stairway in the front hall with the current turned on. The red hot iron burned through the stairway and ignited an adjoining wall. Members of the family had gone out of the house and forgotten to turn off the current. A neighbor discovered the fire.

U. S. Ships Fired on Guam; Spanish Took It as Salute

Unaware that our country was at war with Spain, the inhabitants of the island of Guam, now our westernmost outpost in the Pacific, were surprised when the U. S. S. Charleston steamed into Apra harbor on a June day in 1898. The cruiser, accompanied by three troop transports, was en route to join Dewey's forces in the Philippines.

Suddenly the Charleston commenced firing at a Spanish fortress. Several shells were sent screaming toward the shore, yet the fort remained strangely silent, much to the surprise of the Americans who had expected a prompt return of their fire.

Presently a gig flying the Spanish flag left the opposite shore and headed toward the Charleston. It bore an emissary from Governor Don Juan Mariana, who offered profuse apologies to Captain Glass for not acknowledging the "salute," due to a lack of gunpowder. The Americans then learned that they had been firing on a deserted fortress, and that no one in Guam knew about the Spanish-American war.

"Make no mistake, I fired no salute," said Captain Glass, who thereupon informed the governor's envoy of the true state of affairs and advised him that he would send his executive officer ashore the next day to accept an official surrender.

Under a flag of truce a naval officer and an escort of U. S. marines, commanded by Lieut. J. H. Myers, landed the next day. The governor showed no disposition to yield. The parley threatened to end in a deadlock. As a mark of courtesy the marines stiffened to their formal salute, with rifles held rigidly in front of their straight bodies and their eyes fixed on the governor.

First U. S. Railroads

It is generally conceded that the credit for having constructed and put into operation the first railway in the United States belongs to the Granite Railway company of Massachusetts. The charter of this road was granted by the Massachusetts legislature on March 4, 1826, upon petition of the Bunker Hill association, in order to bring down from the quarry at Quincy to a wharf on the Neponset river the granite needed to build the Bunker Hill monument. The second railway of the country was built about a year later, in Pennsylvania. Cars began running on it in May, 1827. It was used to transport anthracite coal from the mines in Carbon county to a wharf on the Lehigh river at Mauch Chunk, a distance of nine miles.

Little Response To English Woman's Appeal

An appeal published last week by Mayor Goddard after he had received it from Mrs. Gordon Campbell of Southam, Warwickshire, England, who asks for contributions for the comfort fund for English soldiers, Newton residents, but did bring a $2 contribution from Ogunquit, Maine, and $1 from Methuen. Mrs. Campbell, who is chairman of a war activities committee, stated that she is American born, and had written to cities and towns in the U. S. A. which bear Warwickshire names, for contributions of clothing comforts and funds for men of the Royal Warwickshire Regiment.

Obviously, Mrs. Campbell is not aware that Newton, Massachusetts, was not named after any Warwickshire town. Its original name was "Cambridge Village," because it was the property of the settlers of Cambridge, Massachusetts, having been granted to them by Massachusetts Bay Colony as a grazing area. Later the name was changed to Newtowne, and a town clerk to save time, contracted the name to "Newton."

Weather Bureau Extends Winter Sports Services

So popular was the winter sports service of the United States weather bureau in the northeastern states last winter that it is being continued this year as far south as Pennsylvania and New Jersey and extended to the Michigan-Wisconsin-Minnesota area. Although individual offices of the weather bureau have issued reports on conditions at skiing fields and have issued winter sports forecasts from time to time for many years, the general regional service was first offered in winter months of last year because of the need for reliable and unbiased information on skiing, tobogganing, skating, and other winter sports conditions.

In recent winters thousands of persons in New York and other cities have found the relaxation they need in week-end sports. Better roads and special trains have made it possible for a city worker to go many miles to snow-covered winter playgrounds and be back at his desk on Monday morning. Often, however, weather conditions such as a thaw or an unusually heavy snow leave imperfect conditions for winter sports in some areas. But in another direction week-end conditions may be perfect. The actual conditions that may prevail in any area on a Saturday morning are given in the sports weather service.

Each Friday morning volunteer "trail reporters" wire conditions in their area to weather bureau district centers. Supervisors there combine all reports and relay them to all other district offices for the sports region. A summary of conditions for the entire region is available Saturday morning for newspapers, radio broadcasts, and in bulletins.

In general the reports give depth and condition of snow and ice for each area, as well as conditions for snow and ice sports. The service, reports to the weather bureau indicate, is used by thousands of persons each week as far south as Washington, D. C.

Sea Created Desert

Along Atlantic Coast

Some centuries ago, when the Atlantic coast was advancing, a series of sand spits and dunes began to appear on the southern shore of the entrance to Chesapeake bay. Line after line they advanced, as the sea receded, until a cape was formed—Cape Henry it was now called.

As each new series of dunes were formed on the beach, those behind it became covered, first with beach grasses, then with bayberry and Baccharis, and finally with trees. As the cape reached its greatest seaward extent and then started to retreat, under the onslaught of the sea, a great dune, thrown up by the wind on its shore, started a slow march inland. Between this great curved sandhill and the shallow bays behind the cape, sheltered from gales from the sea as well as wintry blasts from the north and west, a wilderness grew up—a deep and quiet wilderness that has been known to Virginians since the time of George Washington as the "Desert."

In it are dark brown pools peopled with gnomes and knees of cypress. On the sand ridges are venerable oaks, beeches, hickories, gums and loblolly pines, bearded with Spanish moss. Because of its sheltered position, and also because it is surrounded by the tempering waters of the bay and sea, the climate of the Desert is that of lands far to the south. Humid and hot in summer, mild and quiet in winter, the Desert has brought forth an exotic flora. It is the winter home of many birds that usually do not stop, in their southern migration, at that latitude.

Seek Information On Teachers' Pay In Other Places

The Newton School Committee has authorized the sending of questionnaires to 15 cities and towns in connection with the survey which is being made for the purpose of determining equitable salaries for teachers in Newton public schools. The communities which have been asked to provide information include Belmont, Beverly, Brookline, Boston, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Springfield, Wellesley and Winchester in Massachusetts; Greenwich and West Hartford in Connecticut; New Rochelle and White Plains, New York, and Montclair, New Jersey.

The letters, which have been sent to Superintendents of Schools in the cities and towns selected, read as follows:

"At the request of the Newton School Committee, a group of Newton teachers was elected to examine the existing salary schedule. Through the cooperation of the Commission on Teacher Education of the American Council, Dr. Willard S. Ellsbree of Teachers College, Columbia University, is acting as consultant in the study.

"The work preliminary to drawing up a new salary schedule has been divided into two parts: (1) an inquiry into the professional and economic status of Newton teachers, and (2) a study of comparative data on salary schedules and the support thereof in certain school systems which are somewhat comparable to Newton on the strength of the school program and the problem of support. Pursuant to the latter, we have enclosed a questionnaire which we hope you can find the time to answer."

Letters have also been sent to Boards of Assessors in the cities and towns mentioned, seeking information as to the ability of these places to support strong educational and governmental services.

The Newton School Committee explains that among the purposes of the survey are the determination of economic needs of Newton teachers, the extent of their duties and their qualifications; possible school economies that may free money for teachers' salaries; and the ability and willingness of Newton to support education.

Members of the Newton Board of Aldermen during the past year had advocated a survey of all city departments in an effort to produce economies, and these Aldermen were especially desirous to have a survey made of the School Department. While the Mayor and Aldermen were discussing the proposed survey, the School Committee decided to engage the services of Dr. Ellsbree for a separate survey of the School Department, particularly as regards teachers' salaries. Later, when the Aldermen decided to authorize a general survey, by other researchers in municipal affairs, the School Committee did not favor having the School Department included in this second survey.

Eligible For Newton Police

The Civil Service Commission published on Tuesday the lists of those who passed the recent examinations for police department appointments in Massachusetts. Because the recent examination placed more stress on the mental tests and less on the physical, 93 per cent of those who took it, failed to obtain a mark which would make them eligible. Of 5548 who took the tests, only 386 qualified. This results in many communities not having enough, or any eligibles for appointments to vacancies which exist or will occur shortly. Of 351 communities only 50 have any eligible list as a result of the examination, and 28 of these have less than the required three on the eligible list. Another examination will have to be held as soon as possible.

Those who qualified as eligibles for appointment to the Newton police department are—John W. Foley, Jr., John Umia, James J. MacManus, Thomas J. Brady, Alfonso Mascia, John A. Duane, John G. Murray, Edward J. Devlin, Alexander Zilinski, David Kerr, Jr.; Harry J. Rogers, George Veducio.

Napoleon's Sword

Bearing the inscription, "N. Bonaparte, First Consul of the French Republic," a sword has been added to an exhibition in Moscow dedicated to the victory of the Russian people over Napoleon in 1812. When Napoleon was defeated and sent to Elba by the coalition Alexander I, of Russia, ordered Count Shuvalov to accompany him. To assist Napoleon to escape recognition by the crowds, Shuvalov offered him his greatcoat. In gratitude, the de-throned emperor gave his sword to Shuvalov, who took it to Russia. In the revolution of 1917 the Red Guard raided a family estate and a commander appropriated a sword. He fought with it, often marveling at its strength and sharpness. After the war it was identified as Napoleon's sword.

Toy Greyhound Races

Greyhound racing over lighted tracks at night is drawing large crowds to the dog tracks in many Florida cities. Most of the speedsters that spring around the track chasing a mechanical rabbit are big greyhounds. But in Miami there are some Italian "toy" greyhounds. Only one-third the size of the big fellow, but faster by comparison, the vest-pocket dog, weighing from eight to fifteen pounds, can cover a sixteenth of a mile in eight seconds.

Repeating Speeder Fined $50 Again

Francis E. Joyce of 219 Commonwealth ave., Chestnut Hill, was fined $50 by Judge Mayberry in the Newton court on Wednesday for speeding. It was Joyce's fourth conviction within a year for speeding, and two weeks ago in the Newton court he was fined $50 on his third conviction. Sergeant Burke testified that Joyce was driving at a speed of 45 miles along Commonwealth ave. Probation Officer M. John Enegess, informed the judge that Joyce's license had been revoked.

In court the same day Traffic Officer Dowling was the complainant against a number of motorists on speeding charges. Among those fined $5 were Chester Wilcox, Jr., 72 Bonad rd., Newton; Russell Broad, 36 Frederick st., Newtonville; Aaron Moldaw, Beals st., Brookline, and John Mickles, Weston.

Passed Bad Checks, Gets 30 Days in Jail

Wendell Meredith, 19, of 7 Robinson st., Auburndale, was found guilty in the Newton court on Wednesday of four counts of larceny by means of passing worthless checks. The money he obtained by this means at Newton stores totaled $58. He also had been charged of passing a worthless check in a Waltham store, and two in a large Boston department store. Judge Mayberry sentenced Meredith to 30 days in Billerica prison and an appeal was taken. Meredith then asked Sergeant King, the prosecuting officer, to ask for leniency, and King conferred with Judge Mayberry, who reduced the sentence to 30 days.

State Grants Permit For Extension For Bus Line

On Tuesday the State Public Utilities Commission approved a franchise giving the Middlesex & Boston Company permission to extend its bus line from the intersection of Dedham and Brookline sts., Oak Hill, along Dedham st. to the West Roxbury line. The Newton Board of Aldermen several weeks ago voted to grant this extension.

Highway Patrol Service Is Extended to All States

The past year saw every state maintaining highway patrol service, of varying sized personnel ranging from Pennsylvania's 950 to Nevada's eleven. Florida's division of state highway patrol, abolished in 1937, was re-created last year.

Pennsylvania led all states in expenditures for highway patrols, according to a report released by the National Highway Users conference. This state spent $3,393,892 for maintenance of the patrol division—had a personnel of 1,451 men in the service, of which 950 were classed as active highway officers. California was second in expenditures and New York third.

Duties of these highway patrols vary. Some states limit their officers to the enforcement of motor laws exclusively, true of Ohio. California includes the inspection of agricultural products and Florida officers perform the duties of weight inspectors. The majority of states authorize their state patrolmen to enforce other laws while giving primary attention to motor statutes.

Protecting Rubber 'Frosting'

Rubber "frosting," a dulling of the surface observed in vulcanized rubber footwear, raincoats, and other articles, may be prevented by protective films such as lacquer or varnish or by chemical treatment. The frosting, which occurs most frequently in warm humid weather, is a microscopic disintegration of the surface caused by ozone in the air.

Arrest Three For Burglaries At South Side

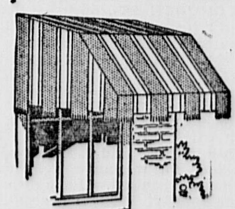

A Newton Highlands youth and two Newton Centre youths were arrested on Saturday by Lieut. Crowley and Sergeant Bannon of the Newton police on charges of having been involved in a number of burglaries in this city the past four months. Edwin J. Hooper, 18, of 68 Walnut Hill rd., admitted he had participated in ten burglaries in homes; Carl Carlson, Jr., of 21 Parker ave., Newton Centre confessed to having taken part in nine burglaries; and his brother, Richard Carlson, 18, confessed to having been involved in seven of the burglaries.

The first of the burglaries with which the trio is charged occurred on February 3 at the home of Clarence Ellis, 53 Philbrick rd., Newton Centre. Hooper and Carl Carlson entered that house by breaking a window. Other burglaries were at the home of Albert Gear, 1303 Walnut st., on February 6; Mrs. Harry Ball, 105 Athelstone rd., Newton Centre on Feb. 6; John Reedon, 38 Shady Hill rd., Newton Highlands, on Feb. 27; George Pittman, 18 Alexander rd., Newton Highlands; Arthur Bulung, 497 Boylston st., Newton Centre on March 10; Edward Hamilton, 59 Alexander rd., Newton Highlands on March 31; Victor Wallis, 40 Roosevelt rd., Newton Centre on April 7; Pasquale Lentino, 535 Boylston st., Newton Centre on April 7; Charles Trefrey, 65 Solon rd., Newton Highlands.

Lt. Crowley and Sergeant Bannon had been working on the task of solving the numerous burglaries and their suspicions were directed against Hooper and the Carlson brothers when some of the loot was found in Boston pawnshops, and an automatic pistol stolen at the Ball home was learned to have been traded by Hooper to another youth for golf clubs. The pistol was recovered at Cohasset by the Newton inspectors.

The three were arraigned in the Newton court on Wednesday. The Carlson brothers were represented by Thomas Donnelly as attorney. He asked that they be permitted to retract the pleas of guilty which they had made in the Newton court on Monday and Judge Nagle, who was sitting on the cases, agreed to the request. The judge also allowed Hooper, who was not represented by counsel, to do likewise. Judge Nagle then ordered the three held for the Grand Jury and lowered the bail which had been set on them. Carl Carlson was released in $125 bail; and Richard Carlson in $875 bail. Hooper was held in $1000 bonds.

An order from Ulysses Lupien, director of the State Civil Service Commission, compelled Director of Recreation Wilson to replace these playground directors by new employees. Burglaries In The Newtons

When the family of George Thornburg returned to their home at 17 Llewellyn rd., West Newton last Saturday after having been away on a trip, they discovered that the house had been looted of seven quarts of liquor, an overcoat and a suit of clothes. The burglar broke a cellar window and the stolen articles were taken from that part of the house.

At 9:30 Sunday morning Richard Hausman of 11 Crosby rd., Chestnut Hill notified Newton police headquarters that the preceding night between 10 and 11 o'clock he heard the breaking of glass in the window of an adjoining house at 214 Commonwealth ave., and saw a man climbing through the window. Then the light in the cellar of the house (the occupants of which were away) was turned on. A few minutes later Hausman saw the intruder climb out the window through which he had entered the unoccupied house. The supposed burglar then rang the bell at Hausman's home, and when the latter spoke through the speaking tube, the intruder vanished.

Newton police went to the house at 214 Commonwealth ave. upon receiving word of the break, and found that the burglar had evidently not gained access to the two apartments in the house.

Youthful Bandits Snatch Handbag

Miss Alice Gallen of Harding ave., Watertown was robbed of her handbag on Wednesday night at 11:15 as she stood waiting for a bus on Washington st., Newton, near Langlen rd. Two young thugs approached, grabbed the handbag and escaped in the direction of the lumber yard on Crafts st. The handbag contained $39 in cash, a gold watch and other articles. Miss Gallen's screams for help attracted a man passing by in an automobile and he notified Patrolmen FitzSimmons and McEneaney who were in a cruising car. Miss Gallen described the bandits as about 19 years old, both had light hair, and were of medium height. One wore a blue sweater and the other a brown sweater.

Slipped On Tulip Asks City To Pay

An unusual cause for a claim of damages against the City of Newton is revealed in the application filed by Mrs. Elise Caldwell of 96 Hammond st., Waltham. She slipped and fell while walking opposite 1684 Commonwealth ave., West Newton on May 24, received two broken ribs and an injury to her right hand. The cause of Mrs. Caldwell slipping and falling was a flower; a broken tulip which was lying on the sidewalk. Her claim will be referred to the Claims and Rules Committee of the Newton Board of Aldermen.

Pair Arraigned For Burglary At Lane Home

When J. Alexander Lane of 239 Temple st., West Newton, visited his home on Tuesday night he found that the house had been entered, ransacked and robbed. Among the articles stolen were a large rug, and a quantity of liquor. Much damage had been done to valuable furniture by the burglars when they forced open drawers in bureaus and desks. Entrance had been made by breaking a window in the dining room. The Lane family had been at their summer home in Cohasset since June 22.

The alleged burglars were arrested Wednesday afternoon by Inspector Lyons and Patrolman Charles Lynch. Early Tuesday morning Lynch observed Joseph Myers, 21, of 258 Cherry st., West Newton, and James Fahey, 20, of 16 Pine st., West Newton, in a West Newton lunchroom, treating companions to drinks of assorted liquors from bottles they had in their possession, and he inquired later of Inspector Lyons if any theft of liquor had been reported. Upon learning of the theft of the dozen bottles of liquor at the Lane home, warrants for the arrests of the two youths were obtained. One bottle of the stolen liquor was recovered. The other 11 bottles had allegedly been drunk.

The two youths were arraigned in the Newton court on Thursday and ordered held for the Grand Jury by Judge Creehan. Inspector Lyons testified that Myers had admitted that he and Fahey had entered the Lane home, but Fahey had denied doing so.

$1000 Fire In Home At Newton Centre

A fire in the home of Dr. DeWitt Wilcox of 118 Homer st., Newton Centre, caused an alarm to be sent in from Box 712 at 11:05 last Friday night. The fire started in a room occupied by Florence Kennedy, employed as a domestic at the house. A passerby observed the blaze and notified James Orr who lives at 112 Homer st. Mr. Orr telephoned fire alarm headquarters at 11:01 and when Chief Randlett arrived he ordered the box alarm sounded. The fire was confined to the second floor and the damage was estimated at $1000. When the firemen arrived they found Mr. Orr playing water from a garden hose on his residence to extinguish sparks.

Fireworks Ignite Auburndale House

The roof of the house at 122 Islington rd., Auburndale, was set afire on Saturday night at 10:20 by a skyrocket which was set off during the fireworks display given in connection with the field day of Newton Post, American Legion. A telephone alarm brought Engines 2 and 5 and Ladder 1. The fire was confined to the roof. The fireworks were set off on a small island in the river near Norumbega Park.

Newton Women's Clubs Trying To Wipe Out Ragweed

This is a second in a series of four messages which the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs is sending to its members regarding RAGWEED, generally conceded to be the most common cause of hay-fever. Statistics show that east of Kansas, 95 per cent of the pollen in the air during the fall months comes from the abundance of ragweed. Medical scientists estimate that there are several million people in the United States who are allergic to this pollen and that four fifths of these cases later develop asthma. The Conservation Committee of the Newton Federation, headed by the chairman, Mrs. Gordon Heath, hopes to arouse the entire Garden City to the importance of ridding not only fields but private gardens of this menace to health.

The Federation appreciates the cooperation which both local press and theatres are extending at this time, and trust that those who missed seeing the special film on ragweed which was shown at the Paramount Theatre in Newton during the week of July 8, will visit the West Newton theatre where it will be shown the week of July 15th.

The following are some of the ways of controlling ragweed which are offered by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

1. Pull by the roots before the first week in August.
2. Cut with a mower, sickle or scythe. More than one cutting may be needed to keep it from going to seed.
3. Spray with a weed killer of sodium chlorate, one pound to a gallon of water. This may be used along fences, driveways and sidewalks.
4. Plowing in the early fall.
5. Burn all plants that have gone to seed.

Letter From Mayor Goddard to Dunbar

The following letter was received from the Mayor's office. It is a reply to a letter from Philip R. Dunbar which was published in the GRAPHIC on July 5.

June 2, 1940.
Mr. Philip R. Dunbar,
35 Howland rd.,
West Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Dunbar:
This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 30th, and I am very grateful for your suggestions. The City makes a serious attempt to employ all the able-bodied men on Relief and these men actually do work for other City departments for varying periods of time each week. The City Solicitor has ruled, however, that we can do no work on private property which explains why we do not do the particular work that you refer to.

I shall be very glad to talk with you at any time if you care to go into this matter further.

Very sincerely yours,
PAUL M. GODDARD,
Mayor.

He was painting the house, which is owned by Rudnick. He was taken in the police ambulance to Newton Hospital to be treated for internal injuries and broken ribs.

Another Attempt To Zone Worcester Turnpike For Business District

Speeder Stopped By Chief Hughes

Abraham Schwartz of Roxbury was unfortunate enough to have the Chief of Police of Newton as complainant against him in the Newton court on Tuesday and was fined $10 by Judge Mayberry for speeding. Chief Hughes testified that Schwartz drove by his car on Watertown st. and passed the dangerous intersection at Walnut st. at a speed of 50 miles an hour. The chief pursued the rapid Roxbury resident and overtook him when Abraham slowed down at West Newton. Chief Hughes stated that Schwartz wove his car in and out of traffic as he speeded along Watertown st.

Sergeant Burke of the Traffic Bureau was also a complainant in court on Tuesday against a speeder. He stated that Mrs. Merle Summers of 135 Gordon rd., Waban, drove her car at a rate of 50 miles an hour along Parker st., Newton Centre. Numerous complaints have been made of speeding on that street. Judge Mayberry placed Mrs. Summers' case on file.

Newton Residents To Make Bandages For British Army

Mrs. Malcolm Morse of 20 Old Farm rd. in Oak Hill, opposite the Peabody Tea Room, is opening up her home on Thursdays between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. during the next few months in the interest of the British War Relief Society, Inc., an organization which already has sent ambulances, clothing, sweaters, bandages, etc., to soldiers, refugees and children in war-ravaged England. About thirty women in the community are planning to meet regularly at her home to make up hundreds of bandages and to knit useful articles so desperately needed at the present time.

Anyone living in Newton who would like to take advantage of this opportunity to help in making surgical bandages or by knitting or by contributing time or money is invited to communicate with Mrs. Malcolm Morse on any Thursday while she is holding "Open House." It is through such cooperative and unselfish work that the suffering and hardship of thousands may be materially lessened. It is difficult for many to do all they most wish they could, yet a few hours spared from a busy life each week may mean the saving of a life. Folks in Oak Hill and all Newton will generously support this movement. The second "Open House" will be on Thursday, July 18.

Trade School Will Teach Machinists

Beginning July 15 a course will continue for seven weeks at the Newton Trade School to train young men as machinists so that they may obtain positions in the National Defence Program. This course will be given under the auspices of the Federal Government and the State Department of Education. It will be conducted five days a week and 8 hours each day. Applicants must be over 18 years of age and must register with the Director of the Trade School, or at the State Employment Office in Newton Corner. The number of pupils will be limited to 40.

Until Monday local school officials had supposed that any Newton young man might apply, but on Monday word was received that applicants must be men who are on WPA lists, that the training will be considered a WPA project, and those accepted will be transferred from other WPA projects and will be paid their WPA allotments while studying. This ruling was quite disappointing to many young men who had planned to apply for the training course, but who are not on the WPA lists.

Kiwanis To Honor James P. Gallagher

Members of the Newton Kiwanis Club are arranging a testimonial for James P. Gallagher at Norumbega Park on the night of July 31. The guest of honor is a former president of the Newton Kiwanis Club and was elected Vice-President of Kiwanis International at the recent convention of this organization held in Minneapolis. The committee in charge of the testimonial, which is being designated as "New England Night," includes Wilfred Chagnon, Archie Bellinger, Jack O'Donnell and Austin Shea.

Members of the Newton Kiwanis Club and their wives were guests of President John Janse on Tuesday at his summer home at New Silver Beach, West Palmouth. Lobster and steak dinners were served, and sports were enjoyed by the guests.

Newton Centre Doctor Slams Congested Building

The Claims & Rules Committee of the Newton Board of Aldermen held hearings at City Hall on Wednesday night on several petitions for changes of zone. Edward Raia again petitioned to have land bounded by the Worcester Pike, Florence st. and Hammond Pond Parkway changed from private residence to business zone. Roger Brooks, appearing as attorney for Raia, argued that the land in question cannot now be given away. He presented a letter signed by about 20 residents in the Thompsonville section favoring the petition. A protest was received from the Metropolitan District Commission who stated that the change would be undesirable and inconsistent with the purposes for which the attractive Hammond Pond Parkway was built at large cost to the taxpayers. Joseph Blue of Moody st., across the pike from the land in question, also opposed the change in behalf of residents of that street. He called attention to the fact that a number of single residences have recently been built there. Joseph Richardson of Charles River Village called attention to the fact that he plans to build apartment houses on a large tract of land he owns in the area, and that if the land were changed to business zone, he would change his plans.

The Claims & Rules Committee have consistently refused to change land along the turnpike to business. They have believed that this traffic artery was built at tremendous expense to taxpayers so that it would be away from business sections in the communities between Boston and Worcester, and to allow business on it will defeat the purpose for which the turnpike was built.

Another interesting hearing was on the petition of Anna Cooley to have a large lot of land at 1104 Center st., near Homer st., changed from single to private residence zone so that two-family houses might be built there. Louis Rudnick of Hyde st., Newton Highlands, opposed the change as contrary to the best interests of the community, and told the committee he did so, even though his own brother, Isadore Rudnick of Needham, is the prospective purchaser of the land in question.

Also Dr. G. D. Nutter of 109 Center st. opposed the petition and referred to a number of two-family houses which had recently been built by Louis Rudnick on Willow st., nearby. Dr. Nutter said it was a great mistake to allow these houses to be built so close together. He said "they were built so near one another that if there was a pinhole in a curtain you could not take a bath, and one could not walk between the houses without scraping one's elbows." Other objectors included several Newton Centre physicians. Isadore Rudnick, the alleged prospective purchaser of the property in question, is building a number of houses on Ward and Sumner sts.

Other hearings were on petitions of Mary Gannon to change land on River street between the cemetery and Alden place, and Cherry street and Auburndale avenue, West Newton from business to private residence zone; Harry Knowles to change land on Commonwealth avenue near the Boston line from private residence to business zone; Donald Gibbs to change land bounded by Bellevue and Langdon streets and Surrey road, Newton from private to single residence zone.

Speeder Fined $25 In Newton Court

Leo Coash of Westfield was fined $25 in the Newton court on Monday for speeding. It was his second conviction within a year. Other fines $5 each for speeding included Hugh Burke, 406 Fuller st., West Newton; Fred Davis, Beethoven ave., Waban; Stanley Blades, Roxbury; Jack Cramling, Dorchester; James Downing, Jamaica Plain. Michael Iodice of Waltham was fined $5 for not stopping before driving his car onto a through way.

Robert Keegan of 121 Bridge st., Nonantum, was fined $5 for driving a truck with defective brakes. On June 17 a truck operated by the defendant rolled along a down grade on Chapel st., hit and injured a small child, when the brakes on the vehicle failed to hold after the truck had been parked.

Nose & Throat Clinic Changed to Fridays

Beginning July 19 and until further notice, the Nose and Throat Clinic ordinarily held at Newton Hospital each Saturday morning between the hours of 9 and 10, will be held each Friday morning between 9 and 10. The Tuesday Nose and Throat Clinic will be held at the same time as usual.

AN INSIDIOUS PRACTICE

The report of the special commission of the State Legislature which has been investigating the pardon situation in Massachusetts over a period of several years may well result in minimizing the unsavory practices which have been indulged in by supposedly trustworthy officials in the past. Under our present state administration there is little fear of the granting of pardons except those which are based solely upon merit.

The same cannot be said for many of the pardons granted during several previous administrations. During the last session of the legislature the laws relating to the granting of pardons were somewhat clarified but the Recess Commission points out several ways in which the situation can be further controlled. Undoubtedly the next legislature will take the desired steps.

The effect of pardons issued for monetary considerations, and not upon the basis of merit, on our entire penal system, is obvious. We cannot expect those who are confined for offences against society to feel that they are justly treated when other offenders are permitted to go free because they have an "in" with some public official or because they are able to "buy" their freedom. We know that this insidious practice is not now taking place but we must make every attempt to prevent its recurrence in the future when we might again elect to high office those who are motivated by personal desires rather than the devotion of their efforts for the best interests of the state.

ELIMINATE RAGWEED

Each summer for the past few years the Newton Federation of Woman's Clubs have organized a community campaign in an endeavor to promote the health of our citizens who suffer from the effects of the pollen of the ragweed plant. This inconspicuous yet common plant is about ready to blossom and in its present state of development has its most potent effect upon those allergic to it.

The Conservation Committee of the Newton Federation is attempting to make those persons to whom it is not well known, more familiar with it by posting bulletins, pictures, and undeveloped plants in store windows in the various sections of the city. If you are not familiar with ragweed and desire to cooperate in eradicating it from the Garden City and alleviate the suffering caused to many, everyone can assist. The active assistance of many can accomplish far more beneficial results than the efforts of only a few.

Powers' Paragraphs

On Sunday we met a Newton citizen who probably knows as much about Newton real estate and its values as any man in this city. He mentioned about our reference in this column last Friday to the letter in last week's Graphic from Mr. Dunbar, and the contention that the city should keep the grass borders on public streets cropped. He raised a point which had not occurred to us. He said that the unsightly, uncut borders of grass and weeds along our public streets, including the main highways, had seriously affected sales of Newton real estate to persons who travelled to this city as expectant buyers, and that the uncared-for condition of these street borders has had a deprecating effect on the values of Newton properties. So, we again suggest to the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen, that they give this matter some attention. If some of our aldermen gave it even a small part of the attention they give to less important matters, our streets would probably resume the attractive appearance which we older residents of this city recall was characteristic of Newton highways 25 and more years ago.

If you desire to see an outstanding accomplishment in street lighting, drive the few miles from Newton to Belmont by way of Common st., Watertown. Along Common st. from the Watertown-Belmont line, to the junction of that street and Belmont st., this highway has been provided with the best method of street lighting we have seen in Greater Boston. Every 200 feet there is a light on each side of the street. This results in the lights being staggered every 100 feet. The lamp on each pole contains a 400 watt mercury light and a 200 watt Mazda light. The mercury lights go out at midnight. The street is brilliantly lighted, but there is no glare and no shadows, and the soft, greenish hues shining on the foliage of the well-shaded street produce a beautiful effect.

The Town of Belmont purchases electricity at wholesale from the Cambridge Electric Light Co., and retails it to residents of that town at low rates. The very excellent and powerful lights on Common st. cost the town about $48 each annually for maintenance and current.

The lighting of Common st., Belmont, could well serve as a model for Newton. Street lighting in this city has received many unfavorable comments over a long period of years and properly so. Newton has not kept pace with many other communities in having modern, adequate lighting of its principal streets, or even of its principal streets. It suffers by comparison with Brookline, Wellesley, Belmont and other communities. If Wellesley and Belmont are to be taken as examples, it is preferable for a city or town to have complete charge of the lighting of public highways, instead of depending on a public utility company.

The Town of Wellesley buys electric current at favorable, contract rates from the Edison Company, and has better lighted highways than has Newton. The Town of Belmont buys electricity at wholesale from the Cambridge Electric Light Company, and not only takes complete charge of the lighting of its streets, but also retails electric current to residences and other buildings in that town at lower rates than are charged in other places in Greater Boston. Newton pays $65 per annum each for 600 watt street lamps which burn all night, and $54.42 per annum each for 600 watt lamps that burn until 1 a. m. The cost to this city for street lighting is about $135,000 yearly. It is perhaps too much to expect that Newton will emulate Belmont in modernizing its street lights at the present time, but this city could well consider imitating that town and Wellesley in assuming control of this public activity. And it would not be necessary to engage "experts" to make a survey. We believe our Mayor, Aldermen and Street Department officials could bring about satisfactory results.

The youth and boys of Newton again deserve high praise for the orderly way in which they observed July 4th. Only one false alarm was pulled during the 24 hours which included the "night before the Fourth." That came at 11:41 p. m. on July 3 from Box 62 at Walnut and Duncklee sts., Newton Highlands. Only one person was arrested in Newton for drunkenness on the "night before."

The Newton firemen, however, did not spend an idle "night before the Fourth." From 10:43 p. m. for a period of two hours, Newton fire apparatus had to go to Waltham where many false alarms and alarms for bonfires illegally started on highways in that city harassed Waltham firemen. In sorry contrast to the decency and good order which prevailed in Newton, the hoodlumism which has characterized the "night before" in Waltham for the past 25 years, again occurred. There were 12 false alarms pulled from boxes in that city, and bonfires on public streets resulted in 17 alarms coming over telephones. In addition, three alarms were for a house and two sheds burned by incendiaries.

The youth of Waltham, as a whole, cannot be blamed for the disgraceful conduct which has characterized the celebration of July 4th in that city for many years. Much of the rowdiness there, which masquerades as alleged manifestations of patriotic fever, has been centralized in three neighborhoods. The decent and intelligent members of the element residing in these neighborhoods should cooperate in an effort to stamp out the practice which perverts patriotism into lawlessness.

World events have moved so rapidly the past couple of months because of the success of the Nazi "blitzkriegs" in Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France, that many of the erudite publicists and outstanding commentators of this country, and also some of our leading statesmen, have had to change their views in recent weeks. A month ago many of our leading citizens were advocating any and all assistance (short of war) to the allies. Some even wanted this country to enter the war, and the president was ordering the turning of so much of this country's military and naval equipment to France and England, that Secretary of War Woodring resigned, allegedly because he would not agree to the denuding of arms essential to the needs of the woefully under-equipped military forces of this country.

The amazing rapidity with which Hitler's forces overcame France caused the President and his interventionist advisers to halt the "sale" of some of the army and navy guns and boats which were about to be sent to France. The capitulation of France and the terms agreed to by its new government under that 84-year-old hero, Marshal Pétain, who has been used as the "front man" by politicians who lacked moral courage to shoulder the responsibility for the complete surrender to the Nazis, brought denunciation from Prime Minister Churchill and the British, and resulted in the amazing naval battle between the British and French fleets at Oran, and a practical state of war between countries which only a few weeks ago were going to fight Germany to the last gun and the last man.

The rapid change from alliance to enmity between Britain and France brought a realization to some supposedly quite intelligent persons in the U. S. A. that "self-preservation" is the first law (or one of the first laws) of human nature. These erstwhile interventionists have been forced to admit that realism must be considered as well as idealism. They admit that Britain may be forced to submit to an overwhelming bombardment by Nazi and Fascist air forces. They admit that the U. S. A. is not prepared to prevent invasion of South American countries by the European dictators. They even admit the vulnerability of the Panama Canal and the precarious lack of national defence by the U. S. A.

The influence of Germany and Italy in South America is increasingly admitted. The Argentine, Brazil, Chile, Uruguay decline to join in the conference at Havana. Congress is taking a recess for 10 days. Nothing definite has yet been done toward enacting a law for compulsory training in this country. The offer of Henry Ford to ready his factories so that he could turn out 1000 airplanes a day has not been accepted. According to a leading aviation authority of this country, Germany was turning out 3600 airplanes a month even before it seized the factories of France. This country is proceeding along the mistaken path which Britain and France followed—that it has plenty of time to prepare for a long war. The avalanche of armed might is about to engulf Britain. If it overwhelms that island, as many fear, it won't be two years before Hitler and Mussolini send their forces toward South America, and perhaps North America. It will be a period of months, or probably weeks. Time, tide and dictators wait for neither man nor democracies.

Last Saturday night a cricket started chirping in the back yard at our home, and he has been chirping each night since more industriously, or fervently than most other crickets we have ever heard. By actual count this ardent Gryllidae swain chirped 256 times in one minute, and during the 60 seconds he paused three times to catch his breath, or disentangle his wings.

Start Work On Russell Road at Newton Corner

A large crew of Street Department employees started work this week on grading and improving Russell rd., Newton. This is a short street leading from Charlesbank rd. to Charles River Parkway. It is an old road and 60 and more years ago was used by horse-drawn wagons to carry coal, which was brought up Charles River in barges to Brackett's coal wharf which was located at the foot of this lane. In conjunction with the work at Russell rd., Charlesbank rd. will be resurfaced from St. James' st. to the sharp angle about 100 yards west of this intersection.

50 YEARS AGO

Newton Graphic, June 27, 1890.

Dr. Carroll lost a valuable horse on Sunday night from colic. The animal was sick only a few hours.

There is really a prospect of one public bath house in this city, as an order for one at Bullough's Pond was passed by the Common Council on Monday night.

Mr. A. C. Bailey has purchased the Allen house on Hunnewell Hill and is moving it to a lot on Mr. Barker's land near Elliot bicycle factory.

One of the most beautiful views in this locality can be obtained by walking down Kendrick st. toward Elliot's greenhouses, and then following the road over Nonantum Hill to Oak Sq. It is only a short walk and from the summit of the hill one can see for miles in all directions.

Raymond Calkins of Newton received the two highest honors in modern literature in his Harvard course, and was one of the ten who stood high enough to be entitled to an oration on the commencement program. Leighton Calkins secured a disquisition, an evidence of very satisfactory standing.

The street lights went out suddenly last Saturday night, caused by the low water in the Charles River from which the condenser at the gas and electric plant is supplied. A force of men were put to work digging another channel, and at 10 o'clock water was obtained and the lights were put on again.

The police department patrol wagon was used for the first time on Sunday when it brought a prisoner from Nonantum to West Newton. On Monday afternoon it was used for ambulance work and conveyed a woman to the Newton Cottage Hospital.

A. W. Snow of Newton Centre sold a valuable trotting horse to a Newton Highlands resident this week. The price was about $800.

Mr. Linton's Vocophone Band from Newton Upper Falls has been engaged to play for J. Wiley Edmunds' Camp, Sons of Veterans next Monday evening at their strawberry festival in Knights of Honor Hall, West Newton.

President Hyde of the Common Council presided at the meeting of the School Board on Wednesday evening. Miss Emily Wheeler was appointed an unassigned teacher at $500 per annum. Martha Dix was appointed a special assistant at the Bigelow, Peirce and Mason schools at $3 per day.

Both the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council met on Monday night. Alderman Harbach presented an order authorizing the building of three bath-houses, one each at Crystal Lake, Bullough's Pond and Boyd Pond, and that $1600 be appropriated for this purpose. Alderman Pettee said that the use of the bath-houses would be simply for recreation and amusement, and he did not see why the city should supply buildings just for fun. If it were from cleanliness, he would not object, but in a city as sparsely populated as Newton, he did not think bath-houses necessary.

Alderman Harbach said it is quite as important to have bath-houses as to have playgrounds, and bathing is a healthful recreation. Alderman Pettee said he still doubted the propriety of the city providing places just for recreation.

These bath-houses seem to be only for boys. It is just as important to provide them for the girls and also teach them to swim. Alderman Fenno moved that the order be amended to appropriate only $600 for one bath-house, at Bullough's Pond. Alderman Pettee was the only member to vote against it.

Automobile Accidents

A car operated by Alice Bourque of Stow st., Waltham hit a parked car on River st., West Newton last Friday afternoon. Theresa Guzzi of 43 Oak ave., West Newton, operator of the automobile which was hit, and Lena Sauro of Henshaw st., who was sitting in the car, both claimed to have received injuries.

John Bettencourt of 22 Lyman st., Newton Centre, was injured about the face and head on Tuesday night when the car he was driving was hit by a mail truck driven by John Quinn of Hagen rd., Newton Centre. Bettencourt's car had run out of gasoline on Beacon st. and it had been pushed to the filling station at 792 Beacon st. by another automobile. As Bettencourt received injuries to his face and head and was taken to Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

A car driven by Ernest Paputseanos of 341 Columbia st., Cambridge, hit a pole at California st. and Wymonding rd., Newtonville, about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Neighbors heard the crash and notified police. Paputseanos was found lying on the ground, about 12 feet from the wrecked car. He was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance and treated for a brain concussion and probable fracture of the skull. The police believe that a blow-out in the right front tire caused the accident.

Newton Hlds. Man Wins Automobile

Dr. J. Douglas Thompson of 64 Columbus st., Newton Highlands was the lucky winner of the automobile awarded as a prize in conjunction with the annual field day of Newton Post, A. L. The field day, scheduled for July 4th but postponed because of inclement weather on that day, was held at Norumbega Park last Saturday. Two other prizes given in connection with the field day, were won by Julius Goldman of Chelsea and Lillian Nickerson of Waverley. The former received a bicycle and the latter a radio set.

UNITARIAN CHURCHES JOIN TO RAISE FUNDS FOR CZECH REFUGEES IN FRANCE

The Newton Centre Unitarian Society, the West Newton Unitarian Society and the Channing Religious Society of Newton Corner have joined in a united effort to raise funds for the relief of Czechoslovakian refugees in France. They have formed the Newton Unitarian Service Committee to serve as their fund raising agency, with its headquarters at 49 Park st., Newton. The local Committee will turn over all sums received to the national Unitarian Service Committee of the American Unitarian Association, whose representatives will distribute it among the Czechs in France. These representatives, Rev. and Mrs. Waitstill Sharpe of Wellesley Hills, are already at work in France, where, they report, the need is great and immediate.

Czechs in France number at least fifty thousand, many of them in dire need, all of them in pitiable circumstances. Dr. Robert C. Dexter, recently returned from thirteen weeks of investigation abroad as Executive Director of the Service Committee, reports that "relatively little, in some places nothing, is being done to aid the Czechs." Moreover, he goes on to add, by previous experience Unitarians are peculiarly qualified to help them. For some years Unitarians aided the Czechs in their native land, notably through the earlier work of the same Rev. and Mrs. Waitstill Sharpe now representing the Committee in France. "The names of Waitstill and Martha Sharpe," says Dr. Dexter, "our first Commissioners, trained and experienced social workers, are symbols of courage, sympathy and hope, wherever the Czechs live and struggle." The national Service Committee is now striving to raise twenty-five thousand dollars, to be put at the disposal of Rev. and Mrs. Sharpe, in meeting the immediate needs of the Czechs. It opportunistically affords the Sharpes may also assist Dutch refugees in France.

The Newton Unitarian Service Committee is made up of Mr. William F. Coan representing the Newton Centre Society, Rev. Herbert Hitchen, representing the West Newton Society, and Rev. Irving R. Murray, representing the Channing Religious Society. The Committee will receive checks or money-orders at 49 Park st., Newton; all persons, whether affiliated with a Unitarian church or not, are earnestly solicited for contributions to the fund.

Red Cross Secures Quota Through Generous Givers

The appeal of the American Red Cross for special funds for the succor of victims of war in Europe has met with the generous and understanding response of the American people, as they have ever responded to the requests of this great humanitarian organization. In a message of thanks and appreciation from the National Organization at Washington, D. C., Chairman Norman Davis writes, in regard to this assistance in raising, not only the first mentioned sum of $10,000,000, but of this sum doubled, due to the constantly increasing need:

"It must be a source of satisfaction to every contributor in knowing that his gift is helping to relieve human suffering in the greatest catastrophe of all times."

The Newton Chapter of American Red Cross expresses its thanks and appreciation, also, to those who have made it possible for them to attain its quota of $24,000. Through the Chapter Headquarters, the Chapter, Mr. Charles R. Cabot, chairman, announces that 1,892 contributors, individual and organizations, gave to Headquarters or through the banks of the city, a total of $24,294.70. These figures do not include the gifts of hundreds of children in the schools, and individually, to the Children's Fund, to assist the children overseas.

That the services of the American Red Cross are directly needed in war-torn Europe, all realize, and every contributor in Newton may well feel, indeed, a satisfaction in the thought that each gift is making possible this great service of the Red Cross.

40 WPA Workers Restored To Lists

Forty Newton residents who were dropped from the WPA recently received word on Monday to report for work on various WPA projects. Their return increased the number of Newton residents on WPA lists to 202. Seven of those who went back to work were white-collar men who started on a project which will obtain records of city payrolls for the past ten years. This information will make it easier to compute pensions for city employees who will be retired on pensions.

Sunbeam Chats

Maybe it's the warm weather that upset my usual good nature but I went on a strike and refused to eat my dinner one day. My mother was real sensible 'bout it. I heard her tell Daddy I am a human being even if I am little and after all everybody has times when food doesn't appeal. She didn't make me eat—just put food at my place—I kind of expected her to urge me to eat but no one paid any attention to me. After awhile she took it away. When I had a nap I felt kind of hungry. I wanted something to eat but Mother said if I wasn't hungry enough to eat my dinner I wasn't hungry enough to have anything 'til supper. She gave me a drink of water and when I fussed she just went off and left me alone. I walked awhile but when supper came I ate a lot. Daddy told Mother afterwards maybe lots of kids would eat better if their fond parents gave them a little wholesome nosh at meal time. Wonder what he meant?

(Sunbeam Chats are sponsored by the Newton District Nursing Association.)

John M. Walker Reports Use Of Summer Furniture Increasing

The display of summer furniture at the Home Specialties, Inc., on the Worcester Turnpike, continues to attract the attention of hundreds of passing motorists daily.

Luxurious lounges, swank beach chairs and umbrellas in a mixture of riotous colors, catch the eye as only color will. Each year more and more people find pleasure in outdoor living and the effect is an ever increasing manifestation of interest in this type of furniture.

Mr. John M. Walker, president of the corporation, puts it this way: "It used to be that owners of large estates with spacious lawns and extensive grounds were the only ones who gave a thought to furnishing their grounds with appropriate furniture. Now everybody likes to live outdoors. Small home-owners use the gold-mine of space around the house for an extra living room. It's smart to be comfortable out of doors. And it's not hard on the budget, either. As a result our sales of summer furniture has increased tremendously."

Newton Fifth In Building In June

Newton ranked fifth among Massachusetts cities in residential building construction during the month of June. New Bedford nominally was first, with $709,200, but as $700,000 of this was a Federal housing project, the real activity in the former prosperous industrial city, was very little. Boston with $119,411; Worcester third with $186,200; Cambridge fourth with $171,400, most of which is for two apartment houses; Newton fifth with $160,000; Belmont sixth with $131,450.

Abolish Job of City Veterinary

Mayor Goddard announced on Thursday that the office of City Veterinary had been abolished because the city had disposed of all the horses it formerly owned. The office carried a salary of $400 a year and had been filled for many years by the late Dr. Arthur Boutelle of Newton Centre who also was Inspector of Animals at $350 per year. The duties of the latter position consist mostly of examining the many dogs which bite people in this city. At the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen Mayor Goddard submitted the appointment of Dr. Richard Schofield as successor to Dr. Boutelle. Dr. Schofield quite recently moved to Newton from Wellesley. In addition to the salary as inspector of animals, there is an extra compensation for service at the annual clinics held to inoculate dogs against rabies.

Newton Committee To Defend America

Major General Daniel H. Needham, former commanding officer of the 26th Division, Mass. National Guard, and prominent Boston lawyer, has accepted chairmanship of the newly formed Newton Committee to Defend America, according to Mayo A. Shattuck, executive vice-chairman of the New England Committee to Defend America. Practically every leading citizen and most of the towns in Massachusetts have now organized active defense committees, he says.

The newly formed Newton Committee, which is composed of more than 100 leading representative men and women of the community, was organized by a committee of ten prominent citizens headed by Charles F. Rittenhouse. Others on the organization committee are: Mayor Paul M. Goddard, Haskell Cohn, William M. Cahill, Melvin D. Liming, Clarence G. McDavitt, Allyn B. McIntire, Brooks Potter, Frank L. Richardson and Forrest L. Martz.

The Newton Committee is planning a large public defense meeting for the immediate future.

Ask For Business Zone at Oak Hill

Albert and Mary Eichorn of Brookline have filed a petition with the Newton Board of Aldermen asking that five acres of land owned by them at Oak Hill, adjoining the West Roxbury line, be changed from private residence to business zone. The land is bounded by LaGrange and Vine sts. and Mount Benedict Cemetery. Recently the Eichorns petitioned for a filling station permit at a lot of land on LaGrange st., which is part of the area referred to. The locus on which they desired the filling station was used for such a purpose some years ago, but the business was abandoned. At the hearing on that petition a relative of the Eichorns stated that since the City of Newton improved LaGrange st. a couple of years ago, traffic has largely increased.

The territory in the vicinity of the Eichorn property has been largely swamp land, but drainage projects have been undertaken in Oak Hill in late years, and many residences have been erected in areas of Brookline and West Roxbury nearby.

School Showers Again Available For Playgrounds

Facilities in Newton school buildings, including showers and the use of toilets, which children and adults using Newton playground had been deprived of because of a recent ruling of Ulysses Lupien, chairman of the State Civil Service Commission, were again made available following a conference last Friday between Mayor Goddard, Recreation Commissioner Wilson and school officials. The School Committee would not permit the use of the school buildings unless the janitors of the buildings were present to supervise their use. Commissioner Lupien ruled that the janitors cannot be employed by the Recreation Department because of a State law which forbids anyone regularly employed by a city or town holding a part time job in another capacity. The problem was solved by the Recreation Department dropping the janitors from its payroll and the School Department agreeing to pay them.

The school buildings involved are the Lincoln-Elliott, Stearns at Nonantum, Bowen at Thompsonville.

Newton Kiwanians To Have Boat Trip

Members of the Newton Kiwanis Club are planning a day's outing on a boat trip some time next month. Arrangements are being made under the direction of President John A. Janso.

C. D. Potter, a member of the Coral Gables Club of Florida, was a visitor of the Newton Club at their meeting on Tuesday.

The committee in charge of the meeting to honor James P. Gallagher, newly elected International Vice-President of Kiwanis, reported that arrangements were nearly completed. This affair will be held on July 31st at Norumbega Park. Representatives are expected from practically all of the clubs in New England. Wilfred Chagnon is the chairman of the committee making arrangements.

After the meeting last Tuesday, the Board of Directors of the local club met and voted favorably on three applications for membership. These members will be inducted at a future meeting. The names of those applying are John Russak of Newton Centre, Benjamin F. Louis of Newton Corner, and Francis J. Barry of Newton Corner.

Speeders Fined In Newton Court

Leroy Mick of 68 Austin st., Newtonville, was fined $10 in the Newton court on Monday for speeding. On a similar charge Edmund Jefkin of Boston and Dr. Robert Millikan of Manchester each was fined $5. Eva Knost, 39, of 82 Gainsboro st., Boston, was charged with driving by a red light at a traffic signal. Her case was placed on file.

In the Newton court on Thursday Royal Reed of Cedar st., Malden was fined $25 for speeding; it was his second conviction within a year. Gregory Walmsley, Jr. of Milton was fined $10 for speeding and $5 fines were imposed on John L. Chase of Dorchester and Sidney Sofnas of Roxbury. Domenico Olivio of Waltham was fined $5 for driving a car without proper lights. For entering a through street without stopping, Harold Gleason of Tappan st., Brookline and Dwight Shepperd of Hammond st., Chestnut Hill each was fined $5.

Did Not Prove Who Threw Firecracker

Antonio Esposito, 69, of 189 Adams st., Nonantum was found not guilty by Judge Weston in the Newton court on Tuesday on a charge of assault and battery on one Proia. Mr. Proia testified that as he passed Esposito's home on June 28 firecrackers were thrown at him from a second story balcony on the house. Proia was hit on the head by the explosives, his neck was burned and his hat damaged. Judge Weston commented that the assault was outrageous, but that there was no evidence to prove that Esposito himself was the person who threw the firecrackers.

Break Ground for Parish House of St. Mary's Church at Lower Falls

Ground for the new $40,000 parish house and community building to be erected as an addition to historic St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Newton Lower Falls, was broken at a special ceremony (Tuesday) morning at 9 a. m.

The first shovel of dirt was turned by Miss Eva Wiswall, 84, one of the oldest members of the parish. Her family has been affiliated with the church since 1813 when ground was broken for the church edifice. Her great-grandfather, Zibson Hooker, a drummer boy in the Revolution, where he served for 7 years, was present at the first ceremony. He is buried in the famous old Burying Ground adjoining the church. Miss Wiswall was present at the 75th, 100th and 125th anniversaries of the church. A prayer by Rev. Roger W. Bennett, rector, was followed by a talk by E. Deane Seely, senior warden and chairman of the building committee.

Mayor Paul W. Goddard spoke. Special guests included G. W. Cutting, Jr., Treasurer of Weston and Garrett S. Hoag of the Wellesley selectmen were special guests. Ralph Benton represented Meridian Lodge of Masons, Natick, which took part, with the Grand Lodge, in the corner-stone ceremonies of the church in 1813.

Traffic Officer Does Fast Driving

Mrs. Mary Coleman of 59 Bowers st., Newtonville was driven from Newtonville to Salem, 31 miles, in 40 minutes on Wednesday by Traffic Officer Dowling of the Newton police. Mrs. Coleman had received word that her 11 year old son, who was at a camp at Salem Willows, had been suddenly stricken with appendicitis. An immediate operation was necessary, but her written signature had to be obtained before the operation could be performed. Police headquarters was notified and Dowling drove the woman to Salem hospital in a police car.

License Revoked Drove; Not Guilty

An interesting decision was made by Judge Mayberry in the Newton court last Friday when he found Peter Sostilio of 60 Webster st., Needham not guilty of driving an automobile after his license had been revoked, and also of driving an uninsured and unregistered car. Sostilio formerly resided at 421 Langley rd., Newton Centre. Registry Inspector A. J. Connors was the complainant against Sostilio. Sostilio testified that he had received notice from the Registry of Motor Vehicles that his license was revoked, but that he had taken an appeal to the State Insurance Board and later to the Superior Court. He alleged that he had received no notice that his appeal had been refused by the court. Early in May the company which had insured Sostilio's car cancelled the policy and on May 6 the Insurance Board sustained the action of the company. An appeal was then taken to Suffolk Superior Court, and on June 3 the court upheld the ruling of the Insurance Board, but Sostilio continued to drive the car, which was then uninsured.

Jeremiah Leary, supervisor of the Waltham branch of the Registry of Motor Vehicles produced copies of the notices which had been mailed to Sostilio, and asserted that the State statute provides that the introduction of an attested copy of such a notice is prima facie evidence that the owner of an automobile has received it. Judge Mayberry ruled that the evidence did not show that Sostilio had received the notice.

Young Boys Admit West Newton Break

Six boys, whose ages range from 10 to 13 years of age and who reside on Cambria, Lodge and Falmouth rds., West Newton, admitted responsibility last Friday to Inspector Joseph Lyons for a burglary on June 24 at the home of Blythe Jones, 38 Lodge rd., West Newton. On that date the boys broke a cellar window at the Jones home, and then smashed a rear door with an axe. Then they ransacked the house, causing considerable damage, and stole $30 in cash, a watch and a compass. They claimed that they buried the cash but that someone else took it from the hiding place. The damage they caused was estimated at $80.

Newton Girl Graduates As Physiotherapist

Graduated from the Massachusetts School of Physiotherapy at exercises held recently at Cantabrigia Hall, Cambridge, was Miss Edythe Barbara Whittem, 10 Columbus terrace, Newton Highlands. Miss Whittem's diploma was presented to her and to the other 49 graduates, by Joseph M. McElroy, Sheriff of Middlesex County. During the past year, Miss Whittem held the office of vice president of the class. She has been placed by the School in the office of Dr. Raymond Johnson of Newton Highlands, and is enjoying her new position.

With the National Defense Program placing special emphasis on the medical profession, including physiotherapy, the Massachusetts School of Physiotherapy, located at 199 Prospect st., Cambridge, is cooperating in fitting students as X-Ray and Physiotherapy technicians and doctors' assistants. Day and evening classes are conducted for both men and women.

These precincts include 2 in Ward 1, Precinct 1 in Ward 3; 1 in Ward 4 and 2 in Ward 7.

Small Boys, Matches Cause Two Fires

Two fires in Newton last Friday noon were attributed to small children playing with matches. At 12:45 Mrs. Edward Ackerman smelled smoke issuing from the living room at her home on the second floor of the house at 149 Pearl st., Newton and found that an upholstered chair was afire. She rescued her four year old son and sent a telephone call to fire alarm headquarters. The fire spread and gutted the upper part of the house. It also caused considerable water and smoke damage to the lower apartment occupied by Mrs. Mary Melanson. The house is owned by Mrs. Sarah Morgan. The damage was estimated at about $3000.

At 1:33 p. m. Friday Mrs. Frank Howe of 37 Gay st., Newtonville, was in the kitchen at her home when her 5 year old son came from upstairs and told her there was a fire in a bedroom. She telephoned an alarm and called to two boys who were in front of the house, Archer Rouds and Eugene Mahoney, both of Frederick st. The boys rushed up to the bedroom and with pillows succeeded in checking the blaze until the firemen arrived. An ignited window curtain had spread the blaze to furniture and a bed. Damage was estimated at $200.

Not Guilty of Dangerous Driving

Marceau Demonding of 40 Charles st., Needham, was found not guilty of driving a car so as to endanger the safety of the public by Judge Delay in the Newton court on Saturday. At 2:30 a. m. on May 30 a car driven by the defendant hit a pole and a stone wall opposite 1542 Centre st., Newton Centre. His jaw was broken in the crash. Sergeant Burke of the Traffic Bureau testified that Demonding reported to him that he fell asleep at the steering wheel of the car. Demonding testified that he had eaten fried clams at Nantasket that night and had been stricken ill while driving the automobile.

Auto Hits Girl At West Newton

An automobile driven by Paul Cutler of Cambridge rd., Woburn, hit Florence Carroll, 16, of 348 Belmont st., Watertown as she was running to board a bus at River and Lexington sts., West Newton. She received a back injury and was taken to her home and then to the Cambridge Hospital by Cutler for treatment. She was released from the hospital as not being seriously injured. Cutler reported that he did not know whether his car hit the girl, or she ran into the side of the vehicle.

Speeder Fined $25 In Newton Court

Phillip Solomon of Worcester was fined $25 by Judge Mayberry in the Newton court on Tuesday when found guilty of speeding. It was Solomon's second speeding conviction within a year.

William Morgan of Everett was found guilty of driving a car at a rate of 60 miles along the turnpike. Morgan produced part of the carburetor of the car as evidence that it was defective and that because of it he could not control the speed of the automobile at the time he was apprehended. Judge Mayberry commented that Morgan had no right to drive a car on the highways that he could not control, and then placed the case on file.

In court on Tuesday fines of $5 for speeding were imposed on John Colony, 26 Chesterfield rd., West Newton; Merrill Nutting, 30 Chase st., Newton Centre; Perry Drennan, Brockton; Charles Mulcahy, Cambridge; Samuel Levy, Dorchester. Letters To The Editor

Editor, Newton Graphic:

In Newton the "green borders" between the sidewalks and streets are disgraceful to our lovely city. No grass in many places, even the dirt washed away in others, grass tall as hay in still others. Our own is the only border well kept in our locality. We have carefully cared for it for 30 years, but the city even destroys what well kept borders there are—first, by the revolving brush of the street-sweeping machine which just recently chewed off eight inches of our beautiful, green bank; second, if the street-sweeper machine doesn't, the men with hoes chop it off; third, in the Fall city men burn leaves for hours right up on this border. Grass roots are killed, the dirt pulverized, and the rain washes it away. Fourth—no notice is ever given abutters asking each to care for his own strip, and not to burn anything on the borders.

Can you put anything in your paper by way of suggestion to the city so that the city will improve and not destroy its own grass borders.

Respectfully,

WARD 7 RESIDENT.

Newton Boys At Fort Ethan Allen C.M.T.C. Camp

Middlesex County is represented by 51 boys at the 1940 C. M. T. C. Camp at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont. Of this number 27 of the students have chosen to train in Field Artillery and 24 in the Cavalry. Nine of these students are in the Blue of fourth and final year. Included among them are John W. Weeks, 2nd, of Valentine st., West Newton, a member of Battery B, Field Artillery, and Harold W. Marshall, Jr., of 63 Clark st., Newton Centre, a member of Troop D, Cavalry. Upon completion of their work this year they will be eligible for enrollment as officers in reserve.

Herbert Deacy, Jr., of 73 Clark st., Newton Centre, is a third year artillery student, and Richard Hay of 232 Watertown st., Nonantum, is a third year cavalry student. Second year students include Robert Greer of Brackett rd., Newton; Henry Gowing, Jr., of 41 Vineyard rd., Newton Centre; Walter Pearson of 46 Columbus st., Newton Highlands. Paul Campbell of 3 Pond ave., Newton, is a first year cavalry student.

The object of the Citizens' Military Training Camps is the development of closer national and social unity by bringing together young men of all types, both native and foreign born, to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship. The interest of youths is stimulated in the importance of military training as a means of developing true Americanism. During the thirty day duration of the camp the students are developed physically, mentally, and morally. Instruction of enrollees consists of elementary military science, athletic coaching, training in marksmanship, and the teaching of principles of personal hygiene, first aid and the privileges and obligations of citizenship.

All necessary expenses including transportation to and from camp, food, uniforms, athletic equipment, laundry service, and medical care are provided by the government to give America's youth a month of army life without enrollment in the regular army.

Celebrates First Solemn High Mass

Rev. Clement James J. Shaughnessy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Shaughnessy of 136 Jewett st., Newton, celebrated his first solemn high mass at Our Lady's Church, Newton, last Sunday. He was assisted by Rev. Daniel Riordan as deacon and Rev. James Fahey as sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. Thomas Kilduff. Father Shaughnessy is a member of the Carmelite Order and studied at San Antonio, Texas and Oklahoma City before going to the Carmelite College in Rome three years ago. American students in this and other colleges at Rome returned to the U. S. A. just before Italy entered the war. Father Shaughnessy was ordained at Oklahoma City recently by Bishop Kelly and will return to that city to resume his duties with the Carmelite Order. He formerly resided in Faneuil.

CHISHOLM AGAIN OUT FOR COUNTY COMMISSION POST

Ernest J. Chisholm of Medford, wholesale business executive, today announced his candidacy for nomination and election as County Commissioner of Middlesex County, on the Republican ticket.

ERNEST J. CHISHOLM
In County Race

A graduate of the Massachusetts public school and college system, Mr. Chisholm, at an early age, became identified with the business world in an executive capacity; first as a chain store manager; secondly as a retail store owner, and thirdly with a large Boston wholesale house, his present vocation. He is a former Medford Kiwanian and a past director of the Medford Chamber of Commerce.

At this time he feels that men trained in business principles should be the choice of the electorate, and, to a large extent, men trained in politics, should be discarded, particularly those whose only claim to eligibility for elective office is past political experience. Mr. Chisholm has always had the industrial and agricultural interests of the citizens of the county at heart.

EDWARD H.

Powers' Paragraphs

A well known Newton resident came into our office the other day to voice a complaint. This gentleman has resided in Newton for 50 years and while conservative in his training he is liberal enough in his views to make allowance for the greatly changed conditions of today as contrasted with the Victorian period of his youth. He is also engaged in a profession that perforce keeps one up with the times. But, he believes that certain conventionalities should be still recognized, and that some degree of refinement should be observed.

This citizen was indignant because of a practise he has observed this summer by some of our newer residents who play tennis on the courts at Burr Park Playground Sunday mornings. He said that as he and other residents of Ward 7 walk by Burr Park on their way to various churches, they have observed men playing tennis on the playground courts attired in brief shorts, and naked from the waist up. Moreover some of these near nudists are of the hirsute variety. He asked us to what degree nudity is permitted on public playgrounds in Newton? We informed him that we did not know, and we telephoned Recreation Commissioner Wilson to ascertain the rule of the Recreation Department on this matter. The Commissioner stated that persons using public playgrounds in this city are supposed to wear a shirt in addition to shorts and are not permitted to be naked from the waist up. He said he would take measures to stop the near nudity which has been practised by some at Burr Park. And the same rule applies to all other playgrounds in the Newtons.

Last year we referred to the difficulty which confronts policemen in proper performance of their duties. If they enforce the law they are criticised, if they don't enforce the law they are criticised. Some policemen use good judgment; some don't. Some are too zealous, others never on their own initiative, make an arrest. Some policemen compel citizens to obey city ordinances and respect the rights of other people. Such officers become quite unpopular with persons who are selfish or who seek special privileges. The opposite type of policeman, the easy going fellow, permits infractions of city ordinances and even laws. He is apt to be more popular than the conscientious guardian of law and order, and more apt to receive gifts at Christmas—or at other times.

For many years the principal activities of policemen have been in connection with the enforcement of automobile laws, and city traffic and parking ordinances. With so many automobiles operated, infractions of these laws and ordinances became so common, and so large a percentage of those offending having been persons of more or less influence, the practise of "fixing" cases for such offenders became common all over this "speed-mad" country of ours. In fact "fixing" became more or less a racket not only among some policemen but also among better paid officials of the legal machinery of this country, including those in court houses and district attorneys' departments. And the instigators of "fixing" included (and includes) citizens of high repute who ordinarily blather about their respect for law and order, and good citizenship.

On April 1, 1940 in order to lessen fixing of automobile cases in Newton involving illegal parking, a so-called "three way tag" system was inaugurated in Newton. This system causes policemen to fill out a tag with three sections. One section is sent to the offender, one to the Traffic Bureau at police headquarters, the third goes to the Clerk of Court. This system was devised under a State statute to eliminate criminal prosecution on minor traffic violations. Offenders must report to the Clerk of Court's office and receive successfully a warning, $1 penalty, $2 penalty, and for a fourth offence within a year—a summons to appear in court.

On July 1, 1940 in a further attempt to minimize "fixing" in Newton Chief of Police Hughes ordered that in all cases of traffic violations where a policeman apprehends some offending driver and decides that the case warrants criminal prosecution in court, the policeman at the end of his day's tour of duty, must drop the complaint slip in a locked box at police headquarters. The Chief and the two inspectors connected with the Traffic Bureau were the only members of the department having keys to this box. Last Monday this order was changed so that instead of dropping the complaints into the locked box, they are to be dropped into a slot in the locked door of the Traffic Bureau, or given to the Traffic Bureau inspectors when they are on duty in the office.

We cite these instances to show the trend toward proper enforcement of traffic laws and ordinances in Newton, and the effort to lessen "fixing" on the part of some policemen who have a tendency to be too lenient, or too ready to yield to the pleas of offenders—or their friends.

Conversely, we shall refer to another side of the enforcement of traffic laws and ordinances in Newton. Some months ago Patrolman Leo Gagnon was assigned to night patrol duty on the route which includes Waban business district. Gagnon is a comparatively new man on the police force. He has been a regular patrolman since April, 1937 and was formerly assigned to night duty at Newton Upper Falls where he earned the reputation of being zealous in the performance of his duties. Last year he was assigned to the newly created traffic bureau by order of Ex-Mayor Childs. Because Gagnon was only on the force a couple of years, because the assignment to the Traffic Bureau gave him preference over a large number of policemen his senior in service, there was much criticism of this assignment. In April of this year, as a result of the election of Mayor Goddard and the restoration of control of the police department to the Chief, there was a change of personnel in the Traffic Bureau and Inspectors Burke and Hammel who had been in charge of automobile accident investigation for some years before, were assigned to the Traffic Bureau and Gagnon was returned to patrol duty and assigned to Waban.

Probably because Patrolman Gagnon takes his duties seriously and because of his unflinching zeal in the business section on Beacon st. there, shortly after Gagnon had been assigned to the Traffic Bureau the preceding year, he started to strictly enforce traffic rules in Waban sq. Waban became quite traffic minded following a fatal traffic accident on March 4, 1939 when a parked automobile backed out from the curb on Beacon st., rolled down the grade, circled back onto the curb and hit a sign which broke, fell down and fatally injured an Auburndale woman who happened to be standing on the sidewalk. Waban residents held meetings following that accident, and signs were placed in the business section at Beacon st. urging motor vehicle drivers to use care in the parking of their cars. Because of this, it would be natural to suppose that a policeman assigned to Waban business district should believe that the people of that community would approve of strict enforcement of traffic laws and traffic ordinances in that section.

Several weeks ago Gagnon was the complainant against an automobile driver in the Newton court and in court that day it was asserted that the defendant had threatened the policeman that a petition for his removal from Waban square would be started. A couple of other Waban residents who were also arraigned in the Newton court on charges of traffic violations after complaints by Gagnon, also were quite critical of him. Last Monday, July 15, Gagnon was ordered transferred from night duty on foot at Waban to cruising car duty at Oak Hill, and Patrolman Bagley who had been on duty in the Oak Hill car was assigned to Waban. The change was ordered by the Chief. We have been informed that it was not the result of any petition asking for Gagnon's transfer.

With measures having recently been instituted to offset non-feasance of duty as regards automobile law and ordinance enforcement by policemen who are too lenient, or too susceptible to influence, and with a policeman being transferred because he was allegedly too zealous in the performance of his duty the old truism is again evidenced—that if a policeman enforces the law he is criticised, if he does not enforce the law, he is criticised. It would not be surprising if policemen assigned to Waban square in the future will be apt to be lenient with speeders, and with those who disobey traffic ordinances at Waban square.

The statement made last week by President Roosevelt "that no American soldiers will fight in Europe," was rather belated, coming a few weeks after France had capitulated. Where in Europe would American soldiers fight now, and what would they fight with?

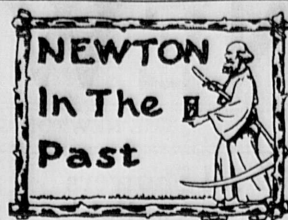

Japan is becoming increasingly arrogant in the Far East. The trouble between American marines and Japanese gendarmes in Shanghai, one instance of the directions of City Engineer Noyes borings have been made in this locality from Needham st. to and beyond Nahanton st. At a depth of from 30 to 50 feet a stratum of coarse gravel, sand and hardpan runs from 1 to 12 feet in thickness, overlying bed rock. Above the gravel was quicksand from 2 to 30 feet deep. As the subsoil of the water shed extending from Crystal Lake, Bald Pate Hill and Oak Hill, is of the same nature, there is no doubt of a large flow of water through this area. As the quicksand will not allow driven wells or a filtering basin, it is proposed to drive a series of tube wells that will flow 600,000 or more gallons a day.

Postmaster General James Farley probably now has the same opinion of some of the Massachusetts delegates to the Democratic national convention that other persons had of some of the delegates when they professed such loyalty to Mr. Farley a few short months ago.

How times have changed. Not so many years ago Republican national conventions would be dominated by a small group of men and Democratic conventions were more or less untrammelled. The recent Republican convention was apparently unbossed and a real contest ensued. The Democratic convention was absolutely controlled by one man and everything was "in the bag."

Jim Farley is a better loser than was Al Smith.

If the Solid South were not so loyally Democratic it is more than probable that it would shift in part to Willie because of the lack of defeat for the Vice Presidential nomination by Wallace, personally selected by the President. But, it is a

Edward P. Burnham left Newton on Monday for Woodstock, Canada to compete in the bicycle race on July 1. He also has entered in the one mile tricycle championship of America to come off at Buffalo, today, July 3.

During the storm on Monday afternoon the rainfall was very heavy. Some of the streets were badly washed, several cellars were flooded and much damage done. Sharp lightning accompanied the storm.

To Mr. W. H. Partridge is due in a great measure the phenomenal success of the Read Fund Picnic last Saturday. Under the authority of the committee, his unflinching zeal was felt by all who were present on the occasion. It proves that one person who puts his whole soul into his work can accomplish more than a whole army of half-hearted workers.

John Leavitt and Edward Leavitt of Newton are among those who have entered in the swimming races at Boston on July 4th, and Horace Crocker has entered in the bicycle and tricycle races.

At the open air service of the Newton Y. M. C. A. on the bank grounds last Sunday, the address was given by Rev. H. L. Hastings, one of the men recently arrested for preaching on Boston Common. He had just commenced to read his text when a shower suddenly came up and scattered his audience. The audience regathered in Eliot Hall and Rev. Mr. Hastings preached a different sermon, suggested by the sudden flight to escape the rain. It was taken from the words—"Who have fled for refuge to lay hold on the hope set before them in the Gospel."

Saturday morning came in hot and pleasant, full of joyous anticipation to those boys and girls of Newton Corner who gathered at Nonantum Square to attend the picnic held under the bequest of the late Charles A. Read. The Highland Brass band was there and played attractive music. At 9 o'clock eight open horse-cars filled with a happy crowd of children and some older persons started amidst the whirling strains of music. The ride through Watertown and Cambridge was delightful and in a little over an hour Spy Pond Grove in Arlington was reached. Its stillness was soon broken by the merry laughs and shouts of happy boys and girls. Prof. Emerson with his funny mechanical figures gave exhibitions during the day. Some persons were fed with 600 sandwiches, 200 rolls, 1000 drop cakes and twenty large tubs of lemonade. Soon after 4:30 the cars started on the return trip and the enthusiasm of the children was manifested over the route by the lusty cheers of the boys, and the combined music of the band and voices singing "Marching Through Georgia" and other familiar airs.

The Newton Water Board has decided to begin operations to obtain additional water supply, as the present filter basin in a dry time would be hardly sufficient to supply the demand. At a meeting of the Common Council on Monday an appropriation of $15,000 was made for an additional supply which is to be obtained on the opposite side of the Charles River from the present basin at Needham. Under the directions of City Engineer Noyes borings have been made in this locality from Needham st. to and beyond Nahanton st. At a depth of from 30 to 50 feet a stratum of coarse gravel, sand and hardpan runs from 1 to 12 feet in thickness, overlying bed rock. Above the gravel was quicksand from 2 to 30 feet deep. As the subsoil of the water shed extending from Crystal Lake, Bald Pate Hill and Oak Hill, is of the same nature, there is no doubt of a large flow of water through this area. As the quicksand will not allow driven wells or a filtering basin, it is proposed to drive a series of tube wells that will flow 600,000 or more gallons a day.

Newton Graphic, July 4, 1890

It is quite an interesting coincidence that two of our Newton ministers go abroad this summer to fill pulpits in foreign churches. Dr. Shinn of Grace Church officiates in Dresden and Dr. Calkins of Eliot Church in London.

Mr. Vachon and Mr. Geyer of Newton Centre took a bicycle trip to Plymouth last Sunday. The roads became too sandy for their wheels and some miles before they reached their destination, and a tedious 10 mile walk completed the adventure. They returned by rail.

rather safe bet that the South will go for Roosevelt.

The only hope for China now seems to be Russia. The agreement between Britain and Japan on the closing of the Burma Road is another blow to democracy in the Orient by the two "democracies" of the Occident, the U. S. A. and Britain, which have been supplying Japan with war materials to destroy Chinese independence.

Germany is building airplanes by the thousands each week; also tanks, guns and other war equipment. The U. S. A. is appropriating billions, making plans, and arming.

Camp F. A. Day

Last Wednesday witnessed the first change of camp at the end of the first three week period. A total of forty-two boys left camp while forty-nine new boys entered camp for the first time this season. A new tent was set up to take care of the surplus group and William McLellan a graduate of Hebron and former Newton High hockey star was selected by Director Hess to be the new counsellor. McLellan is serving his second consecutive year at Camp Day.

The first outstanding event of the second camp period was a baseball game on Thursday night between the Brookfield Town Team and the Counsellors, played on the Camp ballfield. Several Seniors were used in the capacity of regulars and substitutes on the camp line-up. Lewis McKinney of Yale, Bob Hayton of Tufts, Jack Callahan, Bob and Gil Tibolt of the Senior Camp and the Camp Day nine to a close victory. An enjoyable feature of the evening was a picnic lunch served to the visiting nine and the campers by Nils Johnson the Camp chef.

On Monday and Tuesday the long awaited canoe hikes to Lake Quabog and more distant Lake Lashaway were conducted under the leadership of the counsellors of the tents which planned the trip. The Monday trip was led by Walter Ward of Harvard, Steve Randall of Earlham College, and Stan Thompson of Williams and the Tuesday trip was under the leadership of Ben Alexander of Yale, George Alcott of Tufts and Warren Kelley of Tufts.

Setting out early in the morning the boys paddled along the shores of Quabog and up the East Brookfield River into Lake Lashaway. Frequent stops were made while the boys made exploratory trips into the woods to discover many new natural features of the Camp neighborhood. Lunch was cooked by the boys and counsellors by the Falcon Falls at the base of Lake Lashaway. The return was made in late afternoon and the boys reached camp in time for a welcome swim in the waters of Quamquamsett. Tents represented were Tent 7 of the Senior camp, Tents 13 and 17 of the Junior camp on Monday. And on the following day Tents 11, 12 and 17 of the Junior camp followed the same route.

On Wednesday of this week Professor Daye of the Nature Department took a group of boys to the historic Lead Mine in Sturbridge, twelve miles distant from camp. On the way to the mine the boys stopped to excavate the rocks in search of tourmalines, a semi-precious stone. Their search was amply rewarded for the boys returned with many specimens. Other features of the trip consisted of discovery at the mine shaft, graphite specimens, and a natural bridge under the road leading to the mine. The boys who made the trip under the leadership of Professor Daye and Walter Ward, were Henry Shepard, Bob Moore, Jack Callahan, Arthur Kolst, Leonard Rudy, Fran Kirby and Dick Lee.

The first swim meet of the season for league competition was held on last Saturday on the Camp Day waterfront. The Senior camp saw a close struggle for first place with the Tigers coached by Warren Kelley of Watertown edging the Indians directed by Lewis McKinney by a score of 27 to 24. The Red Sox, leaders in other sports, brought up the rear with but 11 points.

In the Junior camp the Hustling Reds swept the 25 yard dash and under water swim to vanquish the Giants and Dodgers with the former scoring 16 points and the latter 13. The Reds grand total was 24. A tie between Cornell and Dartmouth was the result in the Midget Camp.

High scorers in the three separate camps were as follows: Callahan and Needy with two first places each in the Senior camp; Fuller and Popko in the Junior camp; Chafer and Seaver in the Midget Camp.

The annual Camp Day Circus will be held this year on Saturday next the 27th of July. C. Evan Johnson, Associate Director, has selected the men for the many committees which are responsible for the conduct of this high point of the half-way-season. Those who have witnessed circuses in the past will find this year's effort superior even to the best of other years. No side show, sidesplitting clowns are already in the process of being assembled for this day. Professor Daye is searching the environs of the camp for his wild animal show, and with the help of hammers, saws, wood and canvas plans to bring the most ferocious of animals to the main ring. Remember the date Saturday, July 27th.

Burglary at Charles River Country Club

Burglars entered the Charles River Country Club at 433 Dedham st., Oak Hill between 1:30 and 2:30 last Friday morning by forcing the front door at the place. They opened the cash register in the office, but there was no cash in it. They then stole a radio valued at $200 from the building and took keys to a station wagon which were in the office. The radio was apparently placed in the wagon which was parked behind the building, and the burglars then drove the wagon away. Apparently whoever took the radio and automobile was acquainted with the place. Ernest Cronell, caretaker at the clubhouse, discovered the burglary early Friday morning and notified the police. A quantity of liquor was also stolen. The automobile was found abandoned in South Boston on Sunday. Police are looking for a former employee of the club.

Want Tenor Singers For "The Mikado"

So enthusiastic has been the response to the invitation to sing in "The Mikado" chorus at the benefit performance to be given at the Newton High School Stadium on August 20 for the Red Cross, that only two more singers (tenors) can be accepted. Rehearsals are held on Tuesday evenings at the Playground House, Tyler terrace, Newton Centre. There is no formality of auditions, merely an interest in Gilbert & Sullivan music and a desire to aid the Red Cross.

Recent WeddingsO'GRADY-HEALEY

Miss Margaret Frances Healey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Healey of 11 Waverley pl., Newton Lower Falls, was married to John A. O'Grady, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. O'Grady of 42 Goddard st., Newton Highlands, on Sunday afternoon, July 14, at four o'clock, in St. John's Church, Wellesley Hills. Rev. Henry C. Reardon performed the ceremony. Mrs. O'Connell of Newton Centre played the wedding music.

The bride wore a gown of white silk net and lace with a long veil of tulle and carried white carnations and baby's breath. She was attended by Miss Katherine York of Newtonville as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Gleason of Auburndale and Miss Jean Healey of Newton, cousins of the bride. They all wore gowns of flowered batiste, with hats to match and carried old-fashioned bouquets.

Charles Cassidy of Newton Centre was the best man. The ushers were John McIsaac and Joseph Kelley, both of Newton Centre.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady are at Hyannis, Mass.

COGSWELL-GENTZEL

Miss Mary Ellen Gentzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Homer Gentzel, formerly of Newton, became the bride of Richard Upton Cogswell, son of Mrs. Lloyd H. Cogswell of Warner, New Hampshire, at a ceremony performed on Saturday at the home of her parents by Dr. R. A. Selby. Only members of the family attended the ceremony and there were no attendants.

The bride wore white organdie trimmed with lace and a shoulder-length veil of tulle, caught to a coronet. She carried garden flowers, white roses and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell are on a wedding trip through the Southwest. They will make their home in Warner, New Hampshire.

The bride is a graduate of Boston University and has been a member of the faculty of the Williams School of Business in Brockton. The groom was graduated from the University of Vermont and attended George Washington University Law School. He is the postmaster at Warner, New Hampshire, and treasurer of the Merrimack Telephone Co.

SCOTT-BLUME

Miss Marion Blume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grace Blume of Lexington and Florida, was married to Charles D. Scott, son of Mrs. Charles Scott of 50 Margin st., West Newton, and the late Mr. Charles Scott, on July 10 in St. Bernard's Rectory at a quiet ceremony performed by Rev. John Crane and attended only by relatives. A buffet supper was served at the home of the groom's mother following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott are travelling through Maine and Cape Cod and expect to be at their new home in Cambridge on August 1.

Drawing 'Without Plan' Aids Mental Treatment

Doodling — drawing without any plan—has a definite value in the treatment of mental cases and helps relieve mental tension, in the opinion of Dr. Purcell G. Shube, assistant superintendent at Boston State hospital.

Since 1934 mental patients at the hospital have been allowed to draw—in fact, are encouraged to draw—and the results show that "active patients become quieter, more controlled and reasonable, and the restrained patients are less depressed."

The treatment, Dr. Shube says, is of no value to artists, however. "It can be used as a therapeutic medium only when it represents an unused potentiality."

More than 6,000 "doodles" have been collected at the hospital and have been classified into the work of restrained mental cases and the work of the active insane.

Each type of patient has definite qualities in the work done and, by analyzing these, Dr. Shube believes he can tell whether artists were sane when they painted pictures for museums.

Study of the modern artists has led him to believe that many of the artists were insane. And when surrealists are mentioned, Shube remarks:

"If I had a patient who produced that work, I would say without hesitation that he was suffering from dementia praecox or psycho-neurosis."

Former Alabama Capital Is Now a 'Ghost Town'

Speeding tourists crossing a high steel bridge over the Alabama river on the highway that cuts through that state, slow down to admire the brilliant cascade of green foliage which in season covers the massive eastern bluff. Then they speed on, little realizing that on this bluff was once situated Claiborne, a picturesque and flourishing city, the unofficial capital of Alabama in its prime.

There Chief William Weatherford, whose Creek Indians slaughtered the whites at Fort Mims in America's greatest massacre in 1813, leaped for his life with Gen. Andrew Jackson close on his heels, according to a writer in the Birmingham News-Appeal. There the cotton crop of a vast area in southwest Alabama was tumbled down the bluff to wait boats which took the bales to Mobile. There Pioneer Sam Dale often visited and General Lafayette was feted.

But passing years, the yellow fever and the coming of the railroads spelled Claiborne's doom. Today Claiborne is a forest, a few small farms and buildings, historic graveyards. But even as a ghost it is still an incorporated Alabama municipality. The tourist zooms by without seeing the beautiful Dellett mansion, sole remainder of many fine houses built when Claiborne was bustling. Fires and decay have gotten the rest.

Apples for Menu

An "apple a day may keep the doctor away"—but "an apple a day is also the healthy way." At least, that's what nutritionists at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture say in pointing out some of the uses of the fruit. Not only are apples good to look at, good to eat but they are "good for you." As a breakfast fruit, apples may be served raw, baked, or as apple sauce. For dinner, apple sauce with roast pork and apple stuffing with roast goose cuts the richness of the meat and poultry and is nutritionally correct. A truly delicious meat dish may be prepared by browning a thick slice of ham on both sides and covering with a thick layer of sliced apples. Cover the apples with a layer of bread dressing and bake in a moderate oven for about one hour. Hot apple pie with grated cheese on the crust may be varied by using a graham cracker crust with apple sauce filling topped with whipped cream.

Shingled Home Exterior

For those who like a white house with a shingled exterior finish, there is on the market an edge-grain shingle that comes ready-stained with a white primer coat and is free from all defects. To bring out the fine texture of the shingle, a second coat that is midway between a stain and a paint should be applied. This also will avoid the thick "painty" look often observed on many finished homes. If you are building the popular Cape Cod design, a gray weathered look is attractive. Old houses along the seashore weather to an attractive shade of silver gray. Modern weathering stains accomplish in six months what nature takes years to do, allowing the home builder today to choose his preference. Shingles for either the roof or siding of any home come treated with preservative stains in solid and pastel colors permitting great liberality in the owner's selection.

Ardent Iceman

An ardent iceman is Ernest Erhardt of Chicago, whose wife, Anna, recently left him and is suing for divorce. In an attempt to win her back, Mrs. Erhardt told Judge Rudolph Desort, Ernest followed her every morning when she boarded a trolley on the way to work and trailed the street car in his ice truck, shouting endearments. The court ordered Ernest to cease.

Of Course You Care

Of course you care what happens to your family when you are no longer here to take care of them. Perhaps you already have all the life insurance you need... but in too many cases the loss of the breadwinner means unnecessary hardship for his family.

It's foolish, of course, to buy more life insurance than you can afford. But it surely is worth while to get maximum family protection from the money you can afford to spend.

Before you decide how much life insurance you can afford, find out about Savings Bank Life Insurance—providing safe family protection at low cost for thrifty people who are willing to buy "over-the-counter" insurance at the savings bank.

Newton Clubwomen Urge Residents To Combat Ragweed

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, through its Conservation Committee, is aiming this month, to refute the old adage "There is a time and a place for everything." At no time and in no place in the Garden City would Ragweed, that dangerous public enemy to health, be allowed to grow if this committee can make the public ragweed conscious.

The chairman, Mrs. Gordon S. Heath of 69 Dickerman rd., Newton Highlands, has the assistance of Mrs. Raymond Capobianco of 92 Thurston rd., Newton Upper Falls, Mrs. Philip H. Germain, 100 Nonantum st., Newton, Mrs. Francis A. Mahan, Jr., 557 California st., Newton, and Mrs. Edward B. Gray, 51 Barnstable rd., West Newton.

Mrs. Ernest F. Drew of Auburn-dale, chairman of Press in the Federation, is handling the newspaper publicity, and back of all of these, strong in her praise and approval of the work, is the new president of the Newton Federation, Mrs. H. Clayton Pearson of 83 Warwick rd., West Newton.

All club women have been urged by the bulletins distributed throughout the Newtons and in recent copies of the GRAPHIC, to take immediate steps in ridding the city of this nuisance. If the directions given have been overlooked by anyone, information may be secured by contacting any of the workers whose names are given above.

Another Burglary At Upper Falls

The second store robbery at Newton Upper Falls within two days was discovered at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday by Patrolmen Hoyt and Holmstrand. They found that the drug store at 1064 Chestnut st. had been entered and looted; 29 cartons of cigarettes and 6 boxes of cigars were stolen. The preceding night Lynch's Spa at 1223 Chestnut st. had been entered and three cartons of cigarettes and $6 in cash stolen. In both cases there was no evidence as to how the burglar or burglars had entered either store.

THE PLAYGROUND SEASON OPENS

The Newton playground season has opened. On many of Newton's supervised areas for summer play new faces appear due to the ruling of Civil Service Director Lupien that the former employees who were also teachers in the Newton schools could not serve in their former capacities. Accordingly Recreation Director Wilson was forced to appoint others to these positions. Presumably in time from this new corps of playground workers we will again have a system which will be efficient and capable.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 21.

The Golden Text is: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou has sent" (John 17:3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. . . . And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Revelation 22:14, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Spirit and the bride say, Come! . . . and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." Christian Science separates error from truth, and breathes through the sacred pages the spiritual sense of life, substance, and intelligence" (p. 548).

HAVE SOMETHING TO SHOW

for your "rent money"

Pay rent to the landlord each month and all you have left are receipted bills.

Buy a home through a Mutual Savings Bank mortgage and your "rent money" — very often no more than you paid the landlord — becomes an investment.

Remember, a savings bank mortgage is one of the simplest and most inexpensive.

Consider these advantages:

1. Great flexibility — each mortgage treated individually to meet your own particular situation.
2. Monthly or quarterly payments of interest, principal and taxes to suit your budget.
3. Mortgages written for longer terms.
4. No appraisal fees.

—Virginia Buys Oyster Shells

Oyster shells aggregating 303,500 bushels and costing $8,710 have been purchased by the Virginia commission of fisheries for distribution over the depleted oyster bottoms of tidewater Virginia.

These shells will be moved and planted by the Work Projects administration as part of the state program financed jointly by the WPA and by the commission, through its bushel and gallon tax on oysters.

A large number of the shells will be planted in the Rappahannock river, which is in the most unfavorable condition of any river in the state, from the standpoint of oyster growth, according to commission surveyors.

Soil Particles Graded

By Novel 'Wind' Gadget

When dust storms of 1934 and 1936 darkened the sky from the Southwest to the Atlantic ocean the grit that settled at Cincinnati was finer than the particles dropped at Kansas City, and dust deposits at Washington, New York and Boston were progressively finer. A modification of what happens in a "duster" is the basis of a new device for grading soil particles developed in the soil conservation service laboratory at the California Institute of Technology.

When the laboratory staff needed soil particles sorted accurately according to size it developed a simple machine that creates a gentle "duster." The machine drops assorted sizes of sand or silt particles in suitable drawers, the coarser bits nearest the feeding hopper and the finer particles at a distance. For the most accurate sorting the staff members run the dried sand or silt through twice, first in a rough sifting by a slow breeze and second a resorting of fairly uniform material in a brisker but still mild draft.

The sorting machine is a bell-mouthed wind tunnel about 15 feet long with a grating as a floor to let the sorted material drop into the collecting drawers below. A small electric fan draws air through the tunnel at not more than 2½ feet a second, less than two miles an hour.

Dry sand and silt is fed in a thin sheet from a hopper on top of the tunnel. Larger particles drop almost vertically. The finer the sand or silt particles the farther they are carried by the breeze. Particles of equal size drop at equal distances from the feeding apparatus. Walls of the tunnel are made as smooth as possible to prevent eddies, but there is some difference in the air action near the walls, so the drawers have partitions at each end and this material is rejected. What drops in the central compartment is graded more accurately than is possible with fine sieves. The machine will handle from 60 to 100 pounds an hour.

13th Century Mummies

Found in Arizona Cave

Three perfectly preserved mummies, complete with the feathered robes and tracings in which they were interred during the Thirteenth century, have been discovered in northern Arizona by University of Arizona scientists.

Headed by Dr. Emil Haury of the university staff, a party made the discovery in virtually unexplored regions of the northeastern section of the state while searching for evidence and remnants of the great Pueblo culture of 700 years ago.

The mummies were found in a holy shrine called the Painted Cave, apparently a place of worship for the Pueblo tribesmen.

The bodies—one of a woman and two of children—were wrapped in robes of turkey feathers and ornately colored blankets.

Despite the fact that the mummies were almost seven centuries old, Dr. Haury said some of the feathered robes were almost perfectly preserved. "One, he said, still was soft and silky to touch."

The walls of the cave were covered with designs and drawings representing Indian conceptions of their gods and real-life scenes of contemporary life. Dr. Haury said the Pueblos painted the pictures with their fingers, using a paint made of desert plants and roots.

The mummies were surrounded by bowls of corn, other food and jars which apparently once contained water, interred to help them on their long journey to the "happy hunting ground."

Oysters' Protection

In 1375, King Edward III of England forbade the collecting or removing from their beds of young oysters in any month of the year except May. His edict also prohibited the collecting of full-grown oysters from May to September. Both of these regulations represent the earliest known law ordering such protection, and were presumably due to biological experiences which indicated even in those early days the necessity for conservation of natural resources, says Dr. Fritz Haas of the Chicago Field Museum. Furthermore, the measures taken were in accordance with the dictates of modern science, and thus the proper ones to achieve the purposes sought.

When Roll Was Called

Two years ago citizens of Granger, Wab., organized "the finest volunteer fire department in central Washington" and named Darwin Davis as assistant chief. But now they're considering all sorts of dire action against Davis because he spoiled the chance the department had awaited for two years. For 24 months members of the department drilled faithfully, waiting for the day they could show their prowess in a real fire. It finally came and when the fire alarm rang the members turned out in force—all except Davis. Not waiting for their assistant chief, the volunteer firemen dashed to the scene.

Sprinting Pig

Perhaps looking forward to the day when a fleet foot might save him from the slaughter house, a baby pig at Wilton, N. H., tries his luck at outdistancing automobiles. The pig races a car going in one direction, but reverses its track when it meets one traveling the other way.

Crickets and 'Hoppers

Thrive on Same Crops

Every spring hordes of Mormon crickets and grasshoppers hatch from eggs deposited during the previous summer and autumn, and then begin their destructive attack upon crops and virtually every type of vegetation throughout 24 Western states. The Mormon cricket is a serious pest, however, only in 11 northern Rocky Mountain and Plains states.

These insects are similar in size, go through the same stages of development, and do their damage during the growing season. But entomologists of the federal department of agriculture point out that because of physical differences their methods of attack differ. Mormon crickets are unable to fly. They attack on foot. Most injurious grasshoppers also migrate to some extent on foot but after reaching maturity some species are active fliers and migrate by flight in great swarms, destroying vegetation wherever they alight.

The most effective method of combating Mormon crickets is by dusting the migrating hordes with sodium arsenite. Barriers with pens to trap the crickets are an effective supplementary control. Millions of crickets pile on top of each other in the pens and are killed with a sodium arsenite dust or crude oil solution. Another method, similar in principle, is to dig trenches to trap the crawling cricket army.

Hoppers are controlled by feeding them poison bait. The most effective method is to broadcast a moistened mixture of bran, sawdust and liquid sodium arsenite. Wherever practicable this bait is applied on egg bed areas to poison the young hoppers and thus prevent migration.

Last year the federal government spent approximately $2,200,000 in controlling grasshoppers. This was supplemented by contributions from co-operating states, estimated at slightly in excess of $1,300,000.

The cost of controlling Mormon crickets during the same year was nearly $400,000, co-operating states contributing $201,000. Protection was afforded to 1,375,564 crop acres. Crops on only 12,935 acres were destroyed.

Killing Bear Was 'Routine'

For Early Woman Settler

Examination of early records and photostatic copies of such documents are among the services to posterity carried on by historians of the national park service. One such record concerns the family of an early settler in Yellowstone National park. Its laconic style is as significant of the period as is the thrilling experience related.

"In June, '81, I went to Omaha on business, expected to be gone 30 days; had sufficient grub to last till my return cached away in a root house apart but near my cabin, while I was gone and my wife and four children was necessarily alone."

"Soon after my departure one morning two bears came down the mt., smelling the meat &c. in root house: approached same and went to digging through the dirt roof."

"Wife saw it was either kill bears or starve. She took rifle, shot one bear through the lungs. He came rolling toward her. She ran in cabin and closed door just in time, as bear threw himself against it, shaking the whole house. He found it useless, however, and went off. Wife followed him up the mt. found him breathing hard, shot him through the heart. Weighed 700 lbs. Skin was spoilt when I got home, but wife and babes were safe."

Wooden Structural Defects

Alternate wet and dry conditions tend to render unsound the structural and other wooden members in a building, point out FHA officials. The ends of joists embedded in a masonry foundation wall may become unsound if the walls of the basement are damp and poorly ventilated. As a result of a leak in the roof or eaves, similar damage to other parts of the building may occur, such as loosened or deteriorated flashing. A simple test will help determine whether structural reinforcements are necessary; the wood may be tested by jabbing it with the point of a penknife. If it is soft and spongy or very brittle it is likely repairs are necessary. Badly deteriorated parts should be replaced and the basement of the building should be kept properly ventilated to prevent further deterioration.

Floor Protection

To prevent footmarks from showing too conspicuously on a kitchen floor, paint may be applied to give a marbled effect. The ground color should first be applied. After it is dry, apply a second coat of a lighter tint. Before this dries, wad a piece of wrapping paper into a long roll, place it on the floor and roll it over and over so that the painted surface is disturbed by it and irregular patches removed, revealing the ground color. The second coat is applied only to a small section of the floor at a time, incidentally. When the floor is dry, go over it with a coat of wax for durability and easy cleaning.

Weight Loss in Hibernation

When an animal awakens from a long hibernation, it may have lost 30 or 40 per cent of its weight, for it has used its stored-up fat during the long winter sleep, and is weak and inactive. After it begins to eat, it quickly regains both strength and weight.

Got Soldiers' Aid, Charged With Fraud

Michelangelo Busuito, 54, of 153 Lincoln st., Newton Highlands was arraigned in the Newton court on Tuesday on a charge of larceny of $334.85 from the City of Newton. It is alleged that he drew that amount in relief through the Soldiers' Relief Department in 1939 and had failed to inform the department that he had worked for 10 weeks as a painter, and that his wife had been regularly employed in a factory at Needham. His case was continued until next Tuesday.

Busuito's relief payments were dropped at the beginning of this year after officials of the department obtained information that he and his wife had been working. Investigator Manley then visited various factories at Needham until he learned where Mrs. Busuito was working.

Unconscious Charm

There is a quaint charm about all early American bedrooms. Slanting ceilings, poster beds covered in colorful quilts, ruffled curtains at the windows, candlesticks, painted floors with hooked rugs or rag rugs scattered about, help give a room its charm.

Sugar in Desserts

In ices, sherbets, and ice-creams alone, Americans consume over two hundred million pounds of sugar annually.

Dunbar Replies to Mayor Goddard on Use of Relief Labor

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mayor Goddard by Philip R. Dunbar of Howland rd., West Newton. A couple of weeks ago Mr. Dunbar wrote a letter to the Mayor suggesting that relief workers be used to reimburse taxpayers by performing work on private properties, and also to cut grass along street borders. The Mayor replied to Mr. Dunbar by saying that the law does not permit cities to do work on private property.

35 Howland Road,
West Newton, Mass.
July 5, 1940.

Paul M. Goddard, Esq.,
Mayor of Newton.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Thanks for yours of July 2, which is all right as far as it goes. To keep street borders in order is not work on private property, but is on the public way.

As to the rest of the subject I raised,—work on private property—if there be a settled rule of law forbidding the same, as the City Solicitor advises you—that doesn't necessarily end the matter. What does our President do when he doesn't like the law? He gets it changed. I don't approve of court-packing nor most of the rest of his shenanigan in law changing. But his method serves as a sharp reminder of the fact that the old order changeth—that new needs and new exigencies drive us to new resorts.

The question, in other words, is not "does the law sanction a step," but "is the step wise, useful, and expedient?" If the answer be affirmative, then the whole spirit of the times conspires to prompt us to shape the law so as to facilitate the step rather than to block it.

Suggesting the wisdom and expediency of such a measure as I have outlined, look at the effect it would have, if widely adopted, to reduce unemployment,—the issue of our ten million unemployed being the crux, not merely of our total American culture, but of our survival as a free nation in a world of slaves.

If the Massachusetts association of mayors were to sponsor a drive to amend the law to permit relief workers to be assigned to work on their pay on private projects, it would really prime the pump. Once the subordinate issues of union labor and supplementary pay were ironed out it would go. The first step counts. Set it up here. Publicize it. Watch other States imitate—invent still other ingenious ways of licking unemployment. Presently you have got idleness on the run all over the country. If labor protests, ask it whether it wants to do as France did, sit in the sun and twiddle its fingers, while Germany sweated herself toward victory.

Yours truly,
PHILIP R. DUNBAR.

THE RED CROSS GOES OVER THE TOP

It is welcome news that the American Red Cross has again gone over the top in its efforts to raise the twenty millions of dollars that it sought for relief and assistance to the war-torn countries of Europe. It is of added significance when it is realized that ten millions of dollars was the original amount sought which sum was later doubled when the true need could be more accurately estimated.

But Newton citizens feel additional satisfaction in the announcement that Newton attained its quota of $24,000 by the co-operation of 1,892 individual and organization contributions. The Newton quota and the individual contributions do not include the contributions of hundreds of children in the Newton schools whose pennies went to help the children overseas. Chairman Cabot and his assistants, under whose supervision the Newton campaign was conducted, have expressed their sincere appreciation of Newton citizens co-operation. Newton in turn expresses its appreciation of their efforts and is grateful that at such times as these there are such citizens who will put their shoulder to the wheel and achieve such accomplishments.

THE TURNPIKE AND BUSINESS

The petition before the Aldermen to change land on the Worcester turnpike near the Hammond Pond parkway from private residence to business zone should again be rejected. Undoubtedly the Claims and Rules committee of the Board of Aldermen is aware of the necessity of keeping this main artery across the city of Newton free from the congestion which business enterprises along it would obviously create. There are and have been locations on the turnpike which were established before the new road was constructed and a few loci, adjacent to these sections, where it has been perfectly proper to allow other businesses to open. But any attempt to add to these business sites along frontage which is and should always remain of a residential character only defeats the purpose for which the pike was built.

THE PLAYGROUND SEASON OPENS

The Newton playground season has opened. On many of Newton's supervised areas for summer play new faces appear due to the ruling of Civil Service Director Lupien that the former employees who were also teachers in the Newton schools could not serve in their former capacities. Accordingly Recreation Director Wilson was forced to appoint others to these positions. Presumably in time from this new corps of playground workers we will again in time have a system which will be efficient and capable.

NEWTON ARCHERS

At the monthly handicap shoot of the Newton Archers at the Newton Center Playground on July 13 highest American scores were as follows: Woman, Thelma Phillips, 88-558; Man, Robert Goldich, 89-597; Junior, Letitia Doten, 85-479. For highest handicap scores, Doc Thomas and Irving Smith tied with 914; Sally Spofford was second with 840 and Dot Case third with 811.

The novelty winners were: Woman, Mary Jane Farnsworth, 316; Man, George McCormick, 364; Junior, Betty Cushman, 257. Miss Phillips shot the highest score ever recorded on the Newton field in weekly and quarterly shoots.

Many Varieties of Wild Grapes in United States

More than 20 species of wild grapes grow in the United States and they are widely distributed in wooded regions. Their abundance along the eastern coast gave rise to the historical legend of the vineyards found there by the Norsemen nearly a thousand years ago when these men are said to have called the country Vineland, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

Most of the cultivated grapes grown in eastern United States were developed from wild vines found in the forests. Hundreds of different varieties have been obtained by crossing native species. The wild species commonly called fox grape has furnished more of the cultivated varieties than any other single species. Some of the better known ones derived from the fox grape are Concord, Catawba, Dracut Amber, Moore's Early, Ives, and Red Giant.

One variety of wild grape vines belongs to the species known as summer grape. This species is distinguished by large vines that often climb to the tops of tall trees. Vines of the fox grape are more likely to trail near the ground on shrubs, low trees, or fences. Fruit of the summer grape is small. Fox grapes are larger, sometimes being nearly the size of cultivated varieties. All wild grape vines have much the same appearance as the domesticated varieties seen in vineyards. The chief difference is the smaller grapes of the wild species.

Grape vines often grow so rank as to injure the trees they climb by cutting off part of the light from the trees' leaves. The vines are not parasites in the sense of taking food directly from the trees on which they grow—they only use the trees for support as they climb up to reach the sunlight, hanging on to the bark and limbs by small tendrils.

Texas Natural Gas Supply
Texas last year furnished more than 36 per cent of all natural gas produced and marketed in the United States.

Tells Rotarians Of the Beauties Of Arizona

At the meeting of the Newton Rotary Club at Charles River Country Club on Wednesday evening, a very interesting travelog on Arizona was given by Robert R. Morrill of 378 Walnut st., Newtonville. Mr. Morrill has spent much of the past 5 years in Arizona and has taken a large number of moving pictures of that fascinating section of the United States which he shows in natural colors.

In his talk in connection with the showing of his film, Mr. Morrill gave the following description of the State in our far Southwest:

Arizona, the youngest State in the Union (1912), is truly an Enchanted Land. Within its boundaries are to be found sixteen National Monuments and fourteen different Indian tribes. From the desert of the South to the snow-covered peaks of the North, Arizona is packed with a blinding beauty such as is found in no other State.

Moreover, it is a land of contrast. Over night the ever silent desert bursts into bloom, covering the land with a carpet as brilliant as any Navajo blanket. It is a land of the great desert and the largest virgin stand of yellow pine in the world. It is a land of rivers without water, but still some of the finest citrus and cotton grows there.

In a few hours you may go from the heat of the desert to the mountains and linger beside some cool stream and watch the deer scramble up the steep side of some hidden ravine. It is the land of the ever-blue sky, and when the sun sinks from sight the entire sky burns with a hundred different colors.

If you wish to combine adventure with your travel Arizona is the place. You may climb rugged mountains or explore the ever-quiet desert. You may visit some of the many ghost towns or tramp over the trail once traveled by Coronado and his armor-clad conquistadores in 1542. It is a land of romance—for the old and young alike.

Across Northern Arizona stretches a gigantic rap. Yes, the Grand Canyon. For 217 miles the Colorado River winds through the canyon, one mile deep, and from eight to 20 miles wide.

All of these, and many side trips, are brought before the eye in beautiful natural colors by Mr. Morrill and his color film. You climb with him to the very bottom of the Grand Canyon, and scramble up to the ancient cliff dwellings. You go with him to the Petrified Forest and wander among the giant stone logs.

Nearly a third of Mr. Morrill's talk was devoted to the Hopi Indians and their country. With an old Hopi guide he roamed for hundreds of miles through a vast wilderness of sand and mesas, inhabited only by Indians.

Woman Steals and Wrecks Auto

A car allegedly driven by a drunken Roxbury woman hit a tree at the Worcester turnpike and Dudley rd., Newton Centre at an early hour last Saturday morning and was wrecked. Doris Anderson, 27, of Huntington ave., Roxbury, the alleged driver, was injured and knocked unconscious. She was taken to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. She will be arraigned on charges of drunken driving, driving without a license, driving to endanger and taking a car without authority. Robert Clugston of Huntington ave., Roxbury, who was riding with her, was also arrested by Brookline police on charges of drunkenness and using a car without authority.

Traffic Officer Hightman of the Brookline police tried to stop the car in that town and pursued it for a few miles into Newton Centre, firing several shots after it from his revolver. He said the woman drove the stolen car at a speed of 75 miles.

NORTHEASTERN HOMES

A new slogan is rapidly gaining a foothold in American thinking—"The Only Real Security—A Home of Your Own." This desire for security, one which is uppermost in the minds of the majority of Americans, is given added emphasis in the face of world uncertainty. "Today a home is the safest investment a man can make," says Gardner W. Taylor, New York City, Chairman of the Northeastern Homes Foundation. "No matter what happens to other investments, the real worth of a home will persist. It will continue to provide shelter and security."

"With a home of his own, the American individual can face the future with confidence. We hear a lot these days about increasing the confidence of Americans in America. The stability of a democracy depends upon the stability of those who make it up—the average men and women. For in democracy the citizens make the state. Home-owning citizens have a greater interest in the community of which they are a part. Their sense of responsibility reflects itself in a more responsible community."

"Modern financing methods make home-ownership not only a means to greater social security, but to greater economic security as well. The fixed monthly payments which provide home-ownership are definite insurance against increased costs from higher rents. Furthermore, under the pressure of expenditures for defense, the home-owner's income tax status will be improved because, while he couldn't deduct rent from the taxable income, he can deduct interest payments made on his home as well as taxes paid on real estate."

"That a greater number of Americans are taking advantage of this situation and are keenly interested in providing their families with real security is evidenced by the fact that residential building will equal or exceed in volume the predictions made at the beginning of the year as evidenced by F. H. A. figures. One week alone—that of June 24—saw 4920 new homes started under F. H. A. inspection, according to figures just released by government officials."

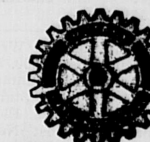

"Build now for security is an excellent defense program for most Americans. Likewise, it is a key factor in our national defense."

Alive After 20,000 Years

Soviet research workers, seeking to find out where life stops and death begins, have found both plant and animal organisms which are still alive after having been frozen solid in the zone of perpetual ice, north of the Arctic circle for 20,000 years.

Rotary Club

The Rotary Club meeting this week was held on Wednesday, July 17th, 1940, in the form of an outing at the Charles River Country Club with the Brookline Rotary Club and numerous visitors from the neighboring clubs of Watertown, Waltham, and Needham. Golf, softball, horseshoes, and tennis took up the afternoon. Fred Fessenden, Jr., carried off top honors in golf with the low gross. "Phil" Enholm won second place, and "Ben" Lewis came in first in the kickers tournament. The softball game was won by the team captained by Francis Carreiro of Brookline. In spite of the many casualties, the players for the most part were able to leave the field at the end of the game unassisted. Fletcher and Foley from Needham proved themselves an unbeatable team at horseshoes.

Dinner was served at 7 p. m. with Pres. John Cahill of the Newton Club presiding. Among those present at the head table were Harry A. Starr of the Waltham Club, Governor of the 197th District; George R. Ellis of the North Attleboro Club, Governor of the 198th District; George H. Hughes, President of the Waltham Club; John H. Lacy, President of the Brookline Club, and Dr. George Bishop who represented the Watertown Club. Beautiful colored movies of Arizona, featuring the Grand Canyon and the Indian country, were presented by "Bob" Morrill of Newtonville to complete a highly successful day of friendly, good fellowship and cooperation between the clubs represented.

Army War College

The Army War college at Washington, D. C., is one of the general service schools of the army. Aldermen Continue to Bar Business Zones On Worcester Turnpike

Also Reject Petition for Two-Family Residence Zone on Centre St., Newton Centre

Several petitions for changes of zones in this city were turned down by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night after the Claims and Rules Committee had reported adversely against them. The first was that of Edward Raia of Somerville who asked that land abutting the Worcester turnpike between Hammond Parkway and John st. be changed from residence to business zone. As Raia had presented previous petitions seeking this same change, Alderman Rawson, chairman of the Claims committee, referred to the present petition as a "Hardy perennial." He stated that the Metropolitan District Commission had objected to the petition because the State had spent a large sum of money developing Hammond Pond Parkway. Rawson also reiterated that the committee is unanimously opposed to allowing business along the turnpike after the State had spent millions of dollars to construct this traffic artery away from business districts so that speedy and safe travel may be provided between Boston and points West. The Planning Board also disapproved of the petition.

The second petition to be rejected was that of Harry Knowles who asked that land off Commonwealth ave. near the Boston line be changed from residence to business zone for the purpose of building public garages. Chairman Rawson said that the committee believed it against public interest to permit such garages abutting a residence zone, and with only a narrow drive to the street. The third petition to meet adverse action was that of Anna Cooley who asked that land at 1104 Centre st. be changed from single to two-family residence zone so that 2-family houses might be built on it. Alderman Rawson said that the owner of the land was about the only person favoring the petition, and that most of the abutters had opposed it. He stated that the land is opposite a couple of

The Lower Falls Improvement Association has sent the following communication to the Newton Planning Board:

Believing that any change in the present zoning regulations in Newton Lower Falls would tend to undermine the objectives for which the Zoning Law was established, the Newton Lower Falls Improvement Association has sent the following resolution to the City of Newton Planning Board:

"Resolved: That the Newton Lower Falls Improvement Association go on record as being opposed to any zoning of Newton Lower Falls that permits house lots of less than 10,000 square feet. Signed: Howard W. Lewis, President."

Schofield Gets City Position

The appointment of Dr. Richard C. Schofield as Inspector of Animals was confirmed by the Board of Aldermen on Monday night by a vote of 16 to 3. He will succeed the late Dr. C. A. Boutelle. There is a salary of $400 attached to the office and the duties consist largely of inspecting dogs which bite persons to ascertain whether or not animals have rabies. The office also brings an additional income through the annual clinics held to inoculate licensed dogs against rabies. The opposition to Dr. Schofield was based on the fact that he has been a resident of Wellesley, and two veterinarians who have been residents of this city were candidates for the position.

Repeating Speeder Found Not Guilty

In the Newton court on Wednesday Samuel A. Fuller, Jr., of 20 Byfield rd., Waban, was charged with speeding. Patrolman Thomas McCormick testified that on July 2 Fuller drove an automobile along Beacon st. near Glen ave. at a rate of 46 miles an hour. Fuller admitted that he was driving at a speed of 35 miles an hour. His father, who served as his attorney argued that under the statutes it must be proved that a motor vehicle is operated at an unreasonable speed, and he contended that as there were no pedestrians on the street at the time, or other cars near, there was no danger. Judge Donald Mayberry replied that he was in agreement on that point, but as the city fathers have seen fit to enforce the 30 mile speed limit, he has to work with them. Judge Mayberry then inquired if Fuller had a previous record, and was informed that the defendant had been in court on a speeding charge on August 1, 1939. After receiving this information, Judge Mayberry found Fuller not guilty. In the Newton court on the same day Donald McFeem of 56 Bellevue st., Newton, was fined $5 for speeding by Judge Mayberry.

Henry L. Morrison of Evelyn rd., Waban has filed papers for the Republican nomination for member of the Governor's council from the 3rd District. The present incumbent, Frank A. Brooks of West Concord is a candidate for re-election.

Appropriations By Aldermen

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night the following appropriations were made—expense for rifle range for National Guard, $600; deficit bill, 1939, Street Department, $78.40; deficit bill Soldiers Relief, 1938, $25; materials for completing widening of Brookline st. at Oak Hill (WPA project) $3000; painting and repairs on city buildings, $5000; construction of wall at Crystal Lake (WPA project) $1600; construction of Westview terrace under betterment law, $4500; sewers, Terryson rd., $2890; Ardmore terrace, $775; Water Department, $7525.

A junk license was granted Louis Barisano at 24 Maguire court, Newtonville, with the proviso that whenever there is junk in his truck, said truck be garaged at that address. Ex-Alderman Daniel O'Connell had objected to this license being granted. He had informed the aldermen that Barisano had been garaging his truck at the residence of a relative on Nevada st., next to O'Connell's home, and that junk had been stored at the Nevada st. address. Leave to withdraw was given to the petition of Harold Nodell for a junk license at 290 Watertown st., and to the petition of Henry Morrison for a license to the Middlesex & Boston company to operate a bus line on Beacon st. en route to Cleveland circle and Waban.

A sewer bond issue of $150,000 was authorized.

Aldermen Against Billboard Permits

The Newton Board of Aldermen took a decided stand against billboards in this city on Monday night when they voted not only to disapprove applications for three new billboard locations in the Newtons, but also disapproved applications for five renewals of billboard permits. The State Department of Public Works, which is quite liberal in approving locations for billboards, had approved the locations asked for.

Alderman Fahey, chairman of the Licenses Committee reported that the committee disapproved of the applications of the Donnelly Company for new billboard permits on the roof of the building at the corner of Washington and Walnut sts. at Newtonville square, and at 1367 Washington st., West Newton, corner of Lucas court. It was planned to have two signs at the Newtonville locus, one on the Washington st. side of the roof, and the other on the Walnut st. side. Alderman Fahey said this location is a dangerous traffic spot, and the big signs might distract automobile drivers and cause accidents. He explained that the location at 1367 Washington st. is near two churches and next to an apartment building. The third application for a new billboard permit was from the Mobeco Company of Bemis which asked for a location at 114 River st., West Newton. This application was refused because there is a petition now before the aldermen asking that this

Busuito Guilty In Soldiers' Relief

Michelangelo Busuito, 54, of 153 Lincoln st., Newton Highlands was found guilty by Judge Mayberry in the Newton court on Thursday of the larceny of $303 from the Soldiers' Relief Department of the City of Newton. Busuito was ordered to pay $10 each week back to the city and the case was continued until December 7. Director Dungan of the Soldiers' Relief Department testified that during 1939 while Busuito was obtaining relief payments from the city, he had worked part of the time without having made this fact known, and that his wife had been steadily employed at a factory in Needham.

Collected Tax Bills, Kept The Money

In the Newton court yesterday Judge Nagle found Albert Alley of Brookline guilty of larceny of $51.96 from Lou Ebb, a constable who is hired by the City Collector of Newton to collect delinquent taxes. City Collector Newhall testified that he turned warrants for tax collections over to Ebb and he is not interested as to whom Ebb hires to assist him in making these collections. Ebb testified that Alley collected the $51.96 in November, 1937 but it was only recently that he discovered the fact. Alley was found guilty in November, 1939 of having collected $396 in taxes and not turning in the money to Ebb. The case was continued until August 1 for disposition.

Ragweed Campaign Still Being Waged

A Blitzkrieg on Ragweed has been declared by the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, under the leadership of Mrs. Gordon Heath, Chairman of Conservation. This weed must be annihilated from every field and yard in Newton, and to this end the committee, with the co-operation of the Mayor and city employees whenever possible, together with hundreds of loyal club members and citizens, has been waging war for the last three weeks.

However, if this campaign is to be successful, it must be brought speedily to an end, with every bit of Ragweed destroyed before it blossoms and spreads its poisonous pollen through the air. August 1st is the dead line if we are to be victorious over this enemy to public health, for Ragweed is acknowledged to be the most common cause of hay fever and asthma.

Will you not appoint yourself a member of this army of good citizens who acquaint themselves of its identity, and then destroy it wherever they find it in their gardens, or walks? If you know of any field or spot that has been overlooked, will you not notify whoever is in charge in your district. Lists of names and directions for its permanent destruction are posted in different spots in the city, and do this with the speed of a Blitzkrieg,—one that will bring relief to hundreds of sufferers right in this city.

Driver of Car That Killed Aged Man Found Not Guilty

In the Newton court on Tuesday Judge Donald Mayberry found John Oldfield of Pleasant st., Holliston, not guilty of driving an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. On the night of June 1 a car operated by Oldfield hit Henry Simcock, 76, of 102 Parker ave., Newton Centre as the aged man was crossing the Worcester turnpike at Walnut st., Newton Highlands. Mr. Simcock died at the Newton Hospital less than two hours later. A photograph taken by police the following morning showed skid marks over 50 feet. Oldfield stated that he did not see the victim and his first knowledge of the accident was when he heard a bump as the car hit the old man. The right front door handle was broken off by the impact. At the inquest held after the accident, Judge Daley found that the evidence showed criminal negligence on Oldfield's part.

Dogs Bite Three Persons In Newton

Three persons were bitten by dogs in Newton on Tuesday. A dog owned by H. Drew Flegal of Windemere rd., Auburndale, bit Thomas Connelly, a letter carrier at the Auburndale post office. A dog owned by Waldo Welton of 210 California st., Nonantum bit Margaret Mahoney of 127 Rutland st., Watertown. A dog owned by Joshua Richards of Shady Hill rd., Newton Highlands, bit Harold McDonald of Meridian st., East Boston. All three of the "pets" were ordered restrained and Dr. Schofield, inspector of animals, notified to examine them.

Alderman Inches Makes Severe Criticism On Past Administration

Scores Methods Used in Purchasing of Sand by Newton Street Department

The much discussed bill of $1367.44 owed by the Street Department of the City of Newton to the Riverside Sand & Gravel Company of Lower Falls was again aired before the Board of Aldermen on Monday night and by a vote of 10 to 9 the Board voted by city officials that it wot it took at the meeting on June 24 when a motion to appropriate the money to pay this bill was passed. The bill was not sent furnished to the Street Department between April 1, 1939 when a contract held by the Riverside company expired, and July 18, 1939, when a new contract went into effect. The Riverside company charged for the sand at the rate it had received on the expired contract. City Comptroller Daniel White refused to approve payment of the bills for the sand because the price charged was higher than the market price for sand during the period between April 1 and July 18, 1939. City Solicitor Bartlett informed Mayor Goddard that inasmuch as the Riverside company had been given to understand by city officials that it would continue to be paid the contract price for the sand in the interim period, the city was obligated to pay the bill. Mayor Goddard, therefore, recommended that the bill be paid and his recommendation was accepted at the June 24th meeting by the majority of the Board of Aldermen.

At the June 24th meeting, Alderman Henderson Inches of Ward 6 opposed the payment of the bill, but voted in favor of it for a strategic reason, so that he could move for reconsideration of the vote, which he did. Alderman Barwise also moved for reconsideration of the vote following the June 24th meeting, but on last Monday night Barwise voted against his motion, explaining that after having conferred with the City Solicitor and other city officials, he had become convinced that the city must pay the bill as presented.

Alderman Inches advocated reconsideration of the vote to pay the bill and severely criticised the preceding administration in a prepared statement. He said:

One of the principal reasons I filed for reconsideration of the vote of the Board to pay the Riverside Sand & Gravel Company bill of $1367.44 was to give me an opportunity to place before the Board and the public the very doubtful and extremely unethical methods employed by the last administration in placing the sand contract for the year 1939.

To begin with, the contract prices for sand for the year 1939 were: delivered on the work, $1.17 per cubic yard; delivered at the pit, $.95 per cubic yard.

The first bids were open April 20, 1939:

	De'd	At Pit
Riverside Sand & Gravel	$1.00	$.95 cu. yd.
Noone Sand & Gravel Co.	.97	.61

On learning that the contract had been made out and sent to the highest bidder, Mayor McCabe and I demanded an explanation from the head of the Street Department. The Department Head said he did not know that the contract had been sent out, but discovered that it had been sent out for signature by an employee in his department. If this employee did send out the contract without the authority of the former mayor or the head of the department, this employee should be discharged for having attempted to bind the City for a very considerable sum of money without authority.

The contracts were quickly returned, unsigned, to City Hall.

The Mayor then without any explanation threw out all the bids.

New bids were opened on May 23rd.

	De'd	At Pit
Riverside Sand & Gravel	$.85	$.85 cu. yd.
Noone Sand & Gravel	$.85	.47

These bids in turn were not satisfactory to the Mayor, and were apparently discarded. We know what happened, but we don't know just what method was used.

The Riverside Sand & Gravel bid was apparently doctored, and as the Mayor is solely responsible for the acceptance of bids and the awarding of contracts any changing of a price after a bid was made must have been made by the former Mayor or had his approval.

Here is what happened. The bid price of the Riverside Sand & Gravel Company, per cubic yard, delivered, was raised 5c—that is to say, from 85c to 90c; and the price at the pit was reduced to 75c per cubic yard. While this was going on, the Noone Sand & Gravel Company was not asked to bid again. Their bid was held while the figures of the Riverside Sand & Gravel were being rearranged (a delicate way of expression).

THIRD TERM CONSISTENCY

With the conclusion of the national conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties the 1940 Presidential campaign has begun to swing into stride for the battle of ballots in November. There are many angles to this 1940 campaign which will be threshed out in the coming months. However, it is significant that many former supporters of the present administration have indicated their unwillingness to "go along" and be controlled in the manner in which the convention at Chicago last week would have them. In the first place it had been becoming increasingly obvious that although President Roosevelt would not declare himself as a candidate he would accept the nomination if it were offered him. With the nomination of Wendell Willkie by the Republicans in Philadelphia last month there was nothing the Democratic party could do if there was any hope of victory in November. No other Democrat, chosen by the delegates or hand-picked by the party leaders, could have given them a semblance of united leadership. Yet today there is a growing evidence of disunity in the Democratic party—of which the anti-third term group is a major factor. And when the Democratic convention was forced to accept the selection of Henry Wallace as their vice-presidential nominee the breach was widened.

It is interesting to note that twelve years ago the Senate of the United States adopted a resolution which read in part that "It is the sense of the Senate that the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents . . . after their second term . . . that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions." Among those who voted to approve this denunciation of a third term were thirteen present Democratic Senators, including Senator Barkley, permanent chairman and second keynoter of the 1940 Chicago convention, Senator Wagner, chairman of the platform committee, Senator Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Senator Ashurst, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. We are reminded again of that well-known quotation—Consistency, thou art a jewel!

More Burglaries In The Newtons

The Star Market at 304 Walnut st., Newtonville, reported to Newton police on Tuesday that someone, apparently boys, had on two successive nights stolen 156 tonic bottles from a garage at the rear of the market. A window in the garage was broken to gain entrance. The bottles have a redemption value of two cents each.

Dr. Richard Schofield, recently appointed Inspector of Animals, reported to the police that on Tuesday night someone broke a window at his office at 1106 Beacon st., Newton Highlands and stole a small quantity of morphine.

CAMP WAMPATUCK NEWS

A lovely campfire opened the third week at Camp Wampatuck. After the firelighting ritual, Mother Wampatuck welcomed the new girls. The theme of the week was beauty, songs around the campfire, the sunset beautifully reflected in the lake, while Helene Crofts told a fireside story. Sunday the camp attended the service at the Hanson Congregational Church. The evening vesper service by the lake was made lovely and inspiring by the music of the flute coming from a boat on the lake. A concert by Mary Badger and Barry Wilson concluded the evening.

Wednesday night a baseball game preceded the weekly Circle Meeting. Barbara Dean had charge of the devotion. The business meeting was led by the president of the circle, Hazel Harlow. Under her direction several girls read snapshots of the King's Daughters Circles in foreign countries.

Thursday night, parents and friends as well as campers enjoyed a beautiful Ceremonial. The honor awards were as follows: Junior Spirit badge: Verna Crowell, Elizabeth Morrison, Laura Gilbert; Senior Spirit badge: Marie de Granges, Barbara Payne, Barbara Claire, Jean Fuller, Sylvia Kenley, Katherine Nuzum, Joan Weeks, Elizabeth Crosby, Judith Alexander. First stripe on Junior Spirit badge, Jean McIntosh. Second stripe on senior spirit badge: Virginia Hamilton; Accepted into E. T. H.: Marjorie Moses; First E. T. H. leadership group stripe, Barbara Little; C. W. Barbara Dean; Junior Counsellorship, Dorothy Keefe.

Powers' Paragraphs

We have been asked why the three measured miles on Watertown and Washington sts. have been marked every third of a mile when speedometers are divided by tenths of miles? Sealer of Weights & Measures Prior, under whose direction the measured area was defined, explains that the streets were marked originally for the purpose of testing meters of taxi-cabs when there was a fare schedule based on thirds of miles, and that he had suggested changing the distance units this year to half miles, but as this would necessitate surveying and remarking the measured distance, the change was postponed until next year.

There was another discussion at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night about two-family houses. It occurred following the adverse report of the Claims & Rules Committee on a petition which sought to have a lot of land on Centre st., Newton Centre, changed from single to private residence zone so that two family houses might be built on this lot. At a hearing held recently at City Hall before the Claims & Rules Committee and the Planning Board on this petition, bitter opposition developed and denunciations were made to the crowding of two family houses on lots recently developed at Newton Centre by persons.

The controversy over two-family houses in Newton which has been so much in evidence the past few years amuses the writer. Because, as we have stated in this column before, many houses in various sections of this city have been altered in recent years from single residences to dwellings for two and more families, not only in general and private residence zones, but also in single residence zones. And this is no secret. Persons residing near houses so changed, know that more than one family occupies such houses. Letter carriers who deliver mail at the houses know that more than one family reside in them. Policemen who did the assessing know it. So do members of the city government. And while there has been an increasing trend toward the conversion of single residences (including those in single residence zones), into dwellings for more than one family, there has been consistent reluctance on the part of the Board of Aldermen to grant permits for such changes in single residence zones. Although persons residing near a dwelling which some one formally petitions to have changed from single to a two-family residence, in most cases strongly object to such petitions, Newton people seem to accept complacently conversions of single residences in their neighborhoods into dwellings for two and more families, and alterations in former two-family dwellings so that some are now occupied by four and more families. We know of one which has been occupied by six families. So, it is not to be wondered at that more and more houses in this city have been changed so that they may be occupied by two and more families, not only in apparent violation of Newton's zoning ordinance, but also of its building code. Property owners who have tried to act in accordance with Newton's zoning ordinance and building code, usually have met with little success. Those who went ahead and made the change without obtaining official permission, have got away with it.

The Building Code of Newton, as published in the revised ordinances of 1939, is quite elaborate. It covers from page 137 to page 363 in the volume. It goes into great detail regarding types of buildings, materials, construction, fireproofing, means of egress, chimneys and flues, and plumbing. It defines a dwelling as a building in which not more than two families dwell independently, and in which no part is used for business purposes. It specifies that an apartment is a room or suite of rooms with kitchen facilities, and that an apartment house is a building containing three or more apartments. An apartment building over two stories in height must be of fireproof construction. Therefore, a frame building over two stories high, and where three or more families reside is illegal. Strict provisions are specified for stairways and fire escapes in buildings occupied by several families. Requirements for chimneys and flues are exacting. So are those for stoves and cooking appliances.

The requirements for plumbing in Newton buildings are especially rigid when compared with many places. But, it is by deception in plumbing permits that many houses in Newton have been altered into dwellings for two and more families. A permit would be obtained ostensibly for a lavatory sink in a bedroom, with a waste pipe not over 1½ inches in diameter. The room containing the sink would be used for kitchen purposes. And extra bathrooms installed in houses have been in many cases for extra apartments.

It was realized years ago that there were (and still are) in Newton large houses of obsolete type which could not be continued to be used as single residences. In order to give relief to owners of such properties the zoning ordinance was amended some years ago so that the Board of Aldermen might grant permission to alter and adapt such dwellings in single residence zones for use by not more than two families provided that the building was assessed for taxes on or before April 1, 1925, had a ground floor area greater than 1200 square feet, and that its general appearance as a single residence was maintained. This amendment was just and reasonable.

No fair-minded person would deny reasonable use of properties in this city to their owners. But why be hypocritical. If the Newton building code is too strict, if our zoning ordinance is too severe, liberalize them. But, our city government should not continue to be influenced by protests against petitions honorably made for the right to build two-family houses, when it is common knowledge that in most neighborhoods of this city, including single residence zones, there are dwellings occupied by two or more families, living independently of each other, and with separate cooking and sanitary facilities.

District Attorney Dewing, speaking yesterday at Amherst before the Massachusetts Grange urged that dog-racing be driven out of Massachusetts. Why discriminate, Mr. Dewing? Why not drive horse race gambling out also? Is it because those who gamble by legalized pari-mutuel at the horse races include the wealthy as well as the poor, while few of the wealthy attend the dog races?

Yesterday President Roosevelt ordered an embargo on petroleum and scrap metals without a special license, and the papers stated it is aimed particularly at Japan. Isn't that nice of the President? Only it's about 3 years too late.

A Boston newspaper a few days ago told of a freighter which had arrived in Boston and gave the names of some aristocrats who had arrived on her as refugees from war-stricken Britain. One of them was a "count" with a hyphenated name which seemed Russian. It was explained that the count had come here to give lectures on conditions in England and that the countess would come over here soon. The count is doing his bit for Britain, over here.

Something definite has finally been done regarding compulsory military training. There are still many who argue that it is unnecessary, and call it "hysteria." Others believe that we have delayed so long that Hitler, Mussolini and Japan may successfully wage aggression in the Western Hemisphere before the U. S. A. is prepared to resist effectively. It is a safe bet, however, that Congress will approve some form of compulsory military training, and it should do so as quickly as possible.

According to the proposed plans for the draft, married men, those with dependents and conscientious objectors will be exempted. Remembering what happened in 1917, there will probably be a large increase in marriages during the month of August and there also be many converts the next few weeks to those religious sects whose members refuse to engage in any war.

If the expected attack on Gibraltar by the combined forces of Germany, Italy and Spain succeeds, one of the biggest insurance companies in this country will be in an embarrassing situation. It will have to change the trade-mark it has used for many years.

55 YEARS AGO

The members of the Newton City Government will take their annual excursion on July 15 along the North Shore on the S.S. Empire State. Those entitled to tickets should apply to Benjamin Otis, City Auditor.

The new railroad station at Brighton was opened to the public on Monday afternoon. It is built of Braggville granite with Longmeadow trim, the same as is the new stations at Chestnut Hill and Auburndale.

It seems as though the Board of Health should compel owners of houses to look more carefully after sanitary laws. The odor-wafted from neglected vaults on several of the principal streets is anything but exhilarating and is a disgrace to the city. This is not confined to small, unpretentious houses, but such odors also emanate from houses that bring a rental of from $300 to $500 a year.

Joseph Seaver, the 4-year-old son of William Seaver of Lower Falls, is quite sick with typhoid fever, contracted it is thought at school, owing to there being several offensive cesspools in the vicinity of the school house.

The proposed belt road for horse-car is one of the very desirable improvements hoped for in the near future. It will bind this city together as nothing else can. The proposed line will commence at the depot in Newton Centre, thence through Institution ave. to Beacon and Walnut sts., passing Newton Cemetery along Walnut st. to Newtonville, thence up Washington st. to City Hall, West Newton, where it will connect with the Walnut street railway. It will also go from Newtonville to Newton to connect with the Cambridge railway. A meeting of those interested in the project was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Shoe & Leather Building, Boston.

There were 30 gentlemen present at the meeting at the Shoe & Leather Building and Mr. Horace B. Parker of Newtonville presided. He said that greater intercommunication facilities between the various villages of Newton is needed and that the Newton Circuit steam railroad does not provide it. The president of the Cambridge railway, Mr. Raymond, was questioned as to the cost of the proposed Newton street railroad. He stated that the cost of construction, with a pavement between the rails, together with small equipment, would be $52,000. He suggested the use of one-horse cars without a conductor.

The one-mile and five-mile open to the world bicycle races at Woodstock, Ontario, last week were easily won by Edward P. Burnham of Newton, on his Royal Mail racer, weight 25 pounds. On July 3 at Buffalo he also won the one-mile tricycle championship of America.

50 YEARS AGO

Newton Graphic, July 11, 1890

The old joke of "Hall's horse is dead" was revived this week. Old-timers say they had not heard it for 40 years.

Bickford Hornbrooke, younger son of Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke, fell from a cherry tree on Thursday, breaking the bone of his left forearm and dislocating his elbow.

Police Officer Charles O. Davis returned from Pascoag, Rhode Island, on Sunday with his well marked roadsters. He left Pascoag where he had been spending a brief vacation, at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and arrived in West Newton at 3:15 that afternoon. The distance is 60 miles and the horses appeared to be in good condition for 20 miles more.

Hammond Pond at Chestnut Hill is higher than the top of the steeple of the Park street church in Boston, and this gives an idea of how high other parts of Chestnut Hill are.

Messrs. Rand, Parker, Shannon, Bartholomew and other Newton Centre gentlemen and their wives took a barge ride to Oakland Gardens last Monday evening to see the "Fall of Babylon." They had a delightful trip and avoided the discomfort of the crowds which fill all the street cars after the performances. They arrived home as soon as others who came by the last train.

Hon. Leverett Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill and his family have gone to "The Glades" at North Scituate.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night the petition of Stevens Brothers for a permit to operate a rendering plant on California st., Nonantum, near the Watertown line, came up. Mr. Lamb appeared for the petitioners, and J. B. Goodrich was counsel for the remonstrants, mostly persons who live nearby in Watertown. Mr. Lamb said the rendering would be done in the cleanest way and care taken to prevent odors. He said the petitioners are worthy young men who want to make a living. Mr. Goodrich said the place was once closed by the Board of Health as a nuisance and is now being operated contrary to law, making those responsible liable to a fine of $200 a month. Messrs.

Camp F. A. Day

CIRCUS COMES TO CAMP DAY

The halfway mark in each Camp Day season is annually celebrated by the coming of the Circus. Preparations this year are underway to make this year's event equal or surpass last year's gala success, and tomorrow is the day set aside for the Circus Day. C. Evan Johnson has selected the committees which will attempt to establish a record day. Professor Fred L. Daye contributes much to the enjoyment of the main ring show, and this year, assisted by Mr. Sid Roberts of the Craft Shop, and teacher in the Falmouth Junior High School, a collection of wild animals has been made much superior to that of last year's show.

Campers play an integral part in the Circus, not only performing in the various acts of the main ring and side shows, but also conducting concession booths which line the field. In this latter department keen rivalry is fostered among the boys for the most successful booth, and prizes are awarded at the final banquet to the winners. Ring games, ball-tossing games and animal races similar to the many fairs held among the summer colonies result from the boys' efforts to win money from the pockets of the many visitors.

Parents and nearby residents are all invited to witness the Camp Day Circus tomorrow afternoon on the Camp grounds and if the past is any indication of the future, there should be a huge crowd coming to the scene to watch the parade led by the Camp band, and then to enjoy the many and diversified acts which follow on the ballfield.

The following are the committees and members which are working to make the day a success:

Band—Robert Myers, music teacher at Cambridge, Ohio; Stephen Randall, Earlham College, William Turkington of Boston.

Finance and Bank—Walter Ward of Harvard University.

Publicity—Gardner Hess, graduate of Newton High and Cornell University, 1944; Ben Alexander of Yale, Warren Tepper of Yale.

Animals—Professor Daye, Sid Roberts of Falmouth Junior High, Ed Frye of Fitchburg Teachers' College.

Side Show—Richard Hess of Queens College, Bob Hayton of Tufts, George Alcott of Tufts, Ed Keenan of University of Vermont.

Crowns—Warren Kelley of Tufts; Bill McLellan of Hebron, Alex Andrews of Tufts, Stan Thompson of William and Mary.

Pyramids and Tumbling—Duncan Whitehill of Harvard Dental School, James Martin, Algy Shapalis and Don Weeks of Newton High.

Store and Sales—Dick Karb of Framingham High, Arthur Barnard of Manhassett, L. I.; Norman Tepper of North Carolina University.

Pageant—Everett Bauman of Harvard Graduate School, David Clare of Amherst College.

Concessions—Prescott Coan of Amherst College; the Rangers.

FIRST CANOE REGATTA

On last Saturday afternoon on the Camp waterfront the first canoe regatta of the Camp Day season was conducted by the Waterfront Committee headed by Mr. O'Donnell, assisted by Gardner Hess, Robert Hayton, George Alcott, Ben Alexander, Robert Myers and Lew McKinney. The Senior camp competition on a basis of League competition resulted in a tie between the Tigers and the Indians. Jack Callahan kept the Indians in the race by capturing the single blade and the Run, Swim and Paddle events. In the Junior camp the Giants were out in front all the way chiefly through the efforts of Jack Clark, Don Cashin and Billy Kepner who garnered twenty of the twenty-seven points scored by that team. The Reds and Dodgers were far in the rear at all points were finally tabulated. Dartmouth overwhelmed Cornell in the Midget camp with Godfrey Chafer and Arthur Dudley showing the way.

Results: Senior Camp—Single Blade: 1, Callahan; 2, Axelrod; 3, Brewer; Doubles: 1, Magee-Needy; 2, Masterson-Seaward; 3, Tie, Pope-Glaser and Kolsti-Morse; Gunwhales—1, Brewer; 2, Johnson; 3, Corthell. In and Out: 1, Roope-Corthell; 2, Carr-Morse; 3, Schweitzer-Malton; Run, Swim, Paddles: 1, Callahan; 2, Hansen; 3, Coon.

A True Fish Story

Stephen Hemphill of Watertown can look back to last Thursday as a red letter day in his life, for, he achieved the goal of every fisherman by catching the largest fish of the year, and on the succeeding day his name was on the first page of several large metropolitan dailies besides "going over the air." The story has had several versions, but the true version is simple enough.

Keith, Derby, Robbins and Ingraham of Watertown protested and stated they had been rendered unhappy by the odors from the rendering plant. Mr. Lamb argued that the Stevens Brothers had whitewashed the place. Mr. Keith replied that a skunk would smell just as bad even if you whitewashed him. Mr. Lamb called on Agent French of the Board of Health, after which the hearing was closed.

A group of older boys were learning to cast under the direction of Ed Keenan of the University of Vermont. Steve looked on for some time, and then decided to cast for himself. Finding a tin can behind the mess hall he returned to the beach and sought to exemplify his older campers, but went to the opposite end of the beach. Minnows were his only expectation, and for a time he was happy in gathering the many that abound in the lake waters.

About fifteen minutes later his eyes opened wide with surprise as he saw his fish swimming slowly towards his trap. Warily the fish approached, and just as warily Steve eyed the prize. Suddenly, it seemed the fish was in the can, and with a quick upward sweep the conqueror captured his victim and rushed to shore. There with wonder and astonishment on his face Steve tossed the catch on the beach. Campers overwhelmed the novice fisherman now the envy of all, and cameras went into action.

The boys carried the large-mouthed bass to the kitchen, and there Chief Nils Johnson measured and weighed it. Twenty-two inches in length, and five pounds and one-half in weight was the official recording. Mr. Keenan and Professor Daye took charge of the catch from this point on and soon it will adorn the walls of the Nature Hall in mounted form.

The general reaction of the Camp has been one of happiness that one of the campers has been the one to capture the largest catch of the season from Lake Quacumquasset. Many are the fishermen from surrounding towns who have come to the Lake in the past number of seasons, but few have ever approached the size of this prize. Another reaction noted is the increased number of campers who have sought to emulate Steve's deed, but this time in boats and with all the necessary appurtenances of the older fisherman.

Brookfield Baseball Game

Friday afternoon the Brookfield Town baseball team made a return trip to Camp Day ball field and were successful in defeating the Campers by the margin of 8 to 6. Director Hess umpired the game throughout, and was assisted on the bases by Assistant Director Tom O'Donnell. The boys of the Camp played the first three innings of the game, and went out of the contest with the score tied. Not so fortunate were the Counselors, for they were the recipients of the visitors' bats, and lost the game.

Starting off the game for the campers were the following: Bob Seaward, catcher; Carl Needy, pitcher; R. Humphrey, first base; Gil Tibolt, second; Bob Tibolt, third; Bill Hansen, short stop; Jack Callahan, left field; Dick Turnbull, center field; George Roope, right field. Bob Carr, Ricky Morse, Malcolm Morse and Corthell played prominent parts in the game as well. After the game was completed the entire Camp enjoyed the rare late-evening "dip," and then went to the Grove where the Chief had made ready more than two hundred ice cream cones. Visitors as well as the campers enjoyed this treat, and the day was marked down as a future "must" repeat.

Barbecue on Last Monday

Nils Johnson is the world's best chef, according to the boys of Camp Day, for not only is he remarkable in the kitchen, but he also surpasses in the out-of-doors. In past years he has given the boys something to talk about in the preparation of the annual out-door barbecue. Scheduled for last Monday night this year's event was forced indoors by the sudden thunderstorm which swept the Brookfield area. But Nils was up to it and transferred the equipment and served a real barbecue dinner that lost little of its flavor from the forced change in plans.

To make the evening one of real merriment in spite of the rain a tent cheer contest was conducted directly after the barbecue, and winners were decided by the Directors of the camp. The winner in the Senior Camp was Tent One composed of Counsellor Sid Roberts, George Roope, John Corthell, Francis Beale, Curt Fisher, Gus Chartier, Phil Johnson and Arthur Kolsti.

The Junior Camp contest was won by Tent 12 made up of Warren Kelley, counsellor, Billy Kepner, Lindsay Russell, Lincoln Gould, Dale Burnett, David Ellis, Jack Clark and Bob Harris. Midget honors went to Tent 22 composed of Arthur Wright, counsellor, Wallace Simmons, Ed Brown, John Raymond, Arthur Dudley, Robert Kepner and Bill Harvey.

Sunbeam Chats

On real warm days my Mother gives me plenty to drink—water is awful good—nice, cool water (no ice in it, please) but sometimes I like a change. My mother makes the best drinks. She keeps cans of unsweetened fruit juices of all kinds, tomato juice, fresh lemons and limes in the ice box all the time. I heard her tell Daddy she wasn't going to fill her family's stomach with stuff out of bottles and packages that is cold and sweet but not a bit nutritious. When she spends her money she wants vitamin value! Isn't she smart?

(Sunbeam Chats are sponsored by the Newton District Nursing Association.)

BOSTON EDISON COMPANYRotary Club

The regular meeting of the Newton Rotary Club was held on Monday, July 22nd, at the Brae Burn Country Club. The speaker was Mr. R. F. Lybeck, an engineer of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Covering rapidly the history of "nature's most valuable crude product" from the drilling of the first oil well in 1859 to the present time, he explained how this industry, which plays such an important part in our national life has developed until today it gives employment to 4,000,000 people and has an annual payroll of one and one-quarter billion dollars. Merely mentioning the products such as gasoline, fuel oil, lubricating oil, waxes, etc., of which we are all familiar, he then told of the more recent developments. One of the most valuable recent contributions is in aviation. Iso-Octane gasoline, with an octane value of 100, was first developed commercially in 1930. Its entire production is within the United States. Similar aviation products in Europe have an octane value of only 75. This means that ships using our gasoline can outfly and outmaneuver those of any other nation. We need have no fear on this ground.

Another important group of products which were formerly wasted, but which serve the entire cross-section of industry, are the iso-propyl, butyl, and hexyl alcohols. Ethyl and methyl alcohol can also be made from crude petroleum. By controlling the paraffin present, lubricants are provided for all industries. The production of synthetic rubber is in the foreground, at the present time. The original work on this product was done in 1860, but the more recent studies began in 1927. Synthetic rubber has already been developed in Germany from coal and has been found to be more satisfactory for tires. The United States uses 550,000 tons of rubber yearly, 95 per cent of which is imported. The American chemists are well on the way of providing us with an ample supply of various types of synthetic rubber which will make us independent of outside sources. One plant already operating in Louisiana will be producing 10 tons daily by the first of the year. The price will be commensurate with the natural product. Another curiosity for which a valuable use has been found is a highly sticky material which is added to lubricants. A glass-like material, acrylic resin, is taking the place of glass in many forms.

Speaking of the future, Mr. Lybeck ventured the opinion that even if we discount 100 per cent all the petroleum below the earth's crust at the present time, our grandchildren will still be using gasoline, or at least a petroleum product in their automobiles. As proof of this statement, he told of one oil shale bed in Utah which has already been surveyed and has been proved to contain two and one-half times as much petroleum as we have already taken out of the ground. We have at least three such beds. The American chemists and engineers have been leading the world since 1914. New products are being developed continuously and new uses for old products are being found. The speaker held his audience until the closing gong by this most timely and interesting subject. Visitors were present from Somerville, Waltham, Watertown, and Needham Clubs.

Incendiary Fire At Nonantum

A house at the rear of 350 Watertown st., Nonantum, owned by the Morgan Mahoney estate, was damaged by fire to the extent of about $2000 early Monday morning. The small frame building is used for office and storage purposes and is in a congested neighborhood. The fire was discovered at 12:58 a. m. Monday and an alarm pulled from Box 24. Police believe that the fire was set by the same person or persons who broke into the Nonantum Market at 342 Watertown st., adjoining the burned building. The burglar, someone evidently acquainted with the market, gained entrance by removing a grating from a cellar window, and stole $7 from a shelf in the store. The burglary was discovered when employees arrived at the market on Monday morning.

Two Collisions At Same Spot

About 7:15 Saturday evening a car driven by Norman Mason, 18, of Holliston, went out of control on Lexington st., Auburndale, near Wolcott st., skidded 150 feet and hit a tree. Two of four passengers in Mason's car stated that they had received injuries. Philip Walsh of Bowker rd., Waltham, received a head injury, and Hardy Robinson of Bruce rd., Waltham, an ankle injury. They were treated by Dr. L. A. Annis of Auburndale.

A police car with Patrolmen Elliott and John E. Green went to the scene of the accident, and about 7:30 while the police car was parked at the place, it was hit in the rear by an automobile driven by Burnham Smith of 48 Jerby st., West Newton. Smith said his vision was obscured by rain. James Combs of Adams st., Waltham, who was riding with him, received cuts on his face. Patrolman Elliott reported that he had received injuries to his back and neck.

Newton Woman Injured When Car Crashes House

An automobile driven by Mrs. Ellen Doyle, 25, of 57 Duncklee st., Newton Highlands, crashed into the house of George Trotter at 299 Central ave., Needham, about 1:30 Sunday morning and caused damage estimated at about $1500. The Doyle woman was driving alone along Central ave. and lost control on the curve near the corner of Wellesley ave. where the Trotter home is located. The speeding automobile plunged through a hedge and crashed into the porch at the house, awakening Mr. and Mrs. Trotter. They rushed downstairs to find the wrecked porch becoming ablaze from the automobile, which had caught afire. Trotter attached his garden hose to a faucet and extinguished the flames. The car was owned by John E. Cotter of 120 Hillside ave., Needham.

Mrs. Doyle received internal injuries and was taken to the Glover Hospital, Needham. On Monday she was removed to Boston City Hospital.

Not Guilty of Drunken Driving

Judge Nagle in the Newton court last Friday found Earl Corbett of Robin Hood ave., Needham, not guilty on charges of drunkenness and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Patrolman John Mullen testified that on the night of July 11 he observed Corbett while under the influence of liquor enter an automobile at the corner of Langley rd. and Sumner st., accompanied by a young woman, and that he started toward the car, but before he reached it, Corbett drove off. Shortly after the pair returned to the place and Mullen placed them both under arrest; the woman on a drunkenness charge. The car was found parked on Centre st.

Rowe Candidate For Congress

"Congress is the first line of defense of the American people. Congress determines whether we have war or peace. On all policies of preparedness and national defense it is imperative that Wendell Wilkie, our next President, be given the support of a progressive, vigorous, Republican Congress," said Edward M. Rowe, prominent Boston attorney, who today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to Congress from the Ninth Congressional District. Rowe is the past president of the Cambridge Bar Association and former Director of Debating at Harvard. As a candidate for the nomination in 1938, he received 13,000 votes. He has long been actively associated with the progressive elements of the Republican party and is head of the Speakers Bureau of the Young Men's Republican Council.

"Our present Congressman has voted against measure after measure that would have given our people a stronger army, navy, and air corps. It follows that he might be replaced by one awake to the needs of our day and generation," continued Mr. Rowe.

"I am a candidate for the office and pledge myself to work and vote for:

1. Generous extension of credit to attacked democratic nations.
2. No involvement in foreign war unless in defense of the Americas and Americans.
3. The strongest possible National Defense with complete modernization and co-ordination of army, navy, and air corps.
4. Universal obligation to serve in the national defense and universal training for such service.
5. Reducing the costs of all departments of the federal government excepting those for national defense.
6. Ending New Deal bureaucracy and removing the restrictions that hamper business recovery.
7. Driving the Communists and their fellow-travelers, Nazis and Fascists, and all other anti-American elements, from the many departments of the federal government.

"I have publicly advocated these steps since 1936. Had they been in effect we would now be able to meet the crisis confronting us. It is not too late. Their immediate adoption will preserve our American traditions and freedom."

Gardner Candidate For Commissioner

Harry R. Gardner of Medford will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner. He is a member of the Medford Republican Club and the Young People's Republican Club.

Scientific Name

When the French zoologist, Milne-Edwards, was looking for a scientific name for the big Kewchew monkey with a funny turned-up nose, he paid a lovely lady with a tip-tilted nose named Roxana, then a favorite at the royal court, the rhinoceros compliment of calling it Rhinopithecus roxanae after her, according to an article in Natural History. It is not recorded how the lady reacted to this bit of Gallic gallantry.

Morrison Out For Councillor

Henry I. Morrison, well-known lawyer, of 89 Evelyn rd., Newton, with offices in The Ames Building in Boston, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the Third Councillor District, which includes Newton.

Mr. Morrison is planning to carry on a vigorous campaign throughout the district, which includes 40 cities and towns, four wards in Boston and parts of Cambridge and Lowell.

A self-made man, Mr. Morrison has been engaged in the practice of law for more than 30 years and has had wide experience in financial and real estate enterprises.

He is a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Courts and the Boston, Middlesex and Massachusetts Bar Associations. He held public office in Malden, where he lived before coming to Newton and during the World War he was in charge of one of the Exemption Boards in Newton. He is a member of many charitable and fraternal organizations. He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

His host of supporters are of the opinion that he is eminently qualified by his varied experience in business and the practice of law to serve with distinction on the Governor's Council. He is widely known for his boundless energy, as a quick thinker and a hard worker.

"As a civic duty a man should devote a part of his time for the benefit of the Commonwealth in which he lives. That is why I am a candidate for the Governor's Council from the Third Councillor District," Mr. Morrison stated, in announcing his candidacy today.

"As a practical man I do not promise the impossible, but advocate the possible and reasonable, and if I am elected the best interests of the people will receive my first consideration."

Rally For Bushnell At West Newton

Newton Republicans turned out in force last night at Odd Fellows Hall, Northgate Park, for a home-town rally for Robert T. Bushnell, former district attorney of Middlesex County and now candidate for Republican nomination for Attorney General.

Mayor Paul M. Goddard presided and introduced Mr. Bushnell, whose home is at 193 Fuller st., West Newton. Among those who were active in arranging the affair were Atty. Hugh Boyd and Herman Wells.

Mayor Goddard introduced Atty. Bushnell in glowing terms, referring to his outstanding service as district attorney of Middlesex County, his success in the law, and his long years of activity in behalf of the Republican party. He prophesied Mr. Bushnell's nomination and election by sweeping majorities.

The enthusiastic audience listened to former Dist. Atty. Bushnell declare that the nomination of the Willie-McNary ticket had fired the Republican party with new vigor and the assurance of victory, not only nationally, but in the states and small communities.

In these trying times, he said, Democracy must be made to work better than it ever has before. "We can no longer afford waste and inefficiency," he said. "If half the money that has been wasted and stolen from the American people during the last 10 years had been spent on national defense, we would now be so well prepared that there would be no question of American involvement in conflict."

"Next to the national emergency," he continued, "it is of the utmost importance that the standard of the state governments be set on the highest possible plane of unselfish patriotism, integrity and efficiency. We have every reason to be proud of the record of the present Republican administration in Massachusetts, despite the fact that the office next in importance to that of Governor, the Attorney Generalship, was lost to the Republican party in 1938 by 145,000 votes."

"In seeking the office of Attorney General this year, I am mindful of the fact that in a time of emergency the office is of greater importance than ever. The Attorney General is the chief counsel for the entire state, in charge of administration of the criminal law and the civil attorney of the entire commonwealth."

Expressing complete satisfaction with the progress of the campaign, and his gratitude to the many workers throughout the state who are supporting his candidacy, Mr. Bushnell stated that when he is elected the Attorney General's office will be a real law office of the public of Massachusetts, devoted solely to the legal interests of that one client.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, July 28.

The Golden Text is: "O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise, even with my glory. . . . For thy mercy is great above the heavens; and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds" (Psalms 108:1, 4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things. . . . Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (II Timothy 2:7, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot build safely on false foundations. Truth makes a new creature, in whom old things pass away and 'all things become new.' Passions, selfishness, false appetites, hatred, fear, all sensuality, yield to spirituality, and the superabundance of being is on the side of God, good" (p. 201).

Treasury Gadget

Stretched across the top of the tellers' windows of the state treasurer's office in Springfield, Ill., are many strands of wire which look like radio aerials.

Ed Lonergan, press agent for Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, explains they are part of a robbery-burglary system, charged with high voltage to prevent climbing into the treasury office and fixed to set off alarms in police stations.

Cost of the system is $2,600 and it saves $4,000 annually on theft insurance. Little money is kept in the office, but there are many bonds burglars might yen for.

Eye Color of Children

Derived From Parents

Color of one's eyes is determined chiefly by heredity and eye colorings of children are derived from their parents, according to the Better Vision Institute. A parent coming from a family with mixed eye colorings may transmit the coloring of his own eyes, or that of one of his parents, to a child. However, the child of a parent coming from a family all of whom were black-eyed, will probably have black eyes, no matter what the color of eyes of the other parent of the child. If a brown- or black-eyed person coming from a family, some members of which have lighter eyes, marries a person with gray or blue eyes, the probability is that the children will have light eyes. If a blue-eyed person is mated with another blue-eyed person, the children almost certainly will have blue eyes.

Usually when one parent has widely spaced eyes, the children will have eyes set far apart. Also, where just one parent has long eye-lashes, the children ordinarily have long lashes.

Although both eyes of a person usually are of the same color, occasionally persons have unmatched eyes. Several well-known movie stars, for example, have eyes of different colors. Unmatched eyes are not uncommon among domestic animals.

Wages of Auto Workers

Are Highest in History

The "real" wages paid to automobile factory workers—their pay checks in terms of living costs—reached an all-time high in 1939, according to a statement in Automobile Facts, released by the Automobile Manufacturers association.

The magazine asserts that average hourly earnings last year in the motor industry were 92.3 cents, while the cost of living in automotive cities declined slightly from preceding years.

"As automobile production rose from the preceding year, weekly individual earnings in 1939 jumped to the highest figure of the decade, $31.23," the article states.

"The volume of employment and payrolls also experienced sizable gains from the previous year. During 1939, the number of workers on the payrolls averaged 394,000, 29 per cent more than in 1938. Weekly payrolls rose to $12,303,000, up 41 per cent from the previous year."

The figures on "real" wages are based on indexes prepared by the United States bureau of labor statistics which combine data on employment, payroll and living costs. The weekly pay check of the average automobile worker in 1939 had a purchasing power of 121.3 (1929 equals 100), which was 11 per cent over 1938 and the highest in the history of the motor industry.

16 Miles on Tricycle

It was an unfair trick when his parents left him at home while they went on a visit, reasoned eight-year-old Phillip Wingfield of Phoenix, Ariz., so he started out to do something about it.

That was a fair-sized job, since Phillip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wingfield, had gone to Globe, nearly 100 miles northeast of here.

However, little Phil was undaunted. When relatives with whom he had been left were not looking he hopped on his tricycle and started out.

Relatives missed him in a few minutes, and after a brief search of the neighborhood enlisted the aid of police, who broadcast the boy's description to radio cars.

Hours later state highway patrolmen overhauled Phillip peddling his tricycle on the outskirts of Mesa, just under 16 miles east of Phoenix. To the officers' questions little Phil said:

"I'm just trying to catch my daddy and mama!"

Dig for Gold

Men employed in construction of the Ruck-A-Chucky debris dam on the American river near Auburn have turned to gold mining in their spare time, George Pollock of Sacramento, contractor for the dam, revealed.

Site of the dam is in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada, in the Mother Lode country made famous by California's gold strike of nearly a century ago.

About 40 men are employed at the dam, and some of them have made as high as $100 a day in working high quality ore from a pocket opened by the Pollock company in cutting a temporary roadway at the damsite, the contractor said.

The men have not deserted their jobs, he added, but they merely turned to prospecting while it was too wet to work at the damsite for construction work.

Unique Spy Ring

Shanghai is the home of a unique group of espionage agents. Composed of foreigners, mostly Russians, they make a living peddling reports on Far Eastern events to the heads of various powers maintaining intelligence offices in Shanghai.

There is no favoritism. Everyone is welcome to the reports, provided he puts up the necessary cash. It is known that the same reports have often been sold to the Japanese and Chinese intelligence departments.

New Streamlined Trains

Increase Rail Traffic

A report released by Coverdale & Colpitts, consulting engineers of New York, gives a comprehensive survey of the record made by the modern, streamline, lightweight, high-speed passenger trains introduced by railroads in the West, East and South during the last five years. The opening words of the report state that "modern lightweight trains have produced additional passenger traffic and substantial earnings for every railroad placing them in service."

Placing in service of these new streamliners has been one of the most important advances in railroad transportation since the introduction of the sleeping car. There was the possibility of great speed from the first, but the combination of luxurious comfort, high speed and punctual schedules did not come until much later. There has been more progress in bettering railroad service and equipment in the last 10 years than there had been in the preceding 40 years.

The report is largely technical and statistical, but indicates that the improvement the railroads have made in their services gives the American traveling public new vacation opportunities in comfort, speed and low cost.

The streamliners, the Denver Zephyrs of the Burlington, built by the Budd Manufacturing company, according to the report, produced the greatest gross revenue of any trains reported on in the year ended June 30, 1939. Other streamliners that have enjoyed great popular favor are those of the Santa Fe, Northwestern-Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, Northwestern, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Illinois Central, Seaboard, Atlantic Coast line and other roads.

Wasps Blamed for North

Carolina's Bald Mounts

Wasps are to blame for North Carolina's "bald mountains," according to a recent explanation of Dr. W. A. Gates, of the Louisiana State university. Until Dr. Gates came along with his brand-new explanation, many other theories were advanced for the so-called "bald mountains."

With North Carolina dotted with these so-called "bald mountains," some of the theories advanced included that the soil on the mountain tops is lacking some of the elements necessary to the growth of the timber. Another theory was that the Indians used to clear or burn off these prominences on which nature eventually gave up trying to grow anything except grass or scrubby bushes.

In a recent study of two mountains, Dr. Gates discovered a countless army of wasps around the edge of the area being denuded. These bugs make short work of oak trees covering hundreds of acres, Dr. Gates said, in explaining his theory for the denuded areas.

Television Apparatus Dwindles

Television is showing tendencies to expand—that is in all respects except the amount of apparatus required, particularly for outdoor pickups.

For instance, when New York's tele-transmitter, operated by the National Broadcasting company with the RCA system, went into operation in the spring of last year, two healthy-sized vans were required to carry the equipment to televise football and other outdoor events. One had the apparatus to make the camera function, the other carried the transmitter to relay the signal to the main station on the Empire State building.

Now this all has been reduced to such an extent that only about one-tenth as much material, in weight, is needed. In fact instead of two motor vans, a station wagon or even a limousine can haul the equipment around. What's more, the cost is one-sixth of the other unit.

Art Collection

All the Dutch pictures in the Cook collection—the most magnificent private collection in England—have been acquired after long negotiations by the art firm of Nathan Katz of Dieren, Holland, it has been revealed.

Since the death of Sir Herbert Cook, for many years chairman of Cook, Son & Co., Ltd., manufacturers, rumors have been prevalent concerning disposal of his art possessions at Doughty House, Richmond.

Among the various Vandycks included in the collection is the original sketch done for the "Betrayal of Christ" in the Prado at Madrid; the array of works by Rubens includes the "Brazen Serpent," which used to be ascribed to Vandyck when he studied in the atelier of Rubens.

Freeing Industry

A proposal to eliminate the bottleneck of the tool and die section of the aviation industry by deferring next year's automobile models and thereby speeding up America's emergency preparedness program is only one of the many plans now under authoritative consideration in Washington.

America would be glad to ride in 1940 auto models in 1941 if it meant getting more of the 50,000 airplanes into the air which Mr. Roosevelt has set as his maximum defense goal, it is declared here.

Hawker Arrested At Playground

On Monday night Charles E. Gould of Lynn was arrested by Chief of Police Hughes and Inspector Patrick King at the festa held by Societe Maria del Carmine at Hawthorn Playground for hawking and selling without a license. Gould had been previously warned by Inspector King but persisted in selling small flags, asserting that he had paid for a concession space on the playground. He told Inspector King that he is a fourth year law student, but before he was arraigned in court on Tuesday morning, Gould admitted that he was in error and asked King for leniency. The Inspector yielded to his plea and interceded with Judge Mayberry, with the result that after a plea of nolo the case was filed.

Inspector King went to the Hawthorn Playground on Saturday to observe the various concessions which were there in connection with the festa. Certain games which he considered gave little chance to win to those who played them, King ordered stopped. He also ordered that other concessions be kept closed on Sunday.

Conditioning Class At Y. M. C. A.

In order to prepare the men of the community for whatever arduous service either civil or military that may be ahead the Newton Y. M. C. A. has embarked upon an intensive training program for physical conditioning to be conducted during the months of August and September. The Y. M. C. A. believes that those men who now prepare themselves physically will be in a much better condition for military service should they be called into it or to undertake their work with added assurance of physical health next fall and winter.

Classes will begin on Monday, August 5th. Men will be divided into the following age groups: 18-30, daily classes Monday through Friday at 7:15 P. M.; 30-45, daily classes Monday through Friday at 5:45 P. M. The class period will be limited to thirty minutes and will include both exercises in the association's gymnasium and road work on the out of door track and field.

The work will be in charge of Physical Director Richard B. Simmons. It will be progressive and tempered according to the needs and ability of the men enrolled. Men over 30 will be expected to have a physical check up which will be provided by a group of physicians under the direction of Dr. Cecil W. Clark, or a man over 30 may bring in a certificate of fitness for participation from his own physician.

Although men will derive the greatest amount of benefit from the course if they participate daily it is nevertheless expected that great value will be gained by those who come with frequency even though not every day. The brief class period may be followed by a swim in the association's pool for those men who desire the same. The small fee charged to men enrolling in the class will also entitle the men enrolled to enjoy the full association privileges during the two months of the class.

Among the men who in an advisory capacity have assisted the association in developing and planning this course are the following:

D. Webster Anders, Harold D. Ames, president Veterans' Council; F. Sayford Bacon, Arnold C. Barker, Richard H. Blaisdell, Lyscom A. Bruce, Jr., Charles Raymond Cabot, John J. Cahill, president Rotary Club, Doctor Cecil W. Clark, Honorable Edwin O. Childs, Wilfred Chagnon, Thomas V. Cleveland, Basil G. Dandison, Frank A. Day, Henry T. Dunken, Frederic E. Eastman, Roy S. How Red Cross Cares For War Victims

The first "Mercy Ship" of the American Red Cross, the S.S. McKeesport, arrived safely at Marseilles, France, about ten days ago, due to safe conduct under British blockade authorities. It was awaited eagerly by millions of war-weary refugees in southern France, who crowded emergency feeding and housing centers. Its million-dollar cargo of foodstuffs and medical and hospital supplies is even now being distributed to these refugees and war-wounded, under the direction of American Red Cross representatives.

As the days pass, ships and planes are being loaded with similar cargoes and sent to similar groups in other European countries who are awaiting American response with assistance in their tragic plight. And the American people have not failed them, for the contributions they have made toward the fund asked by the American Red Cross make possible the purchase of these supplies.

Interest, naturally, is keen as to how the Red Cross manages to get these supplies into the areas for which they are intended, and how they are using these funds. Chairman Norman H. Davis explains this as follows: "It is the policy of the American Red Cross to extend relief where it is most urgently needed, providing it has the necessary freedom of action and the necessary safeguards in carrying out the distribution of its supplies to the actual victims, whether refugees or war-wounded soldiers. At present there are three distinct areas where need exists and where assistance has been requested: Great Britain; the unoccupied portion of France; and those territories under German occupation."

"In England, an American Red Cross Committee has been set up which receives the medical supplies, clothing, food, and all supplies."

"In unoccupied France, the S.S. McKeesport already has taken its cargo of aid, and in addition a trainload of children's food has been shipped by way of Geneva."

"In occupied territory, aid to Poland has been sent from funds contributed for that specific purpose. American Red Cross supervision safeguards control over the ultimate destination of these supplies. As for other occupied territories, aid to the sick and wounded, and to refugees is being extended only in Paris and vicinity, under the direction of Wayne Chaffield-Taylor, American Red Cross delegate, working in co-operation with the American Hospital and the French Red Cross."

"Beyond this limited activity the American Red Cross is not extending any relief in the occupied portions of France. There are difficulties, such as blockade, transportation, delivery, and control of distribution, which are difficult of solution."

And Chairman Davis gives this assurance to all contributors: "None of the supplies of the Red Cross have been interfered with by any Government or diverted from the needy for whom they are meant, and the American people can rest assured that we do not intend to engage in any operations not adequately safeguarded and which do not give consideration as to the wishes of those who have so generously contributed to the work."

He further states: "Needs of relief are daily increasing in the areas where we are now operating, and will require continuing large outlays."

These contributions of which Chairman Davis speaks gratefully have made possible the purchase of food supplies and medical equipment for these ships and planes that are sailing frequently, as has been stated. But on these same ships there must be the knitted garments and the dresses so desperately needed by destitute refugees, and the surgical dressings so necessary for the war-wounded, and these only the women of the United States can supply by their gift of time and ability. In every city, town, and hamlet, they are busy through these summer days, knitting and sewing, and making the surgical dressings. In Newton, groups have been formed in every section of the city, and all who wish to assist in this humanitarian work will be welcomed by the chairmen of these groups.

Mirror-Making Changed by New 'Silvering' Process

The ancient art of mirror making has yielded at last to modern industrial science.

Since 1835, when Baron Justus von Liebig, a German chemist, poured a silvering solution out of a white china pitcher onto a pane of glass, the pitcher has been the principal tool of the mirror manufacturers. The process was slow and tedious, but despite its handicaps more than 500 mirror makers produced an estimated 80,000,000 square feet of mirror glass annually by the pitcher-pouring process.

William Peacock, Philadelphia metallurgist, is credited with bringing streamline, mass production methods to the mirror industry. After nine years of experimentation and thousands of tests he found a better, quicker method. The principal feature of his new process is a silvering solution that instantaneously deposits a film of silver on a pane of glass.

Because of this instantaneous action, Mr. Peacock was able to spray his silvering solution onto the glass with a spray gun, not unlike those used to paint automobiles. Mirror glass which formerly had to be laid flat on a table can be stood almost erect on racks, saving valuable floor space and cutting down the time required to turn a pane of polished plate glass into a silvered mirror.

Resolutions On George Kellar

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday night the following resolutions were adopted:

July 3, 1940.
George Kellar, until his recent untimely death, was for fifteen years Secretary of the Newton School Committee. A man of character, of genial personality, he performed his duties with extreme faithfulness and diligence, and with unending devotion to the cause of real education. He strove ever for efficient business management of his department, and he sought always to co-operate to the utmost with this Board.

As a member of the Recreation Commission for many years, he devoted abundant time and effort to improve the recreational facilities of this city without thought of reward except for the help he could give to the boys and girls, the hope of the city, the Commonwealth and the Nation.

Therefore, be it resolved that we, the Newton Board of Aldermen, do mourn the passing of this fine associate and faithful public servant as a great loss to our city; and be it further

Resolved that we direct the clerk to send a copy of these resolutions to his family, and file another copy with our records.

Police Have No Revolver Range

Because National Guard armories cannot longer be used by non-military organizations as a result of the national defence activities, the members of the Newton police department are without a range in which to practice revolver shooting. A large percentage of the members of the local police department have practiced sufficiently in recent years to become qualified as marksmen and sharpshooters, and some of them, notably Patrolmen David Dalton and Jack McGrath, have won many prizes at tournaments held by the New England Police Revolver League.

As a result of the Newton police being without a practice range, Mayor Goddard and Chief of Police Hughes have been in conference relative to the erection of a revolver range adjoining police headquarters at West Newton. The Newton Public Buildings Department has drawn plans for a proposed range, and Harold Young, Sponsor's Agent of the WPA for Newton, has made application for a project which would provide the labor to build the structure. The plans are only tentative as the Newton Board of Aldermen would have to take favorable action relative to appropriating money for materials to assure the building of the range.

According to the tentative plans, the range would be built along the West side of police headquarters on the Cherry st. side. It would be below the Washington st. level, as the lot slopes downward. It has been estimated that the cost to the city for materials, including heating and lighting, would be around $7000.

location be changed from business to residence zone.

The reasons for disapproving of renewal permits for billboards at the following locations were—349-363 Watertown st., Nonantum, on the roof of a building; because this location is opposite an apartment building, and the big sign reacts detrimentally against the health of occupants of the apartments; and the locations of billboards at 337 and 415 Watertown st., Nonantum, and 225 Washington st., Newton Corner create traffic hazards.

An application for renewal of a billboard permit near 88 Needham st., Newton Highlands was approved, but a renewal for a permit for a billboard at the opposite side of Needham st. was disapproved. Alderman Fahney stated that one side of the street was enough. A renewal of the permit for a billboard on the roof of the building at Washington st., Newton Corner was granted to the Donnelly Company.

Home-Loving Sex

Now Has Wanderlust

"This is a woman's world, and in planning our trips and cruises we first ask ourselves what 'the head of the family' will think," says Robert R. Mathews of the American Express travel service. "Over 60 per cent of all those who travel for pleasure belong to the so-called 'home-loving sex' and, in making a choice on travel, we figure that feminine fancy is a directing—if not the deciding—factor in the majority of cases."

The average woman traveler is very tolerant of the shortcomings of her fellowman—up to a given point, says Mathews. She can take her dictators or leave them; she doesn't mind rags or poverty as long as it's picturesque; or lack of plumbing as long as it is somebody else's plumbing.

But heaven help the unfortunate cruise director who brings her to a hotel that hasn't all the latest nickel-plated fixtures, and if even so much as one humble cockroach should inadvertently cross her path—why, the trip is off.

As a result of the continued bidding of the Riverside Sand & Gravel, coupled with the able assistance of our former Mayor in twice rejecting all bids and apparently agreeing to some changing of the high bidder's figures, the Riverside Sand & Gravel Company was awarded one half the contract.

Now let us see how the contract was really divided between the high and the low bidder. The City Comptroller has given me the following figures covering deliveries of sand during 1939:

It is quite obvious that the low bidder got very little of the business.

The final contracts were not signed until about July 18, so that the Riv-

Plans are under way to organize a group of public-spirited women in Newton who are interested in preventive and correctional eye care for underprivileged men, women and children, in this community. The project is being sponsored by the Massachusetts Optometric Clinic at 1112 Boylston st., in Boston, which for the past thirty years has been carrying on visual surveys among charitable organizations, schools, and welfare departments, for the purpose of increasing visual efficiency.

Already similar groups have been formed in other suburban communities of Boston, which seek out in their respective localities those charitable organizations, clubs, schools, etc., which are willing to participate with the clinic, in its drive for improving eyesight, by undertaking "better vision" projects as part of their group activities. In this way the clinic hopes to make its facilities available especially to underprivileged men, women and children, inasmuch as local people would be more familiar with individuals who need assistance.

erside Sand & Gravel were able to sell sand to the city for a long period, delivered at $1.17 instead of at $3.90 (their final fixed price).

Let us hope that this delay was not on purpose. It most certainly looks as though it was. You will remember that the second set of bids was opened May 23rd, and the final signing not until July 18.

This bill was incurred as a result of this delay. The city bought this sand at $1.17 per cubic yard in spite of the fact that the low bidder stood ready to deliver whatever sand and gravel the city might want during that time, while waiting for the new contracts to be made, at 85c delivered and 47c at pit, and without prejudice; and in spite of the fact that the Riverside Sand & Gravel had a bid at 95c, another at 90c, and one at 85c—this last one at least for a few minutes until it was erased.

Now I do not know whether the former Mayor did all these things on his own or under the magic persuasion of interested parties, but the Riverside Sand & Gravel does a great deal of trucking and snow-removal work for the city. They seem to have been heavily favored in this sand business. The Public Works Committee might well take a look into this situation. Perhaps the company is being favored here too. It may be we could do this work cheaper ourselves.

I believe that we should lay this bill on the table, with the intimation that we might be willing to settle for somewhere between the 85c and 90c which they bid, and let them think it over.

Furthermore, I believe that the Finance Committee should review all the contracts for the last four years—all bids, all rejected bids if any—and go over each and every one of these items with the Comptroller and Heads of Departments, to see whether there are any more of these unethical transactions, such as the secret fixing of prices for this contract—which would seem to have advertised our city business as closed to independent bidders, to the great disadvantage of our taxpayers.

Plan Census of Salmon

One of the first steps to provide for a continuation of the salmon industry in Oregon waters is the establishment of an experimental salmon culture station at Big Eddy. The construction and operation of the station is a result of co-operation between the canning industry, the state and federal fishery agencies.

The state of Oregon took the first move in stocking the station with fish by delivering 200,000 young Chinook salmon. These fish will be held in the pools of the station for a period of time for study by members of the federal bureau of fisheries, the Oregon state game commission, and Willis Rich, internationally known ichthyologist of Stanford university.

The fish will be tagged and recorded for future checks as to migration and loss through activities of salmon fishermen and predatory fish of the ocean.

All fish caught later by the various groups of fishermen will be reported to the fish commission. When all figures are compiled, at the end of the four-year period, the difference between the number of fish released originally and those which return to Five Mile creek will represent the total loss of fish during the period spent in the Pacific and caught by fishermen.

Protect Civil War Trenches

To serve the twofold purpose of beautification and prevention of erosion which threaten to damage Civil war trenches, thousands of blossoming periwinkle were planted in the Fredericksburg-Spotsylvania National Military Park.

Since the matting of underbrush, which for more than 80 years held the earth in place and made a wilderness of the historic battlefields, has been removed, national park service officials have been combating the menace of erosion.

Branch Spalding, co-ordinating superintendent of the Virginia battlefields, said the periwinkle was a little evergreen that produces tiny white blossoms in late April. Mr. Spalding said that through the cooperation of park neighbors, hundreds of roots were gathered for planting.

Sunlight at Night

Through a new process described by the Oil and Colour Chemists' association in England, interior walls can now be painted with special colors absorbing sunlight during the day and giving it back again in the dark, by glowing. This new self-lighting process can be utilized for red, orange, blue, and violet, and finds an especially practical use in the indication of switches, door handles and key holes.
